A Time To Appraise

By JOHN P. McGOFF

Last week, Clifton Wharton, president of Michigan State University was commencement speaker at Johns Hopkins University. Mr. Wharton called on U. S. decision makers to "revise outmoded policies." He proposed "major changes of attitudes and approach in all dimensions of American foreign policy." Mr. Wharton's entire speech was devoted to American foreign policy.

Mr. Wharton's qualifications as a foreign policy expert are slim. He has a Master's degree from the School of Advanced International Studies. His other talents in this area are not apparent.

Mr. Wharton seems to have the hang up that several college presidents have today and that is attempting to be authorities in areas in which they have little or no knowledge. If Mr. Wharton could only inject his proposals for the U. S. to "revise outmoded policies" into the administration of Michigan State University perhaps there would be less takeover by the small radical element. Perhaps Michigan State University would be spared the embarrassment of a "so-called People's Park." If only Mr. Wharton would inject his proposal to the U. S. for "major changes of attitudes and approaches . . ." to his own administration, it is possible that the majority of students at MSU could get the education they are seeking.

If only Mr. Wharton could have devoted his time and energy and talent in that commencement address to analyzing what is wrong with higher education today and in particular, the ills of MSU. May we suggest that he devote his talents in the coming months to building a modern, dynamic administration to lead what was once a highly respected institution of higher learning, out of the confusion and disarray that it is now obviously experiencing.

Our institutions of higher learning are still a major foundation to the democratic way of life. They need the leadership of men with moral courage and stamina to call a halt to the activities of the few who deprive the majority of their rights to an education.

The ranks of college presidents across the country with those qualifications are few. In this state, our hats are off to John Jamrich at Northern Michigan University, Harold Sponberg at Eastern Michigan University, and Ray Smith at Michigan Technological University.

Alabama Governor Mum About Future

By The Associated Press

George C. Wallace has won his bid to recapture Alabama's governorship—the likely prelude to another presidential race in 1972—and Jess Unruh claimed the Democratic nomination against Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Wallace, who overcame a narrow first primary loss, promptly celebrated his victory in Tuesday's Democratic runoff over incumbent Albert P. Brewer by demanding President Nixon "Give us back our schools."

Nearly complete returns gave Wallace 542,154, Brewer 510,442.

In California, Unruh, a slimmed-down version of the man known as "Big Daddy" while speaker of the state's Assembly in the mid-1960s, easily outdistanced Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles. Reagan was unopposed for Republican renomination.

That state's battle of two anti-war Democrats saw Rep. John V. Tunney, son of former heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney, ahead of Rep. George E. Brown Jr., who once threatened to launch impeachment proceedings against President Nixon because of the U.S. attack into Cambodia.

The winner faces incumbent Sen. George Murphy, the one-time actor and dancer, who defeated millionaire industrialist Norton Simon in the GOP primary. Murphy is a strong supporter of President Nixon's policies in Southeast Asia.

With 24 per cent of the state's 21,501 precincts counted, Unruh had 394,055 and Yorty 153,054.

Senatorial totals stood: Tunney 253,979, Brown 206,798; Murphy 304,463, Simon 157,098.

The year's busiest political day so far, with balloting in eight states, saw the renomination of four Democratic senators —Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, John C. Stennis of Mississippi, Harrison A. Williams Jr. of New Jersey and Joseph M. Montoya of New Mexico.

Besides Reagan, two other Republican governors were renominated—Robert D. Ray of Iowa, who was unopposed, and Frank Farrar of South Dakota.

In the day's only major upset, Gov. David Cargo of New Mexico was defeated for the Republican senatorial nomination by Anderson Carter, a conservative rancher and oil man, who now faces Montoya, victorious over former state Rep. Richard Edwards.

In New Jersey, Williams, a 2-to-1 victor over state Sen. Frank J. Guarini, will meet Nelson G. Gross, former state Republican chairman who easily whipped two opponents.

Government Aide Quits Just Before Getting Fired

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The long - simmering unrest within the federal health establishment has burst to the surface with the fiery resignation of the government's chief psychiatrist and his public firing two hours later by the Nixon administration.

The forced departure Tuesday of Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, a career government physician and director of the National Institute of Mental Health, capped months of barely concealed fighting among federal medical officials.

The main issues have been alleged political intervention in scientific matters, scanty budgets, and faltering leadership from President Nixon's men.

Yolles' letter of resignation and hot denunciation came less than an hour after Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, the administration's chief physician, assured newsmen he was successfully treating bureaucratic health problems.

It provided further political embarassment for embattled Health Secretary Robert H. Finch, who just spent two weeks recovering from fatigue attributed in part to the stresses of running the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Finch's leadership has been questioned by his own employes and reportedly by the White House.

Yolles, in his letter of resignation, accused the administration of "abandonment of the mentally ill" and alleged unnecessary budget cuts, and program decentralization to political hands in HEW regional offices. He further complained of research curbs, abnegation of responsibility for drug-abuse control, and "partisan political considerations" in selecting government scientific officials.

Finch condemned the "intemperate" tone of Yolles' letter and declined the psychiatrist's offer of a July 1 resignation. Instead, Yolles was fired on the spot.

Yolles had agreed Monday to resign after Finch aides told him he was no longer wanted.

"But we had to sack him on the spot after seeing that letter," said Frederic V. Malek, HEW deputy undersecretary.

Defense Fund Cut Advocated

WASHINGTON (AP) — House war critics, in an effort aimed at speeding withdrawal of American troops from Southeast Asia, opened a drive today to attach a $6 billion defense spending cut to President Nixon's request for a debt ceiling hike.

Before debate opened today, Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, said his spending cut proposal would "suggest . . . not only that troops should be withdrawn more promptly but that an equivalent number of men should be released from military service."

Backers of Vanik's rider expected defeat, which they said would lead to efforts to kill Nixon's proposed $18 billion increase in the national debt limit to cover expected budget deficits.

They indicated the defense cutting effort was a tough move.

"This is playing rough," Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham, D-N.Y., said Tuesday. "But the President played rough when he approved the move into Cambodia without consultation with Congress—after promising to consult Congress."

The statutory limit on the public debt now stands at $377 billion. The latest increase, $12 billion, was authorized in March 1969. The limit has been raised in most years since the beginning of World War II as spending outstripped revenues, forcing the government to borrow.

Father Of Eight Slain By Thugs

OXFORD (AP) — An Oxford businessman, father of eight children, was found shot to death today behind his dry cleaning establishment.

Neil Churchill, about 40, owner of the Churchill Cleaners, had been shot once, police said.

His body was found by Oxford police, who were notified by State Police that they had received a telephone call reporting the shooting.

Another Oxford resident was arrested in connection with the slaying. He is held in the Oakland County Jail at Pontiac.

Scientists Create Gene; Test Tube Baby Possible

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Scientists have created a gene in the laboratory, a feat that raises questions about the possibility of starting life itself in a test tube.

The announcement of the first man-made gene—the basic unit of heredity that controls all life processes—was made Tuesday by a team headed by a Nobel Prize winner, Dr. H. Gobind Khorana.

The University of Wisconsin team said genes can be made completely from simple organic chemicals.

Nobel Prize Winner

Khorana, who won a 1968 Nobel for earlier work on the genetic code, said the new work might eventually allow scientists to manipulate the biology of a living system.

Some scientists have said in the past that it might be 25 to 100 years before this new knowledge of genetics can be put to work in man.

The first likely application would be in genetic engineering —perhaps infecting humans with viruses that carry new genes, genes that would cure hereditary diseases such as hemophilia.

By making and giving substitute genes, man may be able to make people smarter or taller. Scientists may be able to turn off the growth of cancer cells.

A first simple life form that might be made in the test tube is a virus.

Even this, however, could be dangerous. A man-made virus might be so unusual that nothing would exist to control it.

So while scientists are moving closer to control of biological processes, they also are moving closer to dangers and the problems of the possible misuse of this mastery.

Question Of Heredity

Who would be given the power to make decisions about heredity control? This question is one of profound concern to many scientists working with genetics.

When a Harvard Medical School team isolated pure genetic material late last year, Dr. Jonathan Beckwith, 33, the team leader, expressed fear that the work could be misused by government.

The Wisconsin synthesis of a gene is a major advance in a biological revolution that began in the 1940s with the discovery that growth and heredity are controlled by the chemical substance DNA, deoxyribonucleic acid.

Genes are molecules of DNA. They thus harbor the master genetic information that is responsible formaking people, and all living things, what they are.

Soviets Agree To Conference On Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed to more talks with the United States in an effort to find a political solution to the increasingly war-like Arab-Israeli confrontation.

But the agreement, understood to have been reached during a 40-minute meeting Tuesday between Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, is not expected to lead to any immediate settlement.

It was also understood the Soviet official refused to disclose any new background to the Russian strategy in providing pilots and increasing numbers of missile technicians to Egypt.

An earlier Soviet response had been declared imprecise and unsatisfactory by American officials and this latest refusal to go into more detail was expected to add to the pressure for a new sale of U.S. warplanes to Israel.

Rogers called in the Soviet ambassador to stress the "seriousness with which we regard the (Mideast) situation, particularly because of the Soviet military involvement," a spokesman said.

Dobrynin agreed with the Secretary of State on the need for "renewed efforts toward achieving a political solution" to the Mideast conflict, the spokesman added.

But the Kremlin envoy, just returned from Moscow, was understood to have given no further explanation of the Soviet buildup beyond the "imprecise and unsatisfactory" response U.S. officials said American Ambassador Jacob Beam received in Moscow a month ago.

Washington wants to know the Soviet intent in sending pilots and modern antiaircraft missiles to Egypt. The administration is concerned over whether the Russians are trying to protect Egypt or planning to help conduct an offensive attack against Israel.

Trapped Viet Aided By B52s

SAIGON (AP) — Five hundred South Vietnamese troops made a helicopter assault today to link up with the weary defenders of a mountain ridge artillery base battered by two days of attacks in the northwest corner of South Vietnam.

Following up an early morning hammering by U.S. B52 bombers, American and South Vietnamese fighter-bombers dropped antipersonnel cluster bombs on lower ridgelines within half a mile of beleaguered Firebase Tun Tavern, while the relief force flew into a landing zone about the same distance from the base on the opposite side.

Field reports said there was no resistance as the reinforcements and their U.S. advisers joined the remnants of Tun Tavern's defenders to begin a sweep around the base.

At noon, North Vietnamese mortar crews were still hurling shells into the helicopter pad of the kidney-shaped outpost four miles east of the Laotian border as American medical helicopters wheeled in to take out the dead and wounded.

One helicopter was hit and destroyed this morning.

Losses continued to rise on both sides in the battle for the base, which occupies a narrow ridge 1,600 feet above the Da Krong River valley.

Field reports put government casualties at 50 killed and 119 wounded. The allies say 81 North Vietnamese have been killed.

One American adviser was killed and several U.S. and Australian advisers were wounded in the fighting Tuesday at Tun Tavern, which lies in rugged jungle mountains 21 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

Paper Boy Saves Subscriber's Life

GAYLORD (AP) — Andrew Fedor, 65, was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday in a hospital after his paper boy found him unconscious, sprawled on the floor of his burning home Monday night.

John Kopenhaver, 12, was delivering his papers when he noticed the home was filled with smoke. Kopenhaver ran inside and found the man on the floor, but was unable to move him. He summoned his father, who called an ambulance.

President To Speak

Indochina Progress Report Due Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today rejected a proposal to give the President a free hand in Cambodia so long as Communists hold Americans prisoner there.

The setback for the administration came only hours before President Nixon was scheduled to go before a national television-radio audience with what is expected to be an optimistic progress report on the campaign in Cambodia.

The Senate test was on an administration-backed proposal by Kansas Republican Robert J. Dole designed to negate the Cooper-Church amendment that would bar funds for U.S. operations in Cambodia after June 30.

Predict Proposal Defeat

Although defeat of the Dole proposal, which called for allowing the President to use U.S. forces in Cambodia as long as American troops were held prisoner there, had been expected, the action reportedly would not affect Nixon's remarks, scheduled for 9 p.m. EDT.

The President set his speech after meeting with defense and military leaders over the weekend when he reportedly was given optimistic accounts of the month-old Cambodian campaign.

The President's Indochina policy also was under attack in the House today where antiwar members argued for a rider to a bill raising the national debt limit that they said was aimed at forcing a faster withdrawal of U.S. troops from Southeast Asia.

The vote on the Dole proposal was the first real indication of Senate feeling concerning the measure sponsored by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., to curb Nixon's powers in Cambodia after June 30, the date the President set for withdrawing all American forces from that country.

Amendment Vote Set

Chances for a quick vote on the Cooper-Church amendment itself remained dim since three senators Tuesday accepted the President's invitation to go on a week-long tour of Cambodia and Vietnam.

Republicans John Tower of Texas and George Murphy of California and Democrat Howard Cannon of Nevada scheduled their departure today, along with four House members, three governors and two Nixon advisers.

Plan Called Travesty

Sen. Church Tuesday called the Dole proposal a travesty. The truth, he said, is "the longer our forces stay in Cambodia the more vulnerable they will be to capture—and to being killed —by the enemy."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., added that if fair and humane treatment is to be obtained for prisoners, "we must stop tying their rights to unrelated political controversies both foreign and domestic."

Church charged the Dole measure would arouse false expectations among families of prisoners and give them "hopes that simply cannot be fulfilled merely by passing a bill."

Jury Being Chosen For Collins' Trial

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Jury selection continues today in the first-degree murder trial of John Norman Collins, 22, accused in the sex slaying of one of seven young women killed over a two-year period in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area.

Four women — ranging in age from about 35 to 65—were seated tentatively on the jury during the first day of screening Tuesday. They included the wives of college professors and a writer of children's literature.

Collins is accused in the strangulation murder of 18-year-old Karen Sue Bieneman, an Eastern Michigan University coed who was slain last July.

Her nude body was dumped in a wooded area on the outskirts of Ann Arbor, and Collins was arrested a few days later. He has been confined to the Washtenaw County Jail for the past 10 months.

Collins also is charged in California with first-degree murder in the death by strangulation last summer of Roxie Ann Phillips, 17, of Milwaukie, Ore.

No charges have been filed in connection with the other six Michigan slayings.

As jury selection got underway, Circuit Judge John Conlin cautioned newsmen that the names of jurors were not to be publicized at this time.

Photographers were barred from the second floor of the courthouse and all spectators— except members of the defendant's family — were frisked by by sheriff's deputies before being allowed into the courtroom. Special passes were required by newsmen, who also were searched.

Prospective jurors were questioned closely by defense attorneys on whether they had formed any opinions about the case from what they had learned through the news media.

Gromyko Seeking China-American Ouster In Asia

PARIS (AP) — Diplomatic sources said today Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko has told the French the Soviet Union would like to see both Chinese and American influence removed from Southeast Asia.

The sources said this line emerged from Gromyko's discussions with Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann and other senior French officials.

Informants said Southeast Asia and the Middle East were the principal topics discussed Tuesday in an opening round between Gromyko and the French. Emphasis shifts today to European questions and bilateral relations.

Earthquake Toll Still Climbing

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Bad weather and blocked roads continued to hamper efforts today to get rescue workers into the earthquake-shattered Huaylas Canyon high in the Peruvian Andes.

The towns of Yungay, Caraz and Huaraz in the canyon were almost totally destroyed in the earthquake which rumbled through half of Peru Sunday. Government officials feared as many as 30,000 people were killed, but broken communications still prevented anything like an accurate tally of casualties.

In Yungay, about 240 miles north of Lima, only 2,500 residents reportedly survived out of the population of 20,000, a high government official said.

Information Director Augusto Zimmerman said many people who ran into the narrow streets of the Andean villages and towns were killed by falling rocks and debris from the canyon walls. A surging tide of water from Lake Llanganuco added to the destruction.

The air force managed to drop a squad of 34 rescue workers Tuesday at Huaraz, at the south entrance of the gorge. It followed up with several more supply drops deeper in the canyon and made a few helicopter evacuations before the weather closed in.

President Juan Velasco paid a quick visit by navy ship to Chimbote, about 250 miles up the coast from Lima, and said he was shocked by what he saw in the fishing and factory city of 80,000. The president decreed an eight-day mourning period and his military regime ordered the national budget readjusted to provide $16 million to begin reconstruction.

Soviets Agree To Conference On Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed to more talks with the United States in an effort to find a political solution to the increasingly war-like Arab-Israeli confrontation.

But the agreement, understood to have been reached during a 40-minute meeting Tuesday between Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, is not expected to lead to any immediate settlement.

It was also understood the Soviet official refused to disclose any new background to the Russian strategy in providing pilots and increasing numbers of missile technicians to Egypt.

An earlier Soviet response had been declared imprecise and unsatisfactory by American officials and this latest refusal to go into more detail was expected to add to the pressure for a new sale of U.S. warplanes to Israel.

Rogers called in the Soviet ambassador to stress the "seriousness with which we regard the (Mideast) situation, particularly because of the Soviet military involvement," a spokesman said.

Dobrynin agreed with the Secretary of State on the need for "renewed efforts toward achieving a political solution" to the Mideast conflict, the spokesman added.

But the Kremlin envoy, just returned from Moscow, was understood to have given no further explanation of the Soviet buildup beyond the "imprecise and unsatisfactory" response U.S. officials said American Ambassador Jacob Beam received in Moscow a month ago.

Washington wants to know the Soviet intent in sending pilots and modern antiaircraft missiles to Egypt. The administration is concerned over whether the Russians are trying to protect Egypt or planning to help conduct an offensive attack against Israel.

Trapped Viet Aided By B52s

SAIGON (AP) — Five hundred South Vietnamese troops made a helicopter assault today to link up with the weary defenders of a mountain ridge artillery base battered by two days of attacks in the northwest corner of South Vietnam.

Following up an early morning hammering by U.S. B52 bombers, American and South Vietnamese fighter-bombers dropped antipersonnel cluster bombs on lower ridgelines within half a mile of beleaguered Firebase Tun Tavern, while the relief force flew into a landing zone about the same distance from the base on the opposite side.

Field reports said there was no resistance as the reinforcements and their U.S. advisers joined the remnants of Tun Tavern's defenders to begin a sweep around the base.

At noon, North Vietnamese mortar crews were still hurling shells into the helicopter pad of the kidney-shaped outpost four miles east of the Laotian border as American medical helicopters wheeled in to take out the dead and wounded.

One helicopter was hit and destroyed this morning.

Losses continued to rise on both sides in the battle for the base, which occupies a narrow ridge 1,600 feet above the Da Krong River valley.

Field reports put government casualties at 50 killed and 119 wounded. The allies say 81 North Vietnamese have been killed.

One American adviser was killed and several U.S. and Australian advisers were wounded in the fighting Tuesday at Tun Tavern, which lies in rugged jungle mountains 21 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

Paper Boy Saves Subscriber's Life

GAYLORD (AP) — Andrew Fedor, 65, was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday in a hospital after his paper boy found him unconscious, sprawled on the floor of his burning home Monday night.

John Kopenhaver, 12, was delivering his papers when he noticed the home was filled with smoke. Kopenhaver ran inside and found the man on the floor, but was unable to move him. He summoned his father, who called an ambulance.

President To Speak

Indochina Progress Report Due Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today rejected a proposal to give the President a free hand in Cambodia so long as Communists hold Americans prisoner there.

The setback for the administration came only hours before President Nixon was scheduled to go before a national television-radio audience with what is expected to be an optimistic progress report on the campaign in Cambodia.

The Senate test was on an administration-backed proposal by Kansas Republican Robert J. Dole designed to negate the Cooper-Church amendment that would bar funds for U.S. operations in Cambodia after June 30.

Predict Proposal Defeat

Although defeat of the Dole proposal, which called for allowing the President to use U.S. forces in Cambodia as long as American troops were held prisoner there, had been expected, the action reportedly would not affect Nixon's remarks, scheduled for 9 p.m. EDT.

The President set his speech after meeting with defense and military leaders over the weekend when he reportedly was given optimistic accounts of the month-old Cambodian campaign.

The President's Indochina policy also was under attack in the House today where antiwar members argued for a rider to a bill raising the national debt limit that they said was aimed at forcing a faster withdrawal of U.S. troops from Southeast Asia.

The vote on the Dole proposal was the first real indication of Senate feeling concerning the measure sponsored by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., to curb Nixon's powers in Cambodia after June 30, the date the President set for withdrawing all American forces from that country.

Amendment Vote Set

Chances for a quick vote on the Cooper-Church amendment itself remained dim since three senators Tuesday accepted the President's invitation to go on a week-long tour of Cambodia and Vietnam.

Republicans John Tower of Texas and George Murphy of California and Democrat Howard Cannon of Nevada scheduled their departure today, along with four House members, three governors and two Nixon advisers.

Plan Called Travesty

Sen. Church Tuesday called the Dole proposal a travesty. The truth, he said, is "the longer our forces stay in Cambodia the more vulnerable they will be to capture—and to being killed —by the enemy."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., added that if fair and humane treatment is to be obtained for prisoners, "we must stop tying their rights to unrelated political controversies both foreign and domestic."

Church charged the Dole measure would arouse false expectations among families of prisoners and give them "hopes that simply cannot be fulfilled merely by passing a bill."

Gromyko Seeking China-American Ouster In Asia

PARIS (AP) — Diplomatic sources said today Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko has told the French the Soviet Union would like to see both Chinese and American influence removed from Southeast Asia.

The sources said this line emerged from Gromyko's discussions with Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann and other senior French officials.

Informants said Southeast Asia and the Middle East were the principal topics discussed Tuesday in an opening round between Gromyko and the French. Emphasis shifts today to European questions and bilateral relations.

Scenic River May Get Fish Ladders

The fate of a $250,000 appropriation for the first phase of a proposed series of fishways around falls and rapids on an Upper Peninsula river remained in doubt today.

Sponsored by State Sen. Joseph Mack (D-Ironwood), the proposal calls for the state to contruct fish ladders around the Presque Isle River in Ontonagon County to permit steelheads and coho salmon to move upstream to spawn.

The State Senate early this month approved expenditure of the $250,000 for the first phase of the project that has been estimated to cost $1.3 million when fully completed.

However, the measure was referred to the House Conservation and Recreation Committee, which voted to delete the $250,000, with Rep. John Payant (R-Kingsford) casting the lone dissenting vote.

Gets Sidetracked

The bill then was sent to the House Appropriations Committee. The $250,000 could be restored there or on the House floor.

"When the bill came over from the Senate, they sidetracked it into the conservation committee, where we had a hearing," Payant said. By "they," he was referring to Conservation Committee Chairman Thomas J. Anderson (D-Southgate) and Rep. Warren Goemaere (D-Roseville), a member of the committee, both of whom opposed appropriation of the $250,000.

Payant said Upper Peninsula legislators, led by Rep. Russell Hellman (D-Dollar Bay), will try to have the $250,000 restored in a vote on the House floor. "I'm going to support Hellman and do all I can to get it restored," Payant said.

During the House Conservation hearing, the fish ladder proposal was opposed by spokesmen for the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, the Sierra Club and other groups.

Tourist Attraction

At the May meeting of the Natural Resources Commission, Mrs. E. LeRoy Bjerke of Midland, chairman of the Mackinac Chapter of the Sierra Club, protested the proposal as threatening the wild esthetic values of the dedicated scenic area adjacent to the Porcupine Mountains State Park.

Mack defended the proposal before the commission as a "natural fish hatchery" and tourist attraction for his district.

Previously, Mrs. E. V. Fitz of Grand Rapids had written the Fish Division of the Department of Natural Resources to protest the threat of dynamiting and grates over the falls and rapids to the scenic values of the area. She received a reply from Thomas R. Doyle, in charge of habitat management for the Fish Division, which favors the project.

"In the opinion of the experts, this project is entirely feasible," Doyle wrote. "A fish-way has been designed which would be covered and unobtrusive for much of its length, located to one side of the falls. Geologists and blasting experts have been consulted to assure that no damage would be done to the falls.

Preserve Beauty

"The total project would open up approximately 146 miles of main stream and tributary waters for spawning and angling, and these fish would provide stocks for the open waters of Lake Superior as well."

However, Doyle wrote, "One of the most important stipulations imposed on this investigation by our department was that the esthetic beauty and character of Manido (scenic point) Falls must, at all costs be preserved. If this could not be achieved, the project would be dropped."

Mack told the commission that the projected $1.3 million cost is "blown out of all proportion by those opposed to this project. Give us the dynamite, and my boys could do it for nothing."

Question Benefit

DNR officials said, however, that to protect the esthetics and avoid damage to the rock structures, the $1.3 million estimate to install fishways in the 23-foot Manabezho, 16-foot Manido, 15-foot Nawadaha, eight-foot Lepisto and jumping pools in the intervening rapids and cascades was accurate. The 11-foot Nimiko and 10-foot Minnewawa Falls would be surmounted with aluminum tube "steep pass" ladders.

Organizations opposed to the fish ladder proposal contend it is an attempt to squander recreation bond money on a project which would not yield significant benefit to the public and would violate the natural character of the Porcupine Mountain State Park.

"Phase I would provide a fishway around the 23-foot lower Manido Falls," said Mrs. Bjerke. "Such a fishway would only make an additional 400 feet of the stream passable to significant numbers of fish, since fish would then encounter the 16-foot Manido Falls. Thus if the initial Phase I were constructed, allowing fish 400 feet further upstream, and if funds were not forthcoming for the remainedr of the project, this would mean a total waste of $250,000 of state recreation land monies."

Bloodmobile Coming

Summer Brings Need For More, Not Less Blood

Residents of Delta County again have the opportunity to serve their friends and neighbors who will require blood transfusions this summer, reports the Delta County Chapter of the American Red Cross, sponsor of the Badger Red Cross Bloodmobile.

The Bloodmobile will arrive in Delta County on June 9 to accept blood donations, and its schedule is as follows:

June 9 — Gladstone, James T. Jones School, 3 to 7 p. m.

June 10 — Escanaba, Teamster Building, 2:30 to 7:30.

June 11 — Escanaba, Teamster Building, 10 a. m., to 3 p. m.

All types of blood are needed, the Red Cross notes. With increased summer traffic there will be more traffic accidents and a resulting increase in blood needs — and yet the blood donations drop in summertime.

Delta County is expected to provide 280 units this June, as was the goal in April. Since the quota was not quite realized in April, there is increased obligation during the June visit, the Red Cross points out.

Age And Weight

Appointments are being made through industry and some contact with former donors. First-time donors are critically needed if the quota is to be met.

Here are some of the donor requirements, which permit most persons in reasonably good health to qualify:

The donation interval is eight weeks, but not more than five times in 12 months. Persons must weigh not less than 110 pounds.

Persons 18 through 65 are accepted; those under 21 require written parental consent.

Chronic illness is reason for deferral; so also is a recent operation; and pregnancy disqualifies an individual for six months.

Physician At Center

Rules on such illnesses as mononucelosis, malaria, hepatitis, and information regarding allergies, immunizations, and medication may be obtained through the Red Cross office.

A local physician is in volunteer service at all times during a bloodmobile visit, and persons who may be in doubt are invited to come to the center and let the physician make the decision.

There's no special diet necessary for donors, although it is advisable to eat a light lunch within three hours before the donation.

Persons who wish to make appointments for any of the three days the bloodmobile will be in Delta County are asked to call the Red Cross mornings at 786-3214 or 786-5371.

Mother Of Arne Anderson Taken By Death

Mrs. Ida Saviluota of Hancock, mother of Arne R. Anderson, Escanaba, assistant dean at Bay de Noc College, died this morning in Hancock.

She was born Dec. 22, 1895 and her husband Arvid preceded her in death in 1963. She is survived by 11 children, 28 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday from the Jukuri Funeral Home in Hancock followed by burial there.

Adults Awarded H. S. Diplomas

They are Mrs. Beatrice Soper and Earl Lindstrom. A third Carney-Nadeau Public School diploma was given to Mrs. Donna Voigh, Daggett, who completed her high school education through the University of Wisconsin Extension Service.

Construction Man Suffers Injuries In Tractor Mishap

Clifford C. Hall, Alvin, Wis., was admitted to the St. Francis Hospital on Tuesday for treatment of injuries he received when he was run over by a tractor, according to State Police.

Officers said Hall was removing a log from in front of the tractor he had been operating, when the tractor suddenly slipped into gear, apparently from it's own vibration, and ran over him.

Hall is employed by the Northern Asphalt Co. of Escanaba, and was working at the Wawrka Subdivision in Wells Township at the time of the accident, police said, which occurred about 11:30 a.m.

Hall was listed in good condition at the hospital today.

Scenic River May Get Fish Ladders

The fate of a $250,000 appropriation for the first phase of a proposed series of fishways around falls and rapids on an Upper Peninsula river remained in doubt today.

Sponsored by State Sen. Joseph Mack (D-Ironwood), the proposal calls for the state to contruct fish ladders around the Presque Isle River in Ontonagon County to permit steelheads and coho salmon to move upstream to spawn.

The State Senate early this month approved expenditure of the $250,000 for the first phase of the project that has been estimated to cost $1.3 million when fully completed.

However, the measure was referred to the House Conservation and Recreation Committee, which voted to delete the $250,000, with Rep. John Payant (R-Kingsford) casting the lone dissenting vote.

Gets Sidetracked

The bill then was sent to the House Appropriations Committee. The $250,000 could be restored there or on the House floor.

"When the bill came over from the Senate, they sidetracked it into the conservation committee, where we had a hearing," Payant said. By "they," he was referring to Conservation Committee Chairman Thomas J. Anderson (D-Southgate) and Rep. Warren Goemaere (D-Roseville), a member of the committee, both of whom opposed appropriation of the $250,000.

Payant said Upper Peninsula legislators, led by Rep. Russell Hellman (D-Dollar Bay), will try to have the $250,000 restored in a vote on the House floor. "I'm going to support Hellman and do all I can to get it restored," Payant said.

During the House Conservation hearing, the fish ladder proposal was opposed by spokesmen for the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, the Sierra Club and other groups.

2 Bodies Recovered From Submerged Plane In Canada

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont.—(AP) — Two bodies recovered Tuesday from a submerged aircraft in Reflection Lake, about 42 miles northeast of here, have been identified as two missing Michigan men.

Police said the bodies were of Sherwood Johnson and his nephew, John Jones, 26, both of Remus, Mich. They were reported overdue during the weekend on a flight to Skintent Lake, about 50 miles east of the Sault. The plane wreckage was found under 20 feet of water.

Adults To Get Diplomas Here

The Escanaba Area Community School program will hold its first adult high school graduation exercises at 7:30 p. m., Thursday in the Escanaba Area High School auditorium. Twenty-three adults will receive diplomas.

Steve Storey, director of Community Schools, will present the candidates, who will receive their diplomas from Albin Pearson, president, Escanaba Area School Board. The welcome will be given by Vernon Ihlenfeldt, curriculum coordinator of the Escanaba Area Schools.

Speaker will be Dr. William Butt, academic dean at Bay de Noc Community College.

The public is invited. Persons attending should use the West entrance of the high school.

City-Employes' Wage Contracts Still Unsettled

The City of Escanaba and three of the four groups of employes with whom it negotiates wage contracts have as yet come to no agreement for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

One group, however, the police officers, has come to terms on a two-year contract, reports City Manager George Harvey.

"As always, we get the bitter with the sweet," the city manager has advised the City Council in adding two items to the agenda for Thursday night's Council session. The meeting will be a 8 p. m., in the Civic Center.

Reporting to the Council, Harvey said:

"The firefighters have requested arbitration and I have been asked to designate a representative on the panel of arbitrators. Howard Smale (city controller) has been named by me for this purpose and I ask that you ratify said action."

Police Contract

Of the Police Department contract Harvey advised the Council:

"The Teamsters has agreed with the City on a two-year contract for wages and working conditions for police personnel. The contract calls for a 7 per cent increase effective July 1, 1970 and a 7 per cent increase effective July 1, 1971."

The city manager asked the Council to ratify the contract with the Teamsters Union, which represents the police personnel.

Besides the firefighters, the city has as yet not come to contract agreement with the electricians, and the bulk of the employes who are represented by the Municipal Employes Union.

City Revenues

In general the city has committed itself to a 7 per cent pay increase, except the electricians, whose pay scale is geared to that of the U. P. Power Co.

The failure to reach agreement for personal services with the city employes places the City of Escanaba in a difficult budgetary bind at a time when all costs are rising — and some city revenues are declining.

Escanaba has failed to gain any substantial number in population according to the 1970 census. Most state collected taxes are returned to the communities on a per capita basis. Failure to grow in ratio with the state means substantial loss in revenue to Escanaba.

The beginning of the fiscal year is July 1 — some 25 days away. Hopefully, contracts will be achieved by that time. Failing this, the fiscal year can bring labor as well as budget difficulties to Escanaba.

Quinn Admitted To State Bar

Michael Quinn, of the Strom, Hoehn, and Butch Law Firm was admitted to practice by the Michigan Bar Association at swearing-in ceremonies Monday by Judge Bernard H. Davidson at the opening of the June term of the Circuit Court of Delta County.

Quinn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas X. Quinn, 1620 16th Ave. S., graduated from Holy Name High School in 1960 and received his L.L.B. from Marquette University in 1964 before getting his Juris Doctor degree from the Marquette University Law School in 1967. He is a member of the Wisconsin Bar Association.

He practiced in Milwaukee before entering the United States Army, where he served in Germany for two years, receiving his discharge in August of 1969.

Quinn resides in Escanaba with his wife, the former Evelyn Snow, and two children, Mike and Toni Lynn, at 1603 S. 14th St.

Rivard To Seek Education Seat

David J. Rivard of Soo Hill, who ran unsuccessfully for election to the Escanaba Area Board of Education in 1967, today announced he will be a write-in candidate for the Area Board of Education in Monday's annual election.

Rivard, 27, said he is seeking to fill the remaining one year of the term being vacated by Albin Person Jr., who will resign June 30 as a result of his election to the City Council of Escanaba.

The only other candidate for the Board of Education is Alfred Troutt, Ford River, who is seeking the four-year term.

Troutt filed nominating petitions before the deadline in May and his name will be the only one on the ballot.

Rivard, who is married to the former Sharon Bryson, is the father of three children. He is employed by Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., and is a member of International Chemical Workers Union Local 799.

He has worked with the Escanaba Area Public Schools, serving as chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Committee to the Board of Education.

Former Resident Escapes Serious Injury In Crash

The daughter of an Escanaba couple and her husband escaped serious injury recently when their small plane crashed in the back yard of a Long Beach, Fla., home.

Morton McGeary and his wife, the former Rosemary LaCrosse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert LaCrosse, 122 S. 22nd St., were shaken by the accident, but not seriously hurt, authorities reported. Another couple in the plane also escaped without serious injury.

"All I can say is that they are lucky, lucky people," said a Federal Aviation Agency official.

The plane lost power on its approach to Long Beach Airport. Witnesses said they saw smoke pouring from the engine.

Vic Ross of Columbus, Ga., captains Army's pistol team. The Cadets were unbeaten the last two seasons.

SUSAN C. GRAIM, 1631 S. 16th St., Escanaba, received the Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in art at the 111th June commencement of Wheaton College, Wheaton, Ill. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Graim. Evangelist Billy Graham, Wheaton alumnus of 1943, spoke to the graduating class. While at Wheaton, Miss Graim served as college yearbook editor. She received a first place in ceramics and a second place in drawing in the college's 1970 Creative Arts Festival. She is a graduate of West High School, Madison, Wis.

Rains Curtail Stream Fishing

Heavy rains which have created near flood conditions on streams and creeks in the area will force fishermen onto the Great Lakes and inland lakes until stream levels recede, the Department of Natural Resources said today.

Opening of the bass season on Memorial Day was reported as fair with streams and Big and Little Bay de Noc producing equally well.

Success by species during the past week in the Delta County area was noted as follows:

Trout — The Sturgeon, Escanaba, Fishdam and 18-Mile were fair, but high water will now curtail activity and success.

Bass — Very good in Big Bay de Noc off the Fishdam and Big River. Fair in the Ford River and at the head of Little Bay de Noc.

Northern Pike — Very good off Butler's Beach in the Nahma area, Garden Bay vicinity and off the Big River in Ogontz Bay.

Panfish — Good success at Garden and Nahma, above Gladstone and in Dam No. 1 on the Escanaba River.

In Alger and Marquette counties, the rain apparently deterred most fishing activity as the only reports reflected fair luck for walleyes on Little Lake, fair bass fishing on Perch and Pake lakes, and fair perch and bluegill fishing on Anderson and Little Shag lakes — all in the Gwinn area. Lake Michigamme in northwest Marquette County also produced fair walleye success.

All officers report streams at flood conditions and generally not fishable. Blackflies, mosquitoes and ticks are plentiful. Many roads are washed out and caution is urged in traversing back-woods roads.

Dr. Weatherby Is Seminar Selectee

Dr. Joseph Weatherby (assistant professor, Social Sciences Department, California State Polytechnic College) has been selected by the U.S. Office of Health, Education and Welfare to participate with 19 others professors from the United States in a two-summer seminar in Middle East Studies.

The summer will be spent at Baldwin - Wallace College in Cleveland, Ohio, and will involve concentrated work in Arabic and Middle East area studies.

During the summer of 1971, seminars will be held in Egypt, Israel, and Lebanon with the cooperation of the American University of Cario, the Hebrew University, and the American University of Beirut. Each participant will receive a $2,000 stipend plus complete expenses and cost of living while in the Middle East.

Dr. Weatherby is formerly of Escanaba and was an instructor at Bay de Noc Community College.

A Panax Publication

Ralph S. Kanlateck, Gen. Mgr. David L. Andrews Editor

Mr. U. of M. Follo

The man who is known as "Mr. University of Michigan" in the Upper Peninsula is an alumnus of Western Michigan University. When he decided to work on his master's degree, he chose the University of Chicago. But Charlie Follo has spent the past 23 years as the University of Michigan's representative in the Upper Peninsula and earned his sobriquet as the result of a lot of diligent work on behalf of the university he never attended.

On July 1, Mr. Follo will retire as assistant director of the U-M Extension Service, having attained 65 years of age. He has been the University of Michigan's only official in the Northern Peninsula since 1947, when he opened the university's extension office in his native Escanaba. That office has served in the intervening period as a center for university programs and services for all of the Peninsula.

Mr. Follo's assignment largely was to bring the university to the Upper Peninsula, and in this he succeeded exceptionally well. At the time the office was opened, no other institution in the Upper Peninsula was offering graduate work off the college campus. Mr. Follo's office offered graduate courses in education and allied subject, developed non-credit courses and lecture series in a wide variety of subjects, arranged for concert series by members of the university faculty and developed programs aimed at solving some of the problems of the Upper Peninsula.

In the course of all this, Mr. Follo drove thousands of miles every year and became one of the Upper Peninsula's most familiar figures. He also found time to perform a great many volunteer duties that were in the public interest but that had no connection with his work for the university. Space permits only a few to be mentioned .

★ ★ ★

He served for many years on the Escanaba Library Board of Trustees, the Civil Service Commission of Escanaba, the Escanaba Board of Education and the Bay de Noc Community College Board of Trustees. He helped organize the Upper Peninsula Crafts Council. He has been an active member of the Upper Peninsula Educational Planning Council, the Human Resources Committee of the Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress, the Delta County Historical Society, the Historical Society of Michigan, the American Association for State and National History and a host of other professional groups.

One of his biggest achievements was his election to the Michigan Constitutional Convention, serving as an Upper Peninsula delegate to that body in 1961-62.

Although he never attended the university he has represented with such distinction these many years, Mr. Follo can at least claim to being an honorary alumnus of the University of Michigan. That status was officially conferred upon him by the U-M Regents in 1960 in recognition of his work with the U-M Alumni Association.

Even in retirement, Charlie Follo will still be known as "Mr. University of Michigan" by his many friends in the Upper Peninsula.

Let's see now if we've got everything straight. It's all right for the Soviet Union to send "advisers" in Egypt to fly missions against the Israelis, but it's not all right for the United States to send troops into Cambodia to stop Communist aggression.

The new left claims that the older generation is hypocritical, which to some extent is true. The new left has used this as an excuse for excessive behavior which has amounted to violent anarchy on a number of campuses in recent weeks.

It is ironic, however, that some of the heroes of the young protesters, Sen. J. William Fulbright, for example, also are hypocritical. So, in fact, is the new left.

Fulbright and his youthful colleagues are apoplectic over the American invasion of Cambodia which is a consequence of prior North Vietnamese escalation in that beleagured country. Yet they are indifferent, at best, over the fact that Soviet pilots invade Israeli air space and Russian officers have taken over the Egyptian army.

★ ★ ★

The response of Fulbright and the new left is not, upon study, difficult to fathom. Fulbright has seldom been able to admit that Communism is any threat to the non-Communist world. In effect, he sees no enemies to the left.

Fulbright does not wish ill for the Israelis, to be sure. Apparently, however, he would rather risk the annihilation of the Jewish state than recognize the reality of Soviet aggression.

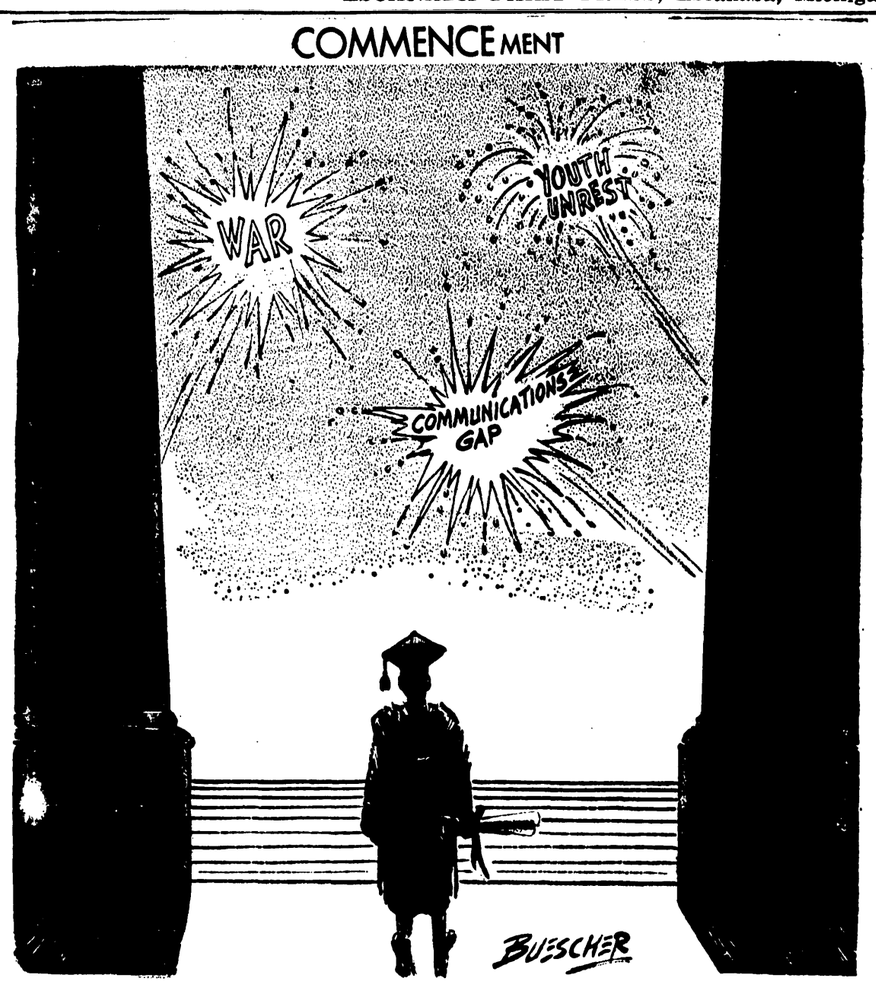
If he admitted the fact in the Mideast, it might accur to him that Communism as also on the march in Southeast Asia.

As for the new left, part of its attitude is a result of the increasing anti-Semitism in its movement .A number of new left organizations and publications dominated by Communist sympathizers, have taken a pro-Arab stance which means they support Nasser's policy of Jewish genocide, subsidized by Soviet money and men.

The new left charge of hypocrisy is merely a technique to paralyze American foreign policy in the face of a dynamic and dangerous totalarian enemy.

Peninsula Potpourri

Construction of a small craft channel system in the Les Cheneaux Island area of Lake Huron, off southeastern Upper Peninsula, should be under way this summer, with the dredging being done by the Roen Salvage Co. of Sturgeon Bay, Wis. The company was low bidder on the project at $139,380, according to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. The project calls for dredging a channel 100 feet wide and seven feet deep in the waters between Hessel and Cedarville and out into Lake Huron.



Cambodia: Key To U.S. Survival?

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

WASHINGTON — It would hardly do to say that Senators who support the Cooper-Church Amendment have suddenly become bereft of their senses. However, one scratches one's head in vain to find any sound rationale for some of the things that the doves are proposing.

Senator Hiram Fong (R-Hawaii) finds the performance of the extreme doves so completely mystifying that he is reduced to the most plaintive sort of questions. For years General Albert Wedemeyer, for instance, has been urging the "Asiaticizing" of the Vietnamese War, even going so far as to suggest a Senator Goodell-type terminal date for pulling all our ground troops out of Southeast Asia. However, Wedemeyer has differed from Goodell on one thing: he would make U.S. withdrawal follow a timetable that permits Asians to take up the front-line slack in their own behalf.

U.S. military diplomacy made a major move to satisfy the Wedemeyer requirements when it allowed four thousand ethnic Cambodian soldiers who had been serving with the South Vietnamese to return to their homeland to beef up the pitifully untrained Cambodian Army. Since soldiers must live, the U.S. has continued to pay the ethnic Cambodians. Such a policy of letting allies act to pull one's chestnuts out of the fire has always been followed by prudent nations. During the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries the British referred to their money-support of foreign trops as "St. George's cavalry." Senator George Aiken, a canny Vermont Yankee, ought to comprehend the common sense of "letting St. George do it." And Senator Vance Hartke, an equally astute Indiana Hoosier, ought to grasp the point even if it eludes Senator Fulbright, who often acts as if he had less sense of self-preservation than a lemming.

I know that Aiken and Hartke are basically intelligent men. So what gives with them? To plagiarize from Winston Churchill, it is a riddle wrapped inside an enigma.

We return to Senator Fong's plaintive questions. Fong does not want to see the U.S. bogged down after the monsoon season in Cambodia any more than Aiken or Hartke or, for that matter, Senator Frank Church or Senator John Sherman Cooper. But he beseeches the doves to tell him why it is a good thing "to deny assistance to Cambodia even if Cambodia is helping our troops."

"Suppose," says Fong, "Cambodia forces were striking an enemy base in Cambodia from which the enemy was attacking U.S. forces in Vietnam. Does the Senate . . . want to prohibit . . . any other person from helping Cambodian forces trying to prevent the enemy from killing American troops? It is a good thing for the American people that France did not have a similar prohibition against assistance to our American Revolutionary forces under General George Washington."

What the Senate doves propose doing, so Fong says, is to tell the enemy: "Go ahead. Rebuild those bases. You'll be safe once more. We in the Senate have made sure neither our ground troops nor South Vietnamese ground troops can attack wou there, even in time-honored hot pursuit." But it is even worse than this, according to Senator Fong. "After the projected withdrawal . . . American soldiers delayed in Cambodia . . . would not even be paid or supplied with food or ammunition . . . Their families would lose their monthly allotments. And, if I understand it, their widows . . . would not be entitled to any survivor benefits."

How goofy can a great nation get? Nixon's Cambodian move has resulted in the killing of some eight thousand North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers in Cambodia. At least eight thousand more must have been wounded. Even allowing for some replacements, this means that a third of the forty North Vietnamese - Viet Cong fighting force in Cambodia has been put out of action. And the remainder has been deprived of food sufficient to feed thirty battalions for six months. The weapon haul has been comparable. All of which means that 150,000 U.S. ground troops can be withdrawn from the Asian mainland in fairly quick order without leaving our allies in the lurch.

If Fulbright, McGovern, Goodell, Church, and Cooper can't see this because their vision has been so blurred by emotion that they can't think straight, less emotive doves such as Aiken and Hartke should be able to grasp it. The thing that really gags me is the proposal to stop the pay of the ethnic Cambodians after June 30. This is the final straw. If the Senate votes to do this it would signify that we are being governed by men who have lost every instinct for self-preservation.

AMWAY COMMENTS

I'm glad to see our City Council show some concern regarding water pollution. Councilman Cecil B. Chase knows of my concern and efforts for the past seven years to make people aware of the pollution problem confronting us, and urge them to do their bit.

All laundry detergents contain phosphates. Much research needs to be done before a satisfactory substitute can be found. Amway has long been in the foretront in antipollution efforts and was a pioneer in the introduction of detergents with bio-degradable surfactants to the market place, introducing such products as long as five years before the industry in general converted. I know they will continue to work to provide efficient products that contribute as little to pollution as it is possible to make them.

It seems that the council has been misinformed in the report on high phosphate detergents. The numbers game presently being played in the newspaper, publishing a list of detergent products with alleged percentages of phosphate was very misleading and grossly inaccurate. A true comparison list should not only classify products by intent use (which the newspaper list did not) but should also compare on the basis of the amount of the product one would expect to use.

A 34 per cent phosphate product which is used in small quantities could actually put less phosphate in the water than a 22 per cent phosphate product used in liberal quantities. The heavy duty laundry compounds range between 30 and 45 per cent phosphate and you are instructed to use as the minimum amount 1½ cups per load. Amway SA 8 which is a concentrate and is 34.85 per cent phosphate, but the minimum usage per load is ¼ cup.

The newspaper list made no mention of amway products that contain no phosphate and contribute nothing to pollution, such as liquid detergent, dish drops, rug shampoo and others. The general heavy duty cleanser rates 1.35 per cent phosphate.

These percentages of phosphate are correct. Amway has the formulas, and should know. Before you start your boycott as was suggested, study these facts, then compile your list. Really give this pollution problem some thought and action.

SPECIAL FLAG

A guest flag flown in the parade of flags at the Gardens of Rest Cemetery on Memorial Day has the distinction of being the only one in the parade of flags to have been flown over the United States capitol in Washington, D.C.

The flag was flown at the cemetery in memory of Sgt. James A. DeRouin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew DeRouin of 3278 Black Creek Rd., Muskegon, Mich.

Sgt. DeRouin lost his life while serving in the U.S. Marine Corps at Andrews Air Force Base, in a flash fire, on March 14, 1969.

Sgt. DeRouin was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Albert French and Mrs. Frank Kidd of Escanaba.

This special flag was received by relatives here in Escanaba through the cooperation and help of Rep. Charles Varnum, U.S. Senator Robert Griffin and the White House.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Dble

Opening lead—jack of hearts.

South is in four spades doubled and West leads a heart. West's double is at least questionable, for, while he should expect to beat the contract, he is incurring the risk of alerting declarer to the foul trump division — which in turn might affect South's approach to the hand and steer him to a winning succession of plays.

Certainly it become clear to South after the double that the trumps are stacked against him. The only uncertainty is whether West has five trumps headed by the K-Q-10, or only four of them.

Declarer should assume that if West lacks the ace of clubs he must have all five trumps; otherwise, his double would make no sense. If West has only four trumps, he is bound to have the ace of clubs as part of his double.

Since South's method of play depends on whether West has four or five trumps, he should shape his plans to try to discover the actual situation. Accordingly, he cashes the A-K-Q of hearts, discarding a club, and leads the king of clubs from dummy, not a low one.

When East covers with the act, South knows he is fighting a 5-0 trump division. He ruffs the club, plays a diamond to the jack, ruffs another club, and plays the queen and another diamond. West ruffs and leads the third round of clubs, but, after South trumps, the position is:

North

South

Having lost only one trick so far, South leads a diamond. Whatever West does, he can score only two tricks and declarer makes the contract.

Seek Improved Housing For State Migrants

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Public Health Department has been asked to take immediate action to improve housing conditions for migrants and prosecute growers who fail to abide by labor camp rules.

A petition was filed with the department by lawyers for United Migrants for Opportunity, Inc., described as "a federally funded group working with migrants."

"As presently enforced, the law does not protect the workers because it does not deter the offenders," said the petition. "It does not deter them, because there is no conduct of theirs that, by definition, cannot be ignored or privately negotiated by the authorities."

A statement from the group said the petition "claims the department customarily compromises the charges it makes and rarely invokes the penal and administrative sanctions provided by law."

The petition said the department failed to enforce standards, and produced a report saying that 68 per cent of the children over six in migrant housing slept in the same room as their parents, 34 per cent of the housing units had wet floors, 29 per cent leaking roofs and 25 per cent leaking floors.

The group asked specifically that the department:

—Fix standards for preseason denial of camp licenses and for midseason suspension and revocation of licenses.

—Provide at least one midseason inspection of every licensed camp.

—Publish complaint forms and other basic information for workers in both English and and Spanish.

—Hold periodic public hearings on housing conditions.

—Increase reliance on criminal prosecutions against offending camp operators.

Easter Bunnies Have Girlfriend Hopping

Dear Ann Landers: My birthday was Easter Sunday. It was also the anniversary of the day Jerry and I met. For the last three years Jerry and I have celebrated this date as a very important one in our lives.

For months Jerry has been asking me what I want for a gift. I told him I want HIM to decide. In the meantime we have done plenty of window shopping. He knows my taste in luggage, Jewery and hostess gowns. This morning I became completely undone when a delivery man rang my door bell and handed me a large box with air holes. I am now the proud mother of two Easter bunnies — one is tinted powder blue, the other is a bluish pink. The card read, "From Jerry — with love. Name the girl after you, and the boy after me."

I don't care for rabbits. I live in an efficiency apartment and have no place for them. What's more I don't want to be bothered. At first I was disappointed, now I am furious. This little "joke" is nothing but a cheap copout. Any advice?— The Hutch Mistress

Dear Hutch: Call Jerry at once and tell him he is the proud father of two rabbits and he can name them anything he likes. And hurry up before you have ten.

Dear Ann Landers: Since you are the lady with all the answers, please give us the answer to this one: Why would a very good-looking, charming, statuesque girl (about 5 feet 9), great sense of humor and very popular, settle for a shrimp who is at least five inches shorter than she is — bookish looking, glasses, slightly bald, and still wears skinny ties? They are such a weird couple, people turn to stare. She seems completely oblivious to the gazes, stands up tall as she can and gives the impression that she is proud to be seen with him. What's in her head? — The Group

Dear Group: Brains, probably. The girl no doubt feels that this man has the qualities she considers important — such as integrity, kindness and consideration. He may even have a fascinating mind and as exciting personality. It should not be hard to understand why a girl with brains would prefer him to some of the handsome, dumb, boring, tall fellows who can talk of nothing but baseball and consider sex a contact sport.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has an older sister who considers herself a mother-substitute. Edmond and I are both past 50 so you know he has not needed a mother in quite some time.

His sister has been writing to him at least twice a week—at his office. The letters are addressed to him. I have two brothers and I always write to them at home — out of respect for their wives.

The problem is that Edmond's sister telephones me every few weeks and asks why she has not heard from US. I must then tell her I have not seen the letters. She always says, "I meant those letters for you, too, dear."

When I ask Edmond about the letters he says, "They are endless accounts of people I can't remember and have no interest in. I wouldn't dream of boring you. I just throw them out." I can't tell his sister the truth. She would feel hurt. What do you suggest I say to her? — Post Woes

Dear P. W.: The only way to settle most in-law trouble is to go to the source. Suggest to your sister-in-law that she address the letters to Mr. and Mrs. and send them to your home since you have nothing to do with his office mail.

Mr. U. of M. Follo

The man who is known as "Mr. University of Michigan" in the Upper Peninsula is an alumnus of Western Michigan University. When he decided to work on his master's degree, he chose the University of Chicago. But Charlie Follo has spent the past 23 years as the University of Michigan's representative in the Upper Peninsula and earned his sobriquet as the result of a lot of diligent work on behalf of the university he never attended.

On July 1, Mr. Follo will retire as assistant director of the U-M Extension Service, having attained 65 years of age. He has been the University of Michigan's only official in the Northern Peninsula since 1947, when he opened the university's extension office in his native Escanaba. That office has served in the intervening period as a center for university programs and services for all of the Peninsula.

Mr. Follo's assignment largely was to bring the university to the Upper Peninsula, and in this he succeeded exceptionally well. At the time the office was opened, no other institution in the Upper Peninsula was offering graduate work off the college campus. Mr. Follo's office offered graduate courses in education and allied subject, developed non-credit courses and lecture series in a wide variety of subjects, arranged for concert series by members of the university faculty and developed programs aimed at solving some of the problems of the Upper Peninsula.

In the course of all this, Mr. Follo drove thousands of miles every year and became one of the Upper Peninsula's most familiar figures. He also found time to perform a great many volunteer duties that were in the public interest but that had no connection with his work for the university. Space permits only a few to be mentioned .

★ ★ ★

He served for many years on the Escanaba Library Board of Trustees, the Civil Service Commission of Escanaba, the Escanaba Board of Education and the Bay de Noc Community College Board of Trustees. He helped organize the Upper Peninsula Crafts Council. He has been an active member of the Upper Peninsula Educational Planning Council, the Human Resources Committee of the Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress, the Delta County Historical Society, the Historical Society of Michigan, the American Association for State and National History and a host of other professional groups.

One of his biggest achievements was his election to the Michigan Constitutional Convention, serving as an Upper Peninsula delegate to that body in 1961-62.

Although he never attended the university he has represented with such distinction these many years, Mr. Follo can at least claim to being an honorary alumnus of the University of Michigan. That status was officially conferred upon him by the U-M Regents in 1960 in recognition of his work with the U-M Alumni Association.

Even in retirement, Charlie Follo will still be known as "Mr. University of Michigan" by his many friends in the Upper Peninsula.

Amway SA 8 which is a concentrate and is 34.85 per cent phosphate, but the mini mum usage per load is ¼ cup.

The newspaper list made no mention of amway products that contain no phosphate and contribute nothing to pollution, such as liquid detergent, dish drops, rug shampoo and others. The general heavy duty cleanser rates 1.35 per cent phosphate.

These percentages of phosphate are correct. Amway has the formulas, and should know. Before you start your boycott as was suggested, study these facts, then compile your list. Really give this pollution problem some thought and action.

SPECIAL FLAG

A guest flag flown in the parade of flags at the Gardens of Rest Cemetery on Memorial Day has the distinction of being the only one in the parade of flags to have been flown over the United States capitol in Washington, D.C.

The flag was flown at the cemetery in memory of Sgt. James A. DeRouin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew DeRouin of 3278 Black Creek Rd., Muskegon, Mich.

Sgt. DeRouin lost his life while serving in the U.S. Marine Corps at Andrews Air Force Base, in a flash fire, on March 14, 1969.

Sgt. DeRouin was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Albert French and Mrs. Frank Kidd of Escanaba.

This special flag was received by relatives here in Escanaba through the cooperation and help of Rep. Charles Varnum, U.S. Senator Robert Griffin and the White House.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Dble

Opening lead—jack of hearts.

South is in four spades doubled and West leads a heart. West's double is at least questionable, for, while he should expect to beat the contract, he is incurring the risk of alerting declarer to the foul trump division — which in turn might affect South's approach to the hand and steer him to a winning succession of plays.

Certainly it become clear to South after the double that the trumps are stacked against him. The only uncertainty is whether West has five trumps headed by the K-Q-10, or only four of them.

Declarer should assume that if West lacks the ace of clubs he must have all five trumps; otherwise, his double would make no sense. If West has only four trumps, he is bound to have the ace of clubs as part of his double.

Since South's method of play depends on whether West has four or five trumps, he should shape his plans to try to discover the actual situation. Accordingly, he cashes the A-K-Q of hearts, discarding a club, and leads the king of clubs from dummy, not a low one.

When East covers with the act, South knows he is fighting a 5-0 trump division. He ruffs the club, plays a diamond to the jack, ruffs another club, and plays the queen and another diamond. West ruffs and leads the third round of clubs, but, after South trumps, the position is:

North
♠ 7 5 4
♣ 9

West
♠ K Q 10 6

East
Immaterial

South
♠ A J
♦ A K

Having lost only one trick so far, South leads a diamond. Whatever West does, he can score only two tricks and declarer makes the contract.

Seek Improved Housing For State Migrants

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Public Health Department has been asked to take immediate action to improve housing conditions for migrants and prosecute growers who fail to abide by labor camp rules.

A petition was filed with the department by lawyers for United Migrants for Opportunity, Inc., described as "a federally funded group working with migrants."

"As presently enforced, the law does not protect the workers because it does not deter the offenders," said the petition. "It does not deter them, because there is no conduct of theirs that, by definition, cannot be ignored or privately negotiated by the authorities."

A statement from the group said the petition "claims the department customarily compromises the charges it makes and rarely invokes the penal and administrative sanctions provided by law."

The petition said the department failed to enforce standards, and produced a report saying that 68 per cent of the children over six in migrant housing slept in the same room as their parents, 34 per cent of the housing units had wet floors, 29 per cent leaking roofs and 25 per cent leaking floors.

The group asked specifically that the department:

—Fix standards for preseason denial of camp licenses and for midseason suspension and revocation of licenses.

—Provide at least one midseason inspection of every licensed camp.

—Publish complaint forms and other basic information for workers in both English and and Spanish.

—Hold periodic public hearings on housing conditions.

—Increase reliance on criminal prosecutions against offending camp operators.

Ann Landers

Easter Bunnies Have Girlfriend Hopping

Dear Ann Landers: My birthday was Easter Sunday. It was also the anniversary of the day Jerry and I met. For the last three years Jerry and I have celebrated this date as a very important one in our lives.

For months Jerry has been asking me what I want for a gift. I told him I want HIM to decide. In the meantime we have done plenty of window shopping. He knows my taste in luggage, Jewery and hostess gowns. This morning I became completely undone when a delivery man rang my door bell and handed me a large box with air holes. I am now the proud mother of two Easter bunnies — one is tinted powder blue, the other is a bluish pink. The card read, "From Jerry — with love. Name the girl after you, and the boy after me."

I don't care for rabbits. I live in an efficiency apartment and have no place for them. What's more I don't want to be bothered. At first I was disappointed, now I am furious. This little "joke" is nothing but a cheap copout. Any advice?— The Hutch Mistress

Dear Hutch: Call Jerry at once and tell him he is the proud father of two rabbits and he can name them anything he likes. And hurry up before you have ten.

Dear Ann Landers: Since you are the lady with all the answers, please give us the answer to this one: Why would a very good-looking, charming, statuesque girl (about 5 feet 9), great sense of humor and very popular, settle for a shrimp who is at least five inches shorter than she is — bookish looking, glasses, slightly bald, and still wears skinny ties? They are such a weird couple, people turn to stare. She seems completely oblivious to the gazes, stands up tall as she can and gives the impression that she is proud to be seen with him. What's in her head? — The Group

Dear Group: Brains, probably. The girl no doubt feels that this man has the qualities she considers important — such as integrity, kindness and consideration. He may even have a fascinating mind and as exciting personality. It should not be hard to understand why a girl with brains would prefer him to some of the handsome, dumb, boring, tall fellows who can talk of nothing but baseball and consider sex a contact sport.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has an older sister who considers herself a mother-substitute. Edmond and I are both past 50 so you know he has not needed a mother in quite some time.

His sister has been writing to him at least twice a week—at his office. The letters are addressed to him. I have two brothers and I always write to them at home — out of respect for their wives.

The problem is that Edmond's sister telephones me every few weeks and asks why she has not heard from US. I must then tell her I have not seen the letters. She always says, "I meant those letters for you, too, dear."

When I ask Edmond about the letters he says, "They are endless accounts of people I can't remember and have no interest in. I wouldn't dream of boring you. I just throw them out." I can't tell his sister the truth. She would feel hurt. What do you suggest I say to her? — Post Woes

Dear P. W.: The only way to settle most in-law trouble is to go to the source. Suggest to your sister-in-law that she address the letters to Mr. and Mrs. and send them to your home since you have nothing to do with his office mail.

Mrs. Horace Dodge Dies At Age 103

GROSSE POINTE, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. Anna Thompson Dodge, widow of automotive pioneer Horace E. Dodge and mistress of one of America's great estates, died Tuesday at her Grosse Pointe home at the age of 103.

Mrs. Dodge had been confined in recent years to her elegant home in Grosse Pointe Farms, a suburb of the motor capital where her husband made his fortune.

Her son Horace Jr. died in 1963; her daughter Delphine had died in 1943. Mrs. Dodge survived her husband by 53 years, living off an estate estimated at $37 million.

Horace, along with his brother John, achieved fame in the automotive world until their deaths in 1920. During his lifetime Dodge had emassed a personal fortune and had annual earnings estimated at $1.3 million. Provisions in his will called for the money to be given to his wife and divided further according to her own will.

Horace Jr. was in the midst of a court fight with his fifth wife, showgirl Gregg Sherwood when he died. An out of court settlement with Mrs. Dodge Sr. reportedly brought Gregg $9 million. An out of court settlement was also reached about the youngest son of Horace Jr., born in 1954. He has four other children.

In 1926 Mrs. Dodge married Hugh Dillman (McGoughty) a one time actor. The marriage ended in an uncontested divorce suit brought by Mrs. Dodge in 1947. At that time she received the legal right to use her former name of Dodge.

Mrs. Dodge had met Dillman in a storybook affair in Vienna. Allegedly, Dillman came to Mrs. Dodge's assistance when her gondola operator was quarreling with another, almost upsetting the gondola. The two met again in Florida where the romance grew.

The Dodges had their own yacht in Detroit which was valued at $2 million. During the war it was used as a watchboat by the navy.

Mrs. Dodge's death is expected to reopen numerous lawsuits by her grandchildren and great-grandchildren to obtain an estimated $100 million estate. The estate had been accumulated by investing in nontaxable government bonds.

A large amount of the estate includes jewels. The late Horace Sr. had given his wife a five strand pearl necklace that once belonged to the Empress Catherine of Russia. It cost $800,000. Mrs. Dodge had given the pearls to her daughter some time before the latter's death.

Mrs. Dodge's death was attributed to natural causes.

JOHN LEHOULLIER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert LeHouillier of 2116 21st Ave. S., received his bachelor's degree in history from Northern Michigan University on May 31 in graduation exercises held in the C. B. Hedgecock Fieldhouse. He is a 1966 graduate of Holy Name High School.

LANSING (AP)—Rep. James N. Folks, R-Horton, has announced that he will seek a ninth term in the Michigan House of Representatives. Folks is the ranking Republican on the House Taxation Committee, has served as chairman of that committee. He first was elected to the House in a 1955 special election.

Zollar Won't Seek Seat In U.S. Congress

LANSING (AP) — Senate Appropriations Chairman Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, today announced that he has abandoned thoughts of running for Congress this year—but held the door open for a possible federal bid in 1972.

Zollar said he was "sure" Gov. William Milliken, who has not announced his own political intentions, would run for governor and exhibited a letter from Milliken urging him to "resist the pressure" to seek a congressional seat and "continue to devote your talents to state government."

"You have been so valuable as a member of the State Senate and as chairman of the Appropriations Committee that, in my judgement, it is vitally important that the state may continue to have the benefit of your service in the Michigan legislature," Milliken wrote.

Zollar also displayed a resolution, circulated informally in the chamber last week and signed by 35 of the 38 Senators, urging him to remain in the State Senate.

No signing the resolution were Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor; Sen. Coleman Young, D - Detroit Democratic National Committeeman; and Zollar. Senators explained that Levin and Young had not been asked to sign because of their positions.

Zollar noted that the GOP caucus had earlier this week named him caucus chairman and said that job, combined with his position on the Appropriations Committee, "will assure me of a legislative power base which will allow me to be even more effective in Lansing than I have been in the past."

Asked about his decision to stay in the Senate "for several years," Zollar said he may consider the congressional race again in two years.

"A recent survey in the congressional district has shown that I could have won had I entered the race for congress," Zollar said.

American Motors Lone Auto Firm Showing Profit

DETROIT (AP) — Through the first five months of the year, American Motors Corp. is the only major U.S. automaker to show increased new car sales over a year ago. The industry as a whole trails last year by 11.6 per cent.

AMC, the smallest of the four major automakers, credited its gains with the introduction of the subcompact Gremlin and Hornet.

"We are continuing to attract people who are strong prospects for cars in the segment below the so-called standard size cars," said William S. Pickett, AMC vice president for sales.

AMC had sales through the first five months of 111,021 this year compared to 106,553 last year.

During the May 21-31 selling period, domestic new car sales by U.S. manufacturers dipped a slight 1.18 per cent on a daily rate basis. There were eight selling days this year and nine last year.

Sales during the late May period this year were 267,548 compared to 304,627 last year. The daily selling rate for the 1970 May period was 333,443 compared to 33,847 last year.

Sen. Zaagman Is President Pro-Tem Of State Senate

LANSING (AP) — Sen. Milton Zaagman, R-Grand Rapids, was sworn in Tuesday as president pro tem of the Michigan Senate.

In a brief ceremony in the Senate chamber, Zaagman took his oath of office and title from Acting Lt. Gov. Thomas Schweigert, R-Petoskey.

Schweigert stepped down from the president pro tem spot earlier this week, saying he felt no need to maintain the title, since he already holds the acting lieutenant governor and Senate president designations.

Also sworn into office Tuesday was Sen. Anthony Stamm, R-Kalamazoo, named assistant president pro tem to succeed Zaagman.

Symptoms Of Recession Show Up On West Coast

By KENT STURGIS

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — It's beer instead of cocktails at night clubs, businessmen go out to lunch more often but stay home at night and apartment "for rent" signs are as thick as evergreen trees.

These are the symptoms of recession in Seattle and surrounding King County, home for about 1.1 million persons, where the Boeing Co. is king.

Pinch Felt By All

Airplanes are to Seattle what gambling is to Las Vegas. When Boeing business is down, everybody feels the pinch.

The restaurant and night club business is typical.

"People are tipping less and instead of drinking cocktails, they're ordering beer," complains a downtown bartender. "And instead of two or three, they'll have one and out the door they go."

Luncheon business has jumped in the city's restaurants, according to Stephanie Slater of the State Restaurant Association. At the same time, she said, there's been a decline in evening trade.

Spending Reduced

"Businessmen evidently are still going out to lunch with clients and business associates, maybe on expense accounts, but not spending money at home to take the wife and kids out," she said.

The Boeing Co., which delivered 56 jets in the first quarter of 1970 compared with 96 during the same period last year, has laid off about 20,000 workers since Jan. 1. During all of last year Boeing laid off 14,400. The firm's payroll now stands at 60,700.

Work Force High

There are about 2½ times more people out of work here now than at this time in 1969. The State Department of Employment Security put the April unemployment figure at 50,700 for the Greater Seattle area.

The employment drop has apartment owners and operators in a tizzy.

It's a renters' market. Inducements to attract tenants include free use of color television and stereos, a month's free front for lease-signers and some lowering of rents.

Apartments Vacant

A recent survey in the Seattle-King County area showed one out of every six apartments vacant. The figure was estimated to be 25,000, a 15-month high.

Boeing executives are pinning their hopes for an upswing on a bill now pending in Congress which would provide $290 million for construction of a supersonic transport prototype.

Boeing's net earnings for the first three months of 1970 were $6.8 million, down from the $14.02 million the first quarter of 1969.

Ford Says No To 'Air Bags'

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co has given a flat "no" to a federal government proposal that 1973 cars be equipped with an air bag system to protect occupants in event of a crash.

Ford's unqualified rejection was the strongest voiced yet in the auto industry.

General Motors earlier had called the plan "technically feasible" but said there was no way of meeting the 1973 timetable.

Stuart M. Frey, chief body engineer of Ford, said Monday, "Ford is as anxious as anyone to halt the death toll on the highways, but even if we did have a developed air bag system, which we do not have now, we could not meet the proposed effective dates for installations in cars."

Ford's statement was issued in advance of a June 24 conference in Washington at which government and industry will exchange views on the air bag system.

Ford gave 50 magazine writers a first hand look at the system Monday.

A film clip showed a test car equipped with air bags colliding head-on with another car at 30 miles an hour.

The bag failed to inflate fast enough to keep a boy-sized dummy in the right front passenger seat from crashing into the car windshield.

"If that had been a real boy and a real collision, that boy would have been killed," said Frey.

A second test involved touching off an air bag system as newsmen gathered around the car. The noise, louder than that of a shotgun, was followed by inflation of the nine-foot balloon-like bag in a fraction of a second.

The force of the expansion of the bag, which was attached to the underside of the instrument panel, pulled the panel out of shape and the bag was shredded.

"You have to remember that the test you saw involved only an air bag system protecting one of the car occupants," said Frey.

"The federal government's proposal would have a separate air bag system for each occupant and thus when the system was touched off, the force released could damage the car interior considerably."

Frey said Ford had had active study programs under way in the air bag field since 1957 but is convinced it has not found all the answers yet.

He declared: "What must be avoided at all costs, then, is letting enthusiasm cause premature installations of relatively unproved and inadequately developed air bag systems in future cars

"Any system as potentially dangerous as the air bag if it fires inadvertently must have a system reliability better than a space craft."

2,000 Vietnamese Refugees Leaving Cambodia Area

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Two thousand more Vietnamese refugees left the Cambodian capital by boat today for South Vietnam, ending a two-week suspension in the mass movement of Cambodia's Vietnamese population.

Pham Huy Ty, the South Vietnamese ambassador to Cambodia, said that 80,000 of the half million Vietnamese who lived in Cambodia at the outbreak of the war have crossed the border by boat, by refugee plane or on foot.

South Vietnam halted the refugee migration two weeks ago when reception centers became too crowded

The ambassador said in an interview that contrary to popular opinion, the Vietnamese were not being repatriated. Most of them, he said, were fleeing insecure areas in Cambodia and would return to their old villages when the military situation became more stabilized.

CCI Named In U.S. Court Suit

CHICAGO (AP)—Two Detroit Steep Corp. shareholders have filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking an injunction to prevent Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. from pproceeding with its tender offer for Detroit Steel shares.

The suit, filed Monday by Jacob Yaffe and Esther Barliant, both of Chicago, contended Cleveland-Cliffs' offer would defraud Detroit Steel shareholders who do not also own stock in Cyclops Corp.

The suit also charged that a related agreement between Cleveland-Cliffs and Cyclops violates Securities and Exchange Commission regulations. Under that agreement, Cyclops would obtain steel facilities and operating assets and liabilities of Detroit Steel with Cleveland-Cliffs gaining control of Detroit Steel's shares in Cleveland-Cliffs, the suit alleged.

Named as defendants in the suit are Detroit Steel, Cleveland-Cliffs, Cyclops and Lehman Brothers, dealer manager for the tender offer. The suit was filed on behalf of all Detroit Steel shareholders.

The suit charged that the $16.50 per share offered by Cleveland - Cliffs for Detroit Steel is about $12 below the current book value of the stock including securities at market value.

The plaintiffs said Cyclops would make a $52.3 million profit at the expense of Detroit Steel shareholders.

Fishermen Find Sturgeon Costly

CHEBOYGAN (AP)—A bit of sturgeon fishing cost two Michigan men a total of $890.

Cheboygan's District Court Magistrate, Henry Morse, fined each man $125, as well as $5 per pound for the fish which conservation officers said were found in their possession out of season. The three big sturgeon weighed a total of 128 pounds.

Conservation officers said they found the sturgeon in a boat with Allen Williams, Cheboygan County dog warden, and Bob Woiderski, considered one of the nation's most successful sturgeon fishermen and national champion in 1967. Officers said the fish had been speared, which is illegal except in February through the ice. There was no spear in the boat, however, and the two said they had found the fish. They were charged with possession of sturgeon out of season.

Seeing Planted Tree Grow 'Great Victory'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Everyone should plant a tree when young and periodically revisit and check its growth as long as he lives. There are few better ways to get a feeling of the continuity of life, to lie in its shade after it matures gives one a mystic, almost godlike feeling of victory over fate.

The patient doctors hate most to deal with is the one who says, "The only symptom I've got, doc, is that I keep seeing spots before my eyes." Such cases are among the hardest to diagnose.

Whatever happened to the fine old game of leapfrog? You hardly ever see children play it anymore although, of course, it is still quite popular at the executive level.

One of the unexpected byproducts of inflation is that it has been of some help in bridging the generation gap. The rising price of haircuts has led many dollar-pinched parents to go along with the desire of their sons to let their locks grow long.

The major mystery of our civilization is why it is so easy to wrap something in plastic and so difficult later to unwrap it.

A hard face of life that every college student has to learn sooner or later is that no way has been found yet to earn a pension on a picket line.

You begin to grow up in this world the day you realize that every cause has its flaws.

It is usually safe to lend money—up to $50—to a man with a pug nose.

Hillsdale Police Shake 'Blue Flu'

HILLSDALE (AP) — Hillsdale's eight policemen were scheduled to return to work today after city officials agreed to bargain with them as a collective unit.

City officials signed a letter Tuesday releasing the policemen from Local 214 of the Teamsters Union, which now represents city employes in the refuse, street, power and sewage treatment divisions. The letter also released firemen and employes working on the Hillsdale Board of Public Works Warehouse.

There was to be no reprimand from the city because the policemen called in sick Tuesday with the "blue flu."

The agreement to recognize the Police Association as the collective bargaining agent is subject to approval by the City Council June 8.

Fletcher Girls Will Preform In Recital

A violin and voice recital will be given on Saturday, June 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Choir Room of the Escanaba Area High School. This program will be given by Misses Kristine and Susan Fletcher, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fletcher of Soo Hill.

Kristine Fletcher, violinist, is a 1963 graduate of Escanaba Area High School where she was active in the orchestral activities of the school and the community. She studied violin with Mrs. Arol Beck of Escanaba and was a member of the Escanaba Symphonette.

Graduate Assistant

Miss Fletcher graduated from Northern Michigan University in 1967 and taught elementary and secondary string music in the Oshkosh, Wis. Public Schools for two years. She is presently a graduate assistant in music at Ball State University, Munice, Ind. and will receive a masters' degree from that institution in July of this year.

Assisting Miss Fetcher will be Ruth Leaf, violinist, of Lindsborg, Kansas, who is also a graduate assistant at Ball State and the concertmaster of their orchestras, and Yolanda Paganelli, pianist, and a graduate student from Argentina, South America.

Perform In Spain

Both Miss Fletcher and Miss Leaf study with Eugen Prokop, international artists from Czechoslovakia and play in the Festival String Ensemble, which is also under Mr. Prokop's direction. This ensemble will be studying and performing at the International Summer Academy at Paima de Mallorca, Spain, this summer.

Susan Fletcher is a 1969 graduate of Escanaba Area High School and is presently completing her freshman year in music at Kalamazoo College, Kalamazoo.

Solo Work

She was active throughout her high school years in the choral and orchestra departments and took part in the Concert Choir, Madrigal Singers, orchestra, and string quartet. She had lead roles in the productions of, 'Sound of Music," "Carousel," and, "Brigadon," and has done extensive solo work in the community.

Miss Fletcher studied voice with Mrs. M. H. Garrard Jr., and piano with Mrs. John R. Chown during her high school years. She will be assisted in this recital by Mrs. Chown on the piano.

Public Invited

Works by Tartini, Beethoven, Debussy, Hurnik, Zach, Purcell, Puccini, Villa - Lobos, and Barber will be performed and the public is invited to attend this free recital.

Calvary Vacation Church School Begins Wednesday

Mrs. Rodger Pearson and Debbie Kaukola will serve as assistants.

The children are to wear school clothes. They will sing at the worship service on Sunday, June 7.

Mrs. Dow D. Dawson (Gordon Nelson Studio)

Margaret G. Royer, Dow Dawson Are Wed

Margaret Gloria Royer of Gladstone and Dow Douglas Dawson of Chatam, exchanged wedding vows during a double ring ceremony performed at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 30 at All Saints Church in Gladstone.

Officiating at the nuptials was Msgr. Matt LaViolette. The bride is the daughter of Wilfred Royer, 524 Wisconsin Ave., Gladstone and Pearle Royer of Green Bay. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dawson of Chatam.

Chiffon, Taffeta

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Jack (Beth) Curran of Green Bay and serving as best man was Stan Bizeau of Gladstone. Seating the guests were Jim Cole and Jerry Miller, both of Gladstone.

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length gown of white chiffon over taffeta fashioned with a full sheer sleeves and a chapel length train which attached at the shoulders.

A bow headpiece with flower trim secured her waist length veil and she carried a bouquet of red roses and pink and white mums.

Velvet Bolero

The honor matron was attired in a floor length white crepe gown with a rolled collar and long full sleeves and styled with a deep blue velvet bolero. A white crepe bow headpiece completed her attire and she carried a mum bouquet.

Cory Curran of Green Bay, neice of the bride, was the flower girl and was attired in a floor length white crepe gown also with a deep blue velvet bolero. She carried a basket filled with red and white flowers.

Mothers' Attire

The mother of the bride was attired in a pink dress with matching accessories and she was presented a corsage of ivory orchids. Mrs. Dawson chose a turquoise sheath dress with a lace coat and matching accessories and she pinned a pink and white floral corsage.

Reception

The wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's father following the ceremony. The newlyweds will reside at 1625 Wisconsin Ave., Gladstone.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Gladstone High School and she is employed by Eaton, Yale and Towne of Gladstone. Mr. Dawson is a 1965 graduate of Romeo High School and he served with the U.S. Navy from 1965-1968. He is presently employed by Eaton, Yale and Towne.

When you are making oyster stew, add a little celery salt and Worcestershire sauce for excellent flavor.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE

Dear Heloise:

Your readers should know about retro-reflective materials and devices. They have the unique ability of receiving a beam of light (as may come from automobile headlights) and returning it to the light source with amazing brilliance.

Reflective materials may now be incorporated on clothing, personal accessories such as purses, umbrellas, etc., carried on the person in the form of "dangletaps," or attached to bicycles and motorcycles. This is the same type of material now used in highway signs which appear to "light up" in approaching headlights. Automobiles and trucks also use these materials as nighttime warning devices.

During the past seven years in the United States, pedestrian fatalities have increased about 15 per cent with over 50 per cent of these occurring at night!

Each year, over 9,000 pedestrians are killed by motor vehicles and 500,000 injured!

The effectiveness of using retro-reflection materials and devices has been demonstrated in certain European countries where nighttime pedestrian deaths have been reduced as much as 26 per cent.

We hope your readers will purchase retro-reflective materials and devices which are appearing on the market in an increasing variety of forms and application.

Dear Heloise:

Did you know that coffee cans are perfect for freezing soups and sauces?

I always make two large pots of soup at one time. Then I pour the soup in cans lined with a plastic bread bag or piece of plastic, leaving about two inches overhang at the top. Place on lid and freeze.

Then when we feel like having soup, just defrost and heat. It's just as fresh as the day I made it and sure saves time.

One of your readers asked about storing plastic bags. Here is my method:

Out of leftover table oilcloth I made a case similar to a shoe bag . . . consisting of three large pockets.

This case hangs on the inside of the door to the back stairway. In one pocket I keep medium and small bowl covers, large ones in the second pocket and bags in the third.

House OK's Measure To Invest Tax Funds In Paper Market

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House approved two bills Tuesday that would allow state and local officials to invest public tax reserves in the potentially sensitive prime commercial paper market.

Sponsored by Rep. Thomas J. Anderson, D-Southgate, the bills sent to the Senate on 85-23 and 77-27 votes, would authorize state treasury officials, county commission boards and local authorities to make short-term loans to private corporations.

Notes coming due within 270 days have been returning interest in recent weeks at rates of 8⅛ to 8⅝ per cent. Both extremes of the market are higher than the prime lending rate, now at 8 per cent.

In other action, majority Democrats faced a lengthy voting test of strength by Republicans before postponing action until later today on a once-defeated $352.9 million welfare appropriation for the coming year.

Republicans, aiming to cut the measure back toward the $333.2 million recommended by Gov. William G. Milliken, sought to avoid the delay, arguing that to postpone final vote would result in further increases.

Party leaders were to meet early today with Glenn S. Allen Jr., Milliken's budget director, to discuss a compromise settlement on massive welfare supports that will mean a certain increase of $45 million over this year's tax expenditures.

In a bizarre, yes-no-maybe sequence of voting Tuesday, the House sent to the Senate a bill that would open unemployment compensation to nonteaching public school employes such as cooks, janitors and bus drivers.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, passed on a 59-43 vote after Republican opponents rallied a 56-41 tally to reconsider a previous 60-36 approving vote.

The thrust of GOP opposition to the bill was that it contained inestimable cost implications for local school boards and state compensation funds while also opening the door to eventual lay-off checks for teachers on summer vacations.

The Anderson bills proposing to open the commercial paper market to public investors, drew relatively little criticism in floor debate.

Recently there was controversy in Ohio over improprieties linked to top state officials. And a bit there revealed the Ohio treasury department had exceeded a $50 million ceiling on primer commercial paper loans by $12 million.

Loans also had been made for periods of more than two years despite a state law that only paer rated "prime" by the National Credit Office (NCO), a Dun & Bradstreet subsidiary, would be eligible.

The NCA defines prime paper as coming due within 270 days

While the bills sent to the Michigan Senate Tuesday make no reference to maximum amounts or credit rating, Anderson said all purchases would be subject to NCO standards.

Other supporters contended the new lending latitude would be "in the public interest because of the higher interest rates it would make available."

Critics, however, contended, the bill left too much unsaid about acceptable credit standards.

Losses In Truckers' Strike Mounting

CHICAGO (AP) — Business losses in a Chicago trucking strike almost two months old may be nearing the $1-billion mark and laid-off workers are losing millions a day in wages.

But household necessities such as milk, eggs and bread are still available. Says Ted Anastos, an attorney for the trucking industry:

"If food wouldn't be delivered because of a truck strike we'd have the women burning the town down."

About 15,000 trucks belonging to smaller firms continue to deliver the daily essentials of life.

But 35,000 huge tractor trailer rigs and other trucks belonging to the city's leading carriers were idle.

So far, the wholesalers, businesses with marginal inventories and small manufacturers have taken the brunt of the economic loss which the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry estimates at $900 million since April 9.

The combined strike and lockout involving Teamsters Union Locals 705 and 710 and the independent Chicago Truck Drivers Union began April 9 when the drivers pushed for a $1.65 an hour wage increase over their present $4.10 an hour.

A spokesman for the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry said the stoppage may harm Chicago's reputation as a center for truck traffic and as a national supplier of commodities.

"When this is over we're going to have a selling job on our hands," he said. "If the strike continues much longer some businesses will set up new paths of supply and transportation which will circumvent Chicago."

President Nixon ordered Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz to enter the dispute last Thursday in an effort to bring the unions and industry to the bargaining table.

Shultz dispatched his chief mediator to the city and said the dispute "is a matter of serious concern to the administration."

The Association of Commerce and Industry says there have been 170,000 layoffs in a wide range of businesses and industries, a $7 million a day payroll loss and more than 65,500 persons who have claimed unemployment benefits because of the dispute.

A Teamsters spokesman claimed that many of the economic loss figures were inflated, although he acknowledged that the dispute was costing Chicago a great deal of money.

"These announcements of economic losses are just more pressure tactics," the spokesman said.

"Of course, people are getting hurt In every labor dispute some people get hurt, but the drivers are suffering too. Still, they're determined to get an acceptable contract."

Many of the drivers, who get only a nominal strike benefit check each week, have begun working as taxi drivers and drivers for firms which have signed with the unions.

Industry sources said others had hired out independently to merchants.

In upper right, Gallaty makes a vain attempt to make the horse back down twenty stairs it climbed to get to the loft. Nixon's Inflation Policy Fares Badly: Businessmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three of four businessmen in a new poll say the government's anti-inflation efforts have flopped, echoing the persistent sentiment of organized labor and a group of congressional Democrats.

Of the 712 businessmen answering a poll by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce magazine Nation's Business, 540 said President Nixon's efforts were going badly or there was no improvement in inflation.

"We have the worst inflation in 20 years," AFL-CIO economist Nathan Goldfinger said Tuesday. "I would not rule out a depression, but the current situation certainly is one of economic recession, and the economic recession is getting worse."

In other developments Tuesday the stock market's four-day rally stalled after a gain of nearly 80 points, and House Democrats introduced a bill to give the President power to impose the wage-price controls he opposes.

The Nation's Business survey will be published in the magazine's July edition. Every three months the magazine polls one of two alternating groups of 1,500 businessmen. About half respond each time.

This time 712 responded, with 540 seeing no improvement or worse and 172 seeing at least slight improvement. Six months ago, when the same 1,500 were polled, 762 responded. Of them only 344 saw no improvement or were dissatisfied, and 417 saw at least some improvement.

Labor's Goldfinger, after noting the sharpest rise in living costs in two decades, went on to say, "We have the sharpest increase in unemployment in 10 years. We have sky-high interest rates—higher than at any time in the past 100 years or more."

He spoke on the AFL-CIO-sponsored Labor News Conference program on the Mutual Broadcasting System.

He repeated the AFL-CIO's offer to support controls if Nixon finds them necessary and if they apply equally to prices, profits, dividends, rents and corporate salaries as well as wages.

Meanwhile 12 Democrats—all members of the House Banking Committee—introduced a bill that would give Nixon standby powers to impose such controls. Hearings were set for June 16.

The Banking Committee's senior Republican, Rep. William B. Widnall of New Jersey, already has called the bill a political ploy. The administration has opposed controls as unworkable.

Goldfinger urged Nixon to use the less drastic selective credit controls Congress authorized four months ago. He said they would pump more money into such slumping areas as construction and would restrict money for big-business speculation.

On the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday the Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials closed down three-quarters of a point after a four-day upsurge that had seen a gain of nearly 20 points.

GI Reduction Means Allied Slack Takeup

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird today said U.S. allies must take up the slack as the United States reduces its armed forces by a million men.

He also said the United States must help out with more military supplies.

"As this reduction in American manpower capability takes place, it must be offset by a growing capability on the part of our allies," Laird said in a speech prepared for Air Force Academy graduation exercises.

The remarks come two days before Laird leaves for meetings with high-level NATO officials in Venice and Brussels.

The Pentagon chief, who has indicated such long-range intentions in the past, did not say how much time will pass before U.S. armed forces drop to 2.5 million from a Vietnam war peak of 3.5 million.

The Nixon administration already has trimmed U.S. armed strength by about 400,000 men as the United States gradually withdraws from Vietnam. Under its defense budget for the fiscal year starting next month, the total will drop another 200,000 to a level of 2.9 million.

With budget pressures steadily mounting, the troop reduction may be accelerated.

Agnew Fires Point Blank At 'Misfits'

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew spoke out again today against what he called "criminal misfits" and "charlatans of peace and freedom."

In a speech at the 171st commencement of the U.S. Military Academy, Agnew said much of the nation's present discontent is "contrived confusion brought about by a clever, sustained assault on America's system and institutions."

"This is a time when some glamorize criminal misfits of society while our best men die in Asian rice paddies to preserve the freedoms those misfits abuse," Agnew told the 749 graduating cadets and 15,000 guests in Michie Stadium.

"This is a time when the charlatans of peace and freedom eulogize foreign dictators while desecrating the flag that keeps them free."

Looking directly at the graduating cadets in their formal, gray and white dress uniforms, the vice president said:

"You are going out into an army today that has borne the brunt of a lonely and difficult war, far from home, and in the face of open and hostile lack of support from a minority of our citizenry."

The enthusiastic crowd of relatives and friends of the cadets stood and cheered as the graduating class entered the stadium and again when the vice president came in.

Milliken Signs Bill Aimed At Dissenters

LANSING (AP) — Saying that the new law will give campus authorities more "legal muscle" in dealing with disrupters, Gov. William Milliken announced Tuesday the signing of a bill authorizing fines and jail terms for persons who refuse orders to leave campuses.

"I think it is a fair and objective bill," Milliken said at an afternoon news conference. Persons who refuse to leave at the order of university officials or who come on campus with the intent to disrupt would face fines or jail terms or both.

In addition to that bill, Milliken also signed Tuesday a measure increasing the bonding limit of the State Housind Development Authority by $250 million. It is designed to improve housing conditions for Michigan residents who do not now have decent quarters.

Milliken said there will be a meeting in his office Wednesday morning to discuss Michigan Blue Shield procedures. The Executive Office has posed a number of questions for Blue Shield response.

On another matter, the governor said he would announce next Tuesday or Wednesday morning whether he will seek election to a first full term as governor.

Milliken's weekly news conference originally had been scheduled for Wednesday, but the governor revised his schedule so he could testify Wednesday morning in Detroit at a state-federal conference on pollution of Lake Erie.

Mrs. J. Kleiman Taken By Death

MENOMINEE — Mrs. John E. Kleiman, 68, of Wilson, died at 3:30 a. m., today at the Bellin Memorial Hospital in Green Bay.

The former Elizabeth Ruttner was born June 17, 1901, in Kewaunee, Wis., and was married on Nov. 15, 1921, in Spalding.

She was a member of the St. Francis Xavier Church of Spalding and the St. Anne's Society. She was also a member of the Bohemian Lodge of Carney.

She is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Daniel Hanson of Milwaukee and Mrs. John Chernick of Escanaba; two sons, Joseph of Brookfield, Wis., and John Jr., of Wilson; 11 grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Leslie Johnson of Iron Mountain, Mrs. Oliver Sindorff of Milwaukee and Mrs. Theodore Kleiman Sr., of Bark River; two brothers, William and Otto, both of Carney.

Friends and relatives may call at the Kell-Tondin Chapel in Spalding on Thursday from 4 to 9 p. m., and the parish rosary will be recited at 8 p. m. Funeral services will be conducted at 9:30 a. m., Friday at the St. Francis Xavier Church in Spalding with the Rev. Lester Bourgois officiating. Burial will be in the Spalding Township Cemetery.

Soviet Spacemen Maneuver Craft Into New Orbit

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's two orbiting space men made a second course correction during their second night aloft and completed 22 orbits before settling down to sleep this morning, Tass reported today.

The Soviet news agency's progress report on the flight of Soyuz 9, which was launched Monday night, said cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastyanov "feel well and retain fully their capacity for work."

In the 17th orbit, it reported, they oriented the spaceship manually and "an orbit correction maneuver was carried out." It said the orbit now ranged between 153.5 and 165.3 miles from the earth. Previously the distances had been 132 to 166 miles.

The angle of the orbit to the Equator remained the same, 51.7 degrees, and the time of each orbit was also unchanged at 88.5 minutes.

Mild Market Dip Leaves Advances Largely Intact

By noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 1.50 at 709.11. The average had been down 2.81 points at 11:30 a.m.

Winning issues on the New York Stock Exchange clung to a narrow lead over losers. Gainers had held a 3 to 2 edge over decliners early in the session.

Analysts attributed the modest price erosion today to profit-taking which they said was normal in view of the rally of monumental proportions that began a week ago. The upsurge sent the Dow average skyrocketing nearly 80 points over four session.

Trading was only moderate in the morning session. Analysts said they drew encouragement from the fact that many investors appeared to be sitting out the selling phase in hopes that the recent strong rally had not yet run its course.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .5 at 245.2. Industrials were off .9, rails off .2, and utilities up .1.

Vietnam Veteran Killed In Crash

CADILLAC (AP)—A soldier on leave from Viet Nam died Tuesday night when the new car he had just purchased crashed on M15 in Osceola County.

State Police said, 20-year-old Gary Lee Spitler of Cadillac died when his car slammed into guard rails and mail boxes along the highway and rolled over.

Police said Spitler bought the car Tuesday and it had only been driven 57 miles when the crash occurred.

Rocket Attack Kills 2, Wounds 7 Children

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab guerrillas in Jordan fired two waves of rockets into the frontier town of Beit Shean today, killing two schoolchildren and wounding at least seven others, the Israeli military command announced.

They were the third group of casualties among Israeli schoolchildren in two weeks. Another rocket attack on Beit Shean Monday killed a schoolgirl, and a guerrilla ambush of a schoolbus on the Lebanese border killed eight children and four adults on MMay 22.

In the first attack across the Jordan River today, one rocket crashed into a house, killing a 9-year-old girl, while others wounded three girls and a 38-year-old woman.

An hour and a half later, several more of the Soviet Katyusha rockets were fired at the town and at least one hit a school building, killing a boy and wounding four of his classmates, initial reports said.

The reports said the rocket set a classroom afire, and police and rescue workers were searching for more victims.

Israeli forces returned the fire, but there was no immediate word on the results.

Rockets also struck the settlement of Moaz Haim, two miles from Beit Shean, but no casualties were reported.

A bomb exploded in Jerusalem early today, a few hours before the start of the official celebration of the third anniversary of Israel's conquest of the Arab sector. There were no casualties in the blast.

Apollo Blast Cause Noted

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The head of an investigation board says excessive electrical power applied to a pair of thermostatic switches during a ground test caused the Apollo 13 flight disaster.

Edgar M. Cortwright, chairman of the Apollo 13 investigation panel, said the switches welded themselves closed two weeks before the April 11 launch.

Workmen had applied too much voltage to a circuit that powered a heater inside the service module oxygen tank, he said.

The tank exploded April 13 while Apollo 13 was more than halfway to the moon, causing cancellation of a planned lunar landing and endangering the lives of the astronauts.

Cortwright said the ground technicians applied 65 volts of electricity to the switches when normal procedures to drain the oxygen tank failed. The switches, he said, were designed to withstand only 30 volts.

Cortwright said the temperature in the heater could rise to 1,000 degrees with the switches welded closed. Tests showed, he said, that such heat could cause splitting of insulation on wires near the heater, leading to a spark that could ignite other insulation.

"This local furnace could burn through the tank," he said, allowing the oxygen to vent into the service module.

The oxygen could force off a panel covering the side of the module and damage another nearby oxygen tank, he said.

Cortwright said he was unable to explain why the explosion in space did not occur earlier.

House OK's Measure To Invest Tax Funds In Paper Market

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House approved two bills Tuesday that would allow state and local officials to invest public tax reserves in the potentially sensitive prime commercial paper market.

Sponsored by Rep. Thomas J. Anderson, D-Southgate, the bills sent to the Senate on 85-23 and 77-27 votes, would authorize state treasury officials, county commission boards and local authorities to make short-term loans to private corporations.

Notes coming due within 270 days have been returning interest in recent weeks at rates of 8⅛ to 8⅝ per cent. Both extremes of the market are higher than the prime lending rate, now at 8 per cent.

In other action, majority Democrats faced a lengthy voting test of strength by Republicans before postponing action until later today on a once-defeated $352.9 million welfare appropriation for the coming year.

Republicans, aiming to cut the measure back toward the $333.2 million recommended by Gov. William G. Milliken, sought to avoid the delay, arguing that to postpone final vote would result in further increases.

Party leaders were to meet erly today with Glenn S. Allen Jr., Milliken's budget director, to discuss a compromise settlement on massive welfare supports that will mean a certain increase of $45 million over this year's tax expenditures.

In a bizarre, yes-no-maybe sequence of voting Tuesday, the House sent to the Senate a bill that would open unemployment compensation to nonteaching public school employes such as cooks, janitors and bus drivers.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, passed on a 59-43 vote after Republican opponents rallied a 56-41 tally to reconsider a previous 60-36 approving vote.

The thrust of GOP opposition to the bill was that it contained inestimable cost implications for local school boards and state compensation funds while also opening the door to eventual lay-off checks for teachers on summer vacations.

The Anderson bills proposing to open the commercial paper market to public investors, drew relatively little criticism in floor debate.

Recently there was controversy in Ohio over improprieties linked to top state officials. And a bit there revealed the Ohio treasury department had exceeded a $50 million ceiling on primer commercial paper loans by $12 million.

Loans also had been made for periods of more than two years despite a state law that only paper rated "prime" by the National Credit Office (NCO), a Dun & Bradstreet subsidiary, would be eligible.

The NCA defines prime paper as coming due within 270 days.

While the bills sent to the Michigan Senate Tuesday make no reference to maximum amounts or credit rating, Anderson said all purchases would be subject to NCO standards.

Other supporters contended the new lending latitude would be "in the public interest because of the higher interest rates it would make available."

Critics, however, contended, the bill left too much unsaid about acceptable credit standards.

Losses In Truckers' Strike Mounting

CHICAGO (AP) — Business losses in a Chicago trucking strike almost two months old may be nearing the $1-billion mark and laid-off workers are losing millions a day in wages.

But household necessities such as milk, eggs and bread are still available. Says Ted Anastos, an attorney for the trucking industry:

"If food wouldn't be delivered because of a truck strike we'd have the women burning the town down."

About 15,000 trucks belonging to smaller firms continue to deliver the daily essentials of life.

But 35,000 huge tractor trailer rigs and other trucks belonging to the city's leading carriers were idle.

So far, the wholesalers, businesses with marginal inventories and small manufacturers have taken the brunt of the economic loss which the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry estimates at $900 million since April 9.

The combined strike and lockout involving Teamsters Union Locals 705 and 710 and the independent Chicago Truck Drivers Union began April 9 when the drivers pushed for a $1.65 an hour wage increase over their present $4.10 an hour.

A spokesman for the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry said the stoppage may harm Chicago's reputation as a center for truck traffic and as a national supplier of commodities.

"When this is over we're going to have a selling job on our hands," he said. "If the strike continues much longer some businesses will set up new paths of supply and transportation which will circumvent Chicago."

President Nixon ordered Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz to enter the dispute last Thursday in an effort to bring the unions and industry to the bargaining table.

Shultz dispatched his chief mediator to the city and said the dispute "is a matter of serious concern to the administration."

The Association of Commerce and Industry says there have been 170,000 layoffs in a wide range of businesses and industries, a $7 million a day payroll loss and more than 65,500 persons who have claimed unemployment benefits because of the dispute.

A Teamsters spokesman claimed that many of the economic loss figures were inflated, although he acknowledged that the dispute was costing Chicago a great deal of money.

"These announcements of economic losses are just more pressure tactics," the spokesman said.

"Of course, people are getting hurt In every labor dispute some people get hurt, but the drivers are suffering too. Still, they're determined to get an acceptable contract."

Many of the drivers, who get only a nominal strike benefit check each week, have begun working as taxi drivers and drivers for firms which have signed with the unions.

Industry sources said others had hired out independently to merchants.

Nixon's Inflation Policy Fares Badly: Businessmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three of four businessmen in a new poll say the government's anti-inflation efforts have flopped, echoing the persistent sentiment of organized labor and a group of congressional Democrats.

Of the 712 businessmen answering a poll by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce magazine Nation's Business, 540 said President Nixon's efforts were going badly or there was no improvement in inflation.

"We have the worst inflation in 20 years," AFL-CIO economist Nathan Goldfinger said Tuesday. "I would not rule out a depression, but the current situation certainly is one of economic recession, and the economic recession is getting worse."

In other developments Tuesday the stock market's four-day rally stalled after a gain of nearly 80 points, and House Democrats introduced a bill to give the President power to impose the wage-price controls he opposes.

The Nation's Business survey will be published in the magazine's July edition. Every three months the magazine polls one of two alternating groups of 1,500 businessmen. About half respond each time.

This time 712 responded, with 540 seeing no improvement or worse and 172 seeing at least slight improvement. Six months ago, when the same 1,500 were polled, 762 responded. Of them only 344 saw no improvement or were dissatisfied, and 417 saw at least some improvement.

Labor's Goldfinger, after noting the sharpest rise in living costs in two decades, went on to say, "We have the sharpest increase in unemployment in 10 years. We have sky-high interest rates—higher than at any time in the past 100 years or more."

He spoke on the AFL-CIO-sponsored Labor News Conference program on the Mutual Broadcasting System.

He repeated the AFL-CIO's offer to support controls if Nixon finds them necessary and if they apply equally to prices, profits, dividends, rents and corporate salaries as well as wages.

Meanwhile 12 Democrats—all members of the House Banking Committee—introduced a bill that would give Nixon standby powers to impose such controls. Hearings were set for June 16.

The Banking Committee's senior Republican, Rep. William B. Widnall of New Jersey, already has called the bill a political ploy. The administration has opposed controls as unworkable.

Goldfinger urged Nixon to use the less drastic selective credit controls Congress authorized four months ago. He said they would pump more money into such slumping areas as construction and would restrict money for big-business speculation.

On the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday the Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials closed down three-quarters of a point after a four-day upsurge that had seen a gain of nearly 20 points.

GI Reduction Means Allied Slack Takeup

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird today said U.S. allies must take up the slack as the United States reduces its armed forces by a million men.

He also said the United States must help out with more military supplies.

"As this reduction in American manpower capability takes place, it must be offset by a growing capability on the part of our allies," Laird said in a speech prepared for Air Force Academy graduation exercises.

The remarks come two days before Laird leaves for meetings with high-level NATO officials in Venice and Brussels.

The Pentagon chief, who has indicated such long-range intentions in the past, did not say how much time will pass before U.S. armed forces drop to 2.5 million from a Vietnam war peak of 3.5 million.

The Nixon administration already has trimmed U.S. armed strength by about 400,000 men as the United States gradually withdraws from Vietnam. Under its defense budget for the fiscal year starting next month, the total will drop another 200,000 to a level of 2.9 million.

With budget pressures steadily mounting, the troop reduction may be accelerated.

Agnew Fires Point Blank At 'Misfits'

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew spoke out again today against what he called "criminal misfits" and "charlatans of peace and freedom."

In a speech at the 171st commencement of the U.S. Military Academy, Agnew said much of the nation's present discontent is "contrived confusion brought about by a clever, sustained assault on America's system and institutions."

"This is a time when some glamorize criminal misfits of society while our best men die in Asian rice paddies to preserve the freedoms those misfits abuse," Agnew told the 749 graduating cadets and 15,000 guests in Michie Stadium.

"This is a time when the charlatans of peace and freedom eulogize foreign dictators while desecrating the flag that keeps them free."

Looking directly at the graduating cadets in their formal, gray and white dress uniforms, the vice president said:

"You are going out into an army today that has borne the brunt of a lonely and difficult war, far from home, and in the face of open and hostile lack of support from a minority of our citizenry."

The enthusiastic crowd of relatives and friends of the cadets stood and cheered as the graduating class entered the stadium and again when the vice president came in.

Mild Market Dip Leaves Advances Largely Intact

By noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 1.50 at 708.11. The average had been down 2.81 points at 11:30 a.m.

Cheryl Toushak To Receive Bachelor Of Science Degree

Two hundred eighty-four Grand Valley State College students are candidates for graduation at ceremonies in the college's Field House, Sunday, June 14.

The four-year west Michigan institution offers degree programs leading to the Bachelor of Arts, Bachelor of Science, and Bachelor of Philosophy.

Featured speaker will be Dr. James H. Zumberge, first president of the Allendale college, and presently director of the School of Earth Sciences, University of Arizona, Tucson.

Among the candidates for graduation is Cheryl A. Toushak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Toushak, 1216 N. 19th St., Escanaba. Miss Toushak will receive the Bachelor of Science degree, psychology major.

Apollo Blast Cause Noted

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The head of an investigation board says excessive electrical power applied to a pair of thermostatic switches during a ground test caused the Apollo 13 flight disaster.

Edgar M. Cortwright, chairman of the Apollo 13 investigation panel, said the switches welded themselves closed two weeks before the April 11 launch.

Workmen had applied too much voltage to a circuit that powered a heater inside the service module oxygen tank, he said.

The tank exploded April 13 while Apollo 13 was more than halfway to the moon, causing cancellation of a planned lunar landing and endangering the lives of the astronauts.

Cortwright said the ground technicians applied 65 volts of electricity to the switches when normal procedures to drain the oxygen tank failed. The switches, he said, were designed to withstand only 30 volts.

Cortwright said the temperature in the heater could rise to 1,000 degrees with the switches welded closed. Tests showed, he said, that such heat could cause splitting of insulation on wires near the heater, leading to a spark that could ignite other insulation.

"This local furnace could burn through the tank," he said, allowing the oxygen to vent into the service module.

The oxygen could force off a panel covering the side of the module and damage another nearby oxygen tank, he said.

Cortwright said he was unable to explain why the explosion in space did not occur earlier.

Soviet Spacemen Maneuver Craft Into New Orbit

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's two orbiting space men made a second course correction during their second night aloft and completed 22 orbits before settling down to sleep this morning, Tass reported today.

The Soviet news agency's progress report on the flight of Soyuz 9, which was launched Monday night, said cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastyanov "feel well and retain fully their capacity for work."

In the 17th orbit, it reported, they oriented the spaceship manually and "an orbit correction maneuver was carried out." It said the orbit now ranged between 153.5 and 165.3 miles from the earth. Previously the distances had been 132 to 166 miles.

The angle of the orbit to the Equator remained the same, 51.7 degrees, and the time of each orbit was also unchanged at 89.5 minutes.

Vietnam Veteran Killed In Crash

CADILLAC (AP)—A soldier on leave from Viet Nam died Tuesday night when the new car he had just purchased crashed on M15 in Osceola County.

State Police said, 20-year-old Gary Lee Spitler of Cadillac died when his car slammed into guard rails and mail boxes along the highway and rolled over.

Police said Spitler bought the car Tuesday and it had only been driven 57 miles when the crash occurred.

Be Someone, Speaker Tells MHS Graduates

"We are living in an age that stresses the value of the person. The song "Everything is Beautiful" has the words "everyone is beautiful in their own way." And so they are. It's the beauty and good in you that makes you the beautiful person you can be today," Father Arnold Grambow, assistant pastor of St. Francis de Sales, told the MHS Class of 1970 at Sunday night's Baccalaureate program.

Fr. Grambow reminded the graduates of what others have done for them and that "you in turn, cannot help but do the same for them and for others. Just as you have been influenced by others, so you must influence others."

"Don't be satisfied just to prove something; be someone. Don't be satisfied just to react to what others say or do to you; be a person who acts. Be real and you will be someone. Look at others around you: what they have given you to make you what you are and what you can give to make them better people. This is your Christian vocation, no matter what you do in your entire lifetime. Be what you are in the best way you can," he concluded.

Sunday night's program opened with the "Pomp and Circumstance" processional by the MHS Band. Rev. Robert Haring, pastor of the Bethel Baptist Church, gave the invocation, Scripture reading and prayer and also the closing Benediction. Miss Arlene Gordanier, vocal music supervisor, sang "God Be in May Head" by Nicholson.

"Don't be satisfied just to prove something; be someone. Don't be satisfied just to react to what others say or do to you; be a person who acts. Be real and you will be someone. Look at others around you: what they have given you to make you what you are and what you can give to make them better people. This is your Christian vocation, no matter what you do in your entire lifetime. Be what you are in the best way you can," he concluded.

Sunday night's program opened with the "Pomp and Circumstance" processional by the MHS Band. Rev. Robert Haring, pastor of the Bethel Baptist Church, gave the invocation, Scripture reading and prayer and also the closing Benediction. Miss Arlene Gordanier, vocal music supervisor, sang "God Be in May Head" by Nicholson.

Governor Pushing For More Control

By DON HOENSHELL
Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Gov. Milliken envisions a day when public policy will outlaw anything in the environment that is offensive to man or jeopardizes his health and safety.

There is solid evidence that the mood has been sharpening for stronger controls in the past decade.

"We are entering a whole new field," he said. "Our government is geared up and ready, the state and federal governments are cooperating smoothly.

"We are just now discovering the effect of mercury and DDT and heaven knows how many other substances."

Modern history in Michigan brought quick reactions by adminstrative officials to the discharge of phenol wastes into public waters in the 1960s, the killing of ducks and fish in other instances.

The Time Gap

Now the legislative and top executive of the state are moving into the picture.

Milliken first banned fishing on Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair River, then modified the phohibition to a catch-and-release policy on those waters and on the Detroit river.

Scientists, he said, found that fish taken from these waters were potentially dangerous to human beings because of the high level of mercury, caused by industrial wastes flowing into the water.

Canadian authorities have lifted entirely their own ban on fishing in those waters, a decision not immediately transmitted to Milliken. It shows that better coordination still must be worked out.

Another flaw was demonstrated by the 14-day gap between the mercury pollution off Ludington in Lake Michigan and the governor's first knowledge of it. There was another lag in reporting a cyanide spillage at Saginaw.

State Concern

Both incidents came before Milliken issued orders requiring a monitoring of all industrial wastes going into public waters.

But it dramatized that pollution regarded as a local problem years ago is now becoming a major state concern, that the situation is believed now to be critical on a higher level.

Milliken said that "hundreds and possibly thousands" of incidents will be brought into the state for action."

In the legislature, there is one major bill already passed by the House to allow anyone to sue in court to abate pollution. Two other bills seek to establish a State Department of Ecology, the 20th and final state agency under the 1963 contritution.

Other efforts are blooming to beef up the staffs and responsibilities of the Water Resources Commission and the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission.

Escanaba Mill

These are the watchdog agencies now in the fields of air and water pollution and both have power to approve or reject the installations of large industrial installations.

It was only after months of hearings and investigations that the Air Pollution Control Commission was satisfied enough with air pollution control devices that it allowed Mead Corporation to start a $65 million pulp mill at Escanaba.

Other signs of Milliken's vision was the announcement that 24 gasoline stations in Detroit will start selling unleaded gasoline in June.

Milliken was told that Detroit area factories closed down their stacks the day he flew over on an air inspection of pollution conditions.

"I do not have knowledge of that, but if they did, it is reprehensible," he said.

'Free School' Has Interesting Agenda

BLOOMFIELD HILLS (AP)—A New kind of institution, divorced from education's traditional structure and based on a laugh and learn philosophy, seems to be flourishing in Detroit's northern suburbs.

It's called the Free School.

The brainchild of two 18-year-old girls, the Free School is tuition free and restriction free. Classes, taught by volunteers range from Appreciation of Nature to Shakespeare, Cruising on Woodward, Sex and Junkshop Tripping. The students may talk about Tolstoy one day, Tolkein the next. They meet when it's convenient.

The gals behind the Free School are Jane Rothstein and Dedra Buchwald both seniors at Andover High School in Bloomfield Hills. They see the school as a vehicle to "true meaning—the sharing of huhuman experience, continual self-discovery and joyful exploration of the unknown."

They say they are against a student being confined within four walls six hours a day, rules prohibiting gum - chewing and talking and mechanical memorization of information.

"Our present educational system ruins minds," Miss Rothstein said. "It stifles creativity."

Their alternative is the Free School.

They began organizing about two months ago, distributing 7,000 leaflets, and enlisting volunteer help to coordinate, offer ideas and teach.

"We soon realized," the girls explained, "that everyone has a gripe with the school system. We got a universal response—athletes, adults, children, academics, everyone called."

They found a place for the Free School to meet at three Birmingham churches and put out a catalogue for some 70 classes offered. The churches lending their facilities to the school are the Birmingham Unitarian Church, Congregational Church and United Church of Christ.

The numbers attending the range of classes vary from day to day. Some of the most popular sessions, like Sensitivity, Hoga and Revolution of Consciousness, attract 75-100 persons.

And the project has already caught the interest of Detroit area educators, among them Bloomfield Andover High School's Principal Richard J. Speiss. When the Free School's first session meanders to an end, the two organizers plan to present their educational theories and their program to the Bloomfield Hills Board of Education.

Of the 70 proposed classes, at least half have been successful. The corps of teachers includes some professionals working without pay. As classes devise their own programs, leaders and participants are often hard to tell apart.

"What is so great," the girls said, "is that all kinds of people of all different ideas and ages participate. Everyone just laughs and learns."

Candidate Again

LANSING (AP)—The dean of the Michigan Senate, Democratic Minority Leader George Fitzgerald of Grosse Pointe Park, has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Senate seat he has held since 1964. Fitzgerald, at 68, the oldest man in the upper chamber, was named minority leader when Sen. Sander Levin of Berkley stepped down from the leadership post earlier this year to seek the Democratic nomination for governor.

Education Is Primary Goal

LANSING — "Michigan community colleges do not intend to observe holidays from classes for extraneous purposes and demonstrations," said George E. Potter, of Jackson, newly-elected president of the Michigan Community College Association.

Potter and Dr. Richard Rinehart, of Bay de Noc Community College, who participated in the action, said association members feel that their "mission requires them to adhere to the established academic program," and to avoid encouraging "any other disruptions in their essential educational activities."

Quoting from a policy statement just adopted by Association members, they said:

"Our public community colleges have an obligation to provide the most effective possible educational programs to the people of Michigan. This obligation requires that these colleges offer the educational programs which are scheduled by them in an atmosphere that is most conducive to learning. Students who come to these colleges seeking academic and technical knowledge have every right to expect that the academic programs will be conducted as scheduled."

The statement said officials of Michigan community colleges individually may entertain "a variety of views regarding national and local issues. As responsible college administrators and trustees, they affirm the primacy of the educational programs of their institutions."

Teen Driver Made His First Mistake

JENISON (AP) — Gary Buis, 16, of Jenison, put his car in the garage Tuesday night. The only problem was that it wasn't his garage.

Deputies with the Ottawa County Sheriff's Department said Buis lost control of his car in this Western Michigan community, and it rammed through the garage and the family room at the Douglas Brower home, finally stopping in the kitchen.

There was no one home at the time. Damage was estimated at $6,000.

"SOFT CELL" — Beverly Acosta, injured severely and handicapped in an auto accident, cuddles the kitten sent to her in Garden City, Mich., by the 99 men who belong to the Jaycee chapter at Southern Michigan State Prison in Jackson. They figure she deserves "the full rights and privileges" of honorary membership. They also sent her toys, painted pictures of animals and clowns. The "hard cell" Jaycees went "soft cell" when they read about her in a newspaper.

Rain Continues To Splatter Areas

By The Associated Press

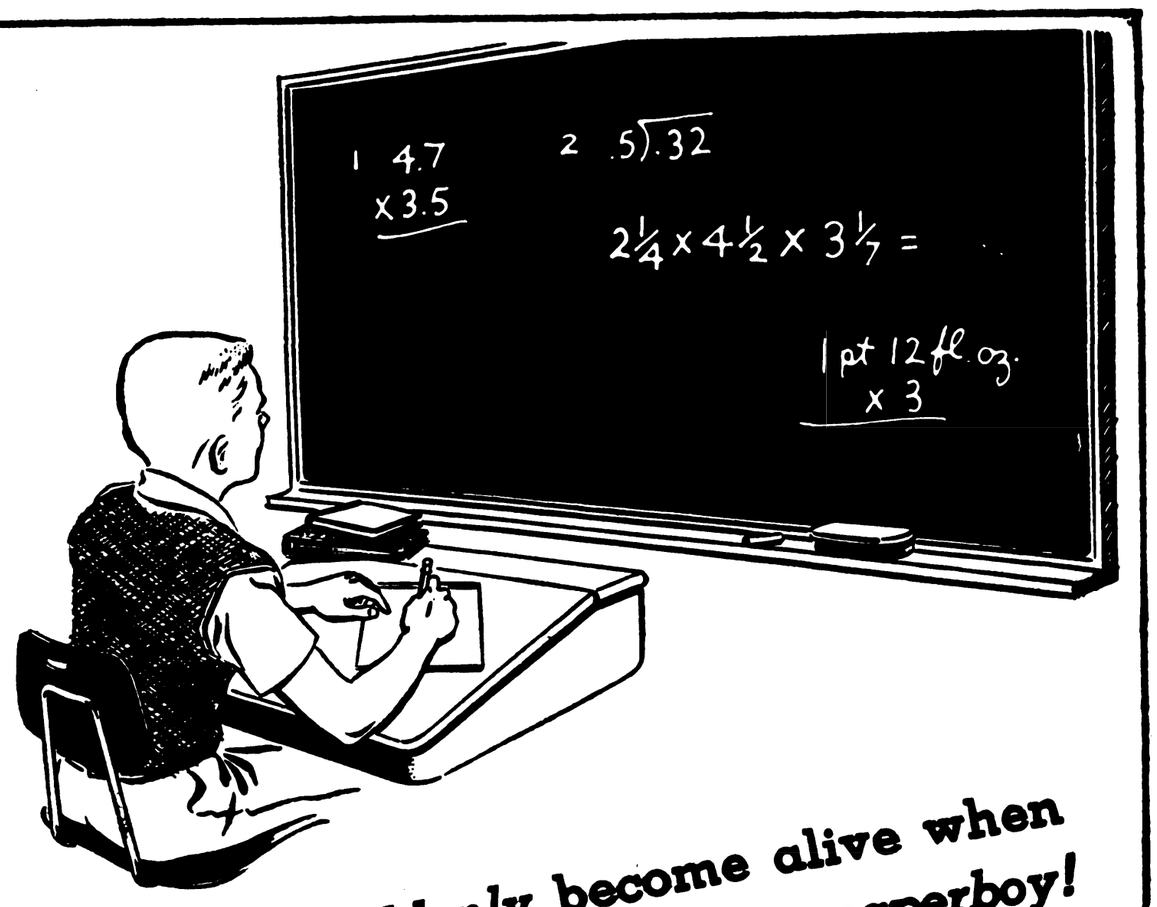
Showers and thunderstorms splattered more rain into the Central Plains, the Midwest and the Deep South today.

One - inch soakings were common from Kansas to Georgia and in an area ranging northward into Michigan and south to the central Gulf Coast.

Heavier downpours hit some communities. More than 2 inches fell at Mobile, Ala., late Tuesday. Nearly 1½ inches washed Findlay, Ohio, during the night.

Cool weather clung to a large part of the Midcontinent just north of the rain belt.

Summer-like heat persisted in the Pacific Northwest and showed signs of breaking through the Northern Rockies and into the Great Plains. Temperatures climbed into the 90's once more Tuesday in western Oregon and Washington. Portland had 96 and Seattle 94.



The 3 'R's suddenly become alive when a young man becomes a Newspaperboy!

Overnight all this school business about addition and subtraction, profit and loss and a host of other subjects take on an entirely new meaning—when Johnny is in business.

As a Newspaperboy he "learns by doing"—becomes a member of the largest group of young businessmen in America. And the classroom lessons become much more important to him when he learns by experience how essential they are to his success.

Thousands of young men are in colleges and technical schools today because when they were Newspaperboys they learned the importance of "higher" education—and then earned a significant part of the money required for it.

There is a lot more to newspaper route management than most boys and their parents realize.

If you would like to know more about it—make an appointment for yourself and your son to come in for a conference.

'Free School' Has Interesting Agenda

BLOOMFIELD HILLS (AP)—A New kind of institution, divorced from education's traditional structure and based on a laugh and learn philosophy, seems to be flourishing in Detroit's northern suburbs.

It's called the Free School.

The brainchild of two 18-year-old girls, the Free School is tuition free and restriction free. Classes, taught by volunteers range from Appreciation of Nature to Shakespeare, Cruising on Woodward, Sex and Junkshop Tripping. The students may talk about Tolstoy one day, Tolkein the next. They meet when it's convenient.

The gals behind the Free School are Jane Rothstein and Dedra Buchwald both seniors at Andover High School in Bloomfield Hills. They see the school as a vehicle to "true meaning—the sharing of huhuman experience, continual self-discovery and joyful exploration of the unknown."

They say they are against a student being confined within four walls six hours a day, rules prohibiting gum - chewing and talking and mechanical memorization of information.

"Our present educational system ruins minds," Miss Rothstein said. "It stifles creativity."

Their alternative is the Free School.

They began organizing about two months ago, distributing 7,000 leaflets, and enlisting volunteer help to coordinate, offer ideas and teach.

"We soon realized," the girls explained, "that everyone has a gripe with the school system. We got a universal response—athletes, adults, children, academics, everyone called."

They found a place for the Free School to meet at three Birmingham churches and put out a catalogue for some 70 classes offered. The churches lending their facilities to the school are the Birmingham Unitarian Church, Congregational Church and United Church of Christ.

The numbers attending the range of classes vary from day to day. Some of the most popular sessions, like Sensitivity, Hoga and Revolution of Consciousness, attract 75-100 persons.

And the project has already caught the interest of Detroit area educators, among them Bloomfield Andover High School's Principal Richard J. Speiss. When the Free School's first session meanders to an end, the two organizers plan to present their educational theories and their program to the Bloomfield Hills Board of Education.

Of the 70 proposed classes, at least half have been successful. The corps of teachers includes some professionals working without pay. As classes devise their own programs, leaders and participants are often hard to tell apart.

"What is so great," the girls said, "is that all kinds of people of all different ideas and ages participate. Everyone just laughs and learns."

Candidate Again

LANSING (AP)—The dean of the Michigan Senate, Democratic Minority Leader George Fitzgerald of Grosse Pointe Park, has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Senate seat he has held since 1964. Fitzgerald, at 68, the oldest man in the upper chamber, was named minority leader when Sen. Sander Levin of Berkley stepped down from the leadership post earlier this year to seek the Democratic nomination for governor.

GRAHAM GROUP

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There's a new fan club formed for Bill Graham, who operates Fillmore East and Fillmore West, and whose name, before he had it legally changed, was Wolfgang Grajonka. The fan club is named, of course, the Wolf Gang.

Education Is Primary Goal

LANSING — "Michigan community colleges do not intend to observe holidays from classes for extraneous purposes and demonstrations," said George E. Potter, of Jackson, newly-elected president of the Michigan Community College Association.

Potter and Dr. Richard Rinehart, of Bay de Noc Community College, who participated in the action, said association members feel that their "mission requires them to adhere to the established academic program," and to avoid encouraging "any other disruptions in their essential educational activities."

Quoting from a policy statement just adopted by Association members, they said:

"Our public community colleges have an obligation to provide the most effective possible educational programs to the people of Michigan. This obligation requires that these colleges offer the educational programs which are scheduled by them in an atmosphere that is most conducive to learning. Students who come to these colleges seeking academic and technical knowledge have every right to expect that the academic programs will be conducted as scheduled."

The statement said officials of Michigan community colleges individually may entertain "a variety of views regarding national and local issues. As responsible college administrators and trustees, they affirm the primacy of the educational programs of their institutions."

Teen Driver Made His First Mistake

JENISON (AP) — Gary Buis, 16, of Jenison, put his car in the garage Tuesday night. The only problem was that it wasn't his garage.

Deputies with the Ottawa County Sheriff's Department said Buis lost control of his car in this Western Michigan community, and it rammed through the garage and the family room at the Douglas Brower home, finally stopping in the kitchen.

There was no one home at the time. Damage was estimated at $6,000.

"SOFT CELL" — Beverly Acosta, injured severely and handicapped in an auto accident, cuddles the kitten sent to her in Garden City, Mich., by the 99 men who belong to the Jaycee chapter at Southern Michigan State Prison in Jackson. They figure she deserves "the full rights and privileges" of honorary membership. They also sent her toys, painted pictures of animals and clowns. The "hard cell" Jaycees went "soft cell" when they read about her in a newspaper.

Rain Continues To Splatter Areas

By The Associated Press

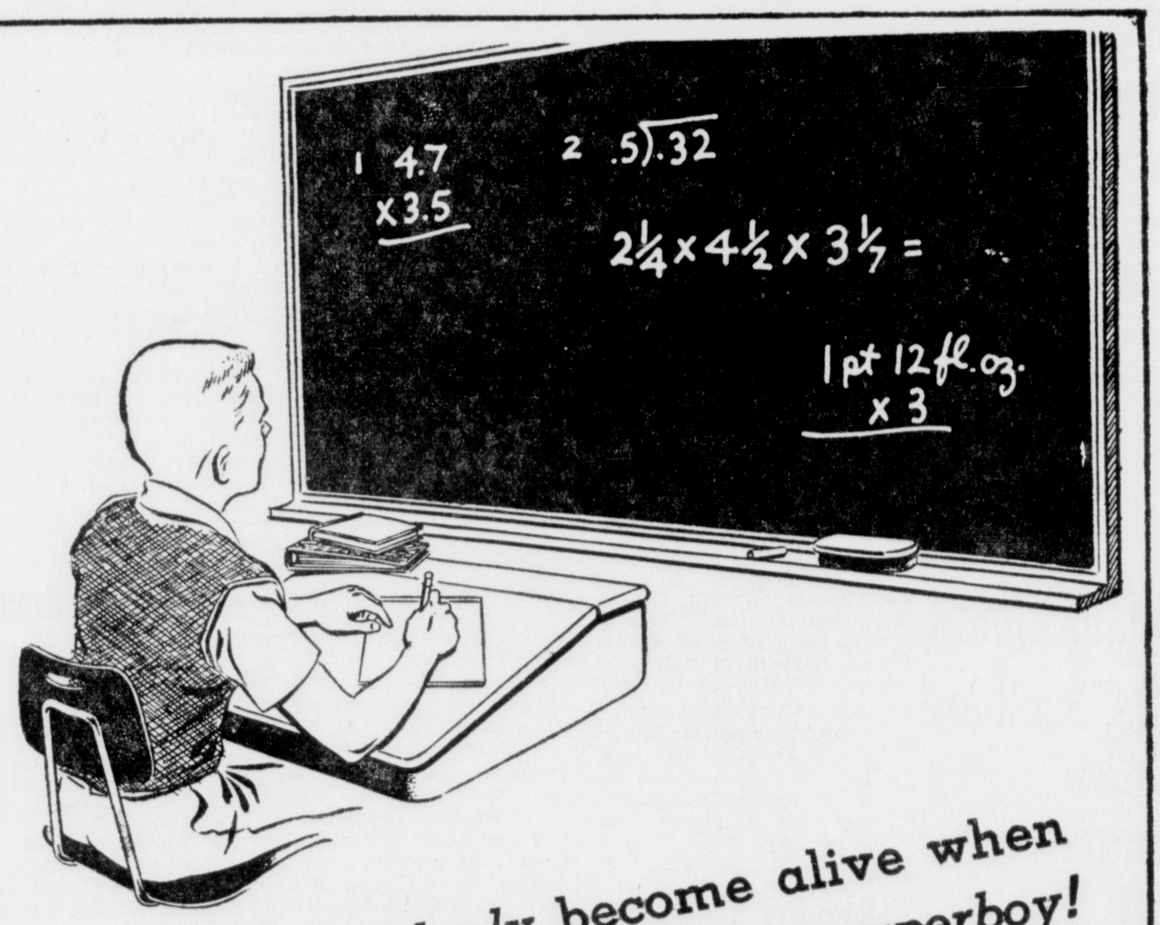
Showers and thunderstorms splattered more rain into the Central Plains, the Midwest and the Deep South today.

One - inch soakings were common from Kansas to Georgia and in an area ranging northward into Michigan and south to the central Gulf Coast.

Heavier downpours hit some communities. More than 2 inches fell at Mobile, Ala., late Tuesday. Nearly 1½ inches washed Findlay, Ohio, during the night.

Cool weather clung to a large part of the Midcontinent just north of the rain belt.

Summer-like heat persisted in the Pacific Northwest and showed signs of breaking through the Northern Rockies and into the Great Plains. Temperatures climbed into the 90's once more Tuesday in western Oregon and Washington. Portland had 96 and Seattle 94.



The 3 'R's suddenly become alive when a young man becomes a Newspaperboy!

Overnight all this school business about addition and subtraction, profit and loss and a host of other subjects take on an entirely new meaning—when Johnny is in business.

As a Newspaperboy he "learns by doing"—becomes a member of the largest group of young businessmen in America. And the classroom lessons become much more important to him when he learns by experience how essential they are to his success.

Thousands of young men are in colleges and technical schools today because when they were Newspaperboys they learned the importance of "higher" education—and then earned a significant part of the money required for it.

There is a lot more to newspaper route management than most boys and their parents realize.

If you would like to know more about it—make an appointment for yourself and your son to come in for a conference.

Timmer Awarded Gessner Trophy

Gene Timmer

Gene Timmer, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Timmer, 2210 12th Ave. S., was named the 46th recipient of the Herman Gessner Trophy at commencement exercises held Tuesday evening at the Escanaba Area High School Gymnasium.

The trophy, which is the oldest and most coveted award, is awarded annually to a senior in recognition of his services to Escanaba High School as an athlete and student. The trophy memorializes the late Herman Gessner, Escanaba business leader and civic leader, who died in 1944.

To be eligible for the award, the student must rank in the upper half of his class scholastically and have won a minimum of three athletic letters. The school faculty, with recommendations of the coaches, selects the winner.

Timmer earned two varsity letters in football, basketball and track while in high school. He was named to the All-U.P. football team last fall and received a honorable mention on the All-U.P. Class A basketball team. Timer recently received a scholarship to attend Michigan Tech University.

Longest Baseball Game In Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Vern Hunter of Madisonville High School slid into Lexington Lafayette catcher Don Winsett Tuesday, knocking the baseball from his mitt and ending the longest game in the history of the Kentucky High School Baseball Tournament.

The score was Madisonville 12, Lafayette 11 in 22 innings.

A total of 182 batters came to the plate, which the umpire swept 78 times. The previous longest tournament game was 17 innings between Shelby County and Owensboro in 1967.

Mud Hens Win

RICHMOND (AP)—Paul Pavelko's two-run double in the fifth inning proved the deciding factor in Toledo's victory Tuesday against Richmond in Virginia.

Rus Nagelson homered for the Mud Hens in the sixth and the Braves were blanked by former Detroit Tiger pitcher Tom Timmerman for eight innings before the Virginia team scored twice in the ninth inning on four hits.

Toledo remains in sixth spot in the International League, 7½ games off the first place Tidewater nine.

Toledo is scheduled to play another today in Richmond.

Independents Nip River Post

The Escanaba Independents rally in the last three innings Tuesday night to nip River Post 7 to 4 in Slow Pitch action.

River Post jumped off to a early 3-0 lead before the Independants scored 4 runs in the second and added singles runs in the remaining innings behind the home run power of Bill Hyde and Dale Flynn to notch the victory.

Dr. Don Alimenti picked up the verdict while Walter Anderson took the defeat. Hyde had 4 for 4 for the Independents, while Norm Panganis and Jim Sargent paced the River Post with a triple and double respectively.

THE SEARCH IS ON — This isn't football practice but it is a game in itself, as students at Michigan Tech University in Houghton search for a silver dollar in a mud puddle during Greek Weekend Activities at the school. No one asked the basic question of why anyone would want to search for a silver dollar in a mud puddle, but the challenge was there and students had fun. Both fraternity and sorority members tackled the task with enthusiasm. (AP Wirephoto)

Tigers Do It Again, Lose In 10 Innings

ANAHEIM (AP) — There was levity in the California Angels' dressing room but Manager Lefty Phillips paused amid the laughter and offered a word of sympathy for a hard-luck left-hander.

Rudy May was again a man left out in the Cold Tuesday night as his California teammates rallied to nip the Detroit Tigers 3-2 in 10 innings.

The same two clubs renew their rivalry tonight in what shapes up as a duel of strikeout artists as Mickey Lolich, 6-5, of the Tigers throws against Andy Messersmith, 5-4.

May's 3-3 record in 81 innings is deceptive. He has been the victim of non-support and untimely errors. An unearned run Tuesday prevented him from taming the Tigers in regulation time and Willie Horton took care of the rest.

Horton drove in both Tiger runs with a first-inning double and a sixth-inning single. But they still wound up one short in the 10th.

Jay Johnstone opened the inning with a triple off loser Joe Niekro, 4-5. After fanning Joe Azcue, he was ordered to intentionally walk pinch-hitter Tom Silverio and Sandy Alomar.

But Jim Fregosi followed with a sacrifice fly to give the Angels their third straight victory and pull them within one and one-half games of the Minnesota Twins in the American League West.

"Rudy pitched his customary game," Phillips said. "Good — but not good enough. He has more than his share of tough luck."

Phillips, in fact, let sympathy interfere with his managing in the seventh when he let May bat with the game deadlocked at 2-2.

"I wanted to get him a win in the worst possible way," Phillips explained. "I thought it would help his mental attitude and boost his ego."

There was only one out at the time and runners were stationed at first and third. But May hit into a strange double play.

He exploded a ball that Tiger second baseman Dick McAuliffe grabbed on a short hop and threw to third base to trap Johnstone off the bag. Don Wert's relay to second was in time to get a force on Joe Azcue.

"Azcue didn't run because he thought McAuliffe caught the ball," Phillips said.

May, however, was spared the defeat when Mel Queen, making his first appearance in a month, pulled him out of trouble in the eighth. After May had yielded singles to Niekro and Mickey Stanley, Queen came on to strike out Al Kaline and disposed of Horton on a line drive.

The victory went to Paul Doyle.

EMU-Michigan To Play Game

ANN ARBOR (AP)— Officials of the University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University signed a contract today for a basketball game between the two schools on Dec. 10.

The game will be the first between the two since 1940.

It will be played at Ann Arbor.

Gladstone Will Host Best-Ball Golf Tourney

GLADSTONE — The first Upper Peninsula golf tournament of the year will be held this weekend, June 6-7, at the Gladstone Golf Club when golfers from all over the U. P., tee off in the fourth annual Best-Ball Tournament.

Augie Altese, president of the Gladstone Golf Club, expects about 72 teams to enter this year's event, a 20 team jump from the opening tourney in 1967.

Already entered for this year's tournament are defending champions Ken Hruska and Paul Specker of Marquette, who won the 36 hole best ball tourney with a 10 under par 130 last year. Jerry Martin and Jack Smith, from the Escanaba Highland Club, who won the title in 1968 and who were third last year with a 139, will also be back to try to unseat Hruska and Specker.

The event will begin on Saturday and golfers are reminded to qualify as early as possible for the championship flight, which will begin at 1:25 p. m., Sunday.

All entrants and guests are invited to the Saturday evening dinner at 6:30 and spectators are welcome for the entire event.

Howard Blasts No. 16; Senators Edge Chisox

By The Associated Press

Big Frank Howard, the Washington slugger who happens to lead the American League in home runs, claims that making contact is his biggest problem.

The same might be true of the entire American League when Sudden Sam McDowell is on the mound.

Tuesday night neither of these veteran All-Star performers had any difficulty.

Sparks Drive

Howard drilled his 16th homer of the season, a two-run shot that earned the Senators a 2-2 tie, and his bloop single triggered a two-run eighth-inning rally that brought Washington a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

McDowell, the AL's strikeout king, had a no-hitter for seven innings and had to settle for a two-hitter in the opener of a doubleheader as the Cleveland Indians swept Milwaukee 4-1, 8-5.

In other AL contests, Boston whipped Minnesota 5-1, New York edged Kansas City 3-2, Baltimore stopped Oakland 5-1 and California nipped Detroit 3-2 in 10 innings.

Howard, who cracked 48 homers last year, says he doesn't think about the long ball.

"My biggest problem is making contact," said the huge 6-foot-7, 270-pound Howard. "I figure if I make contact, the long ball will take care of itself."

His blooper in the eighth however, was just as important as it moved Ed Stroud, who had opened the inning with a single —his fourth hit—to third. Mike Epstein then looped a single, scoring Stroud and Aurelio Rodriguez got the eventual winner across with a sacrifice fly as the White Sox got a run in the ninth.

"I'll take them any way I can," Howard said of his eighth-inning single. "I was fooled on the pitch and started to back away. It just popped out over the second baseman's head."

McDowell Tough

McDowell, who struck out eight Tuesday night, leads the league with 119 and upped his record to 8-3. His attempt at a no-hitter—McDowell owns seven one-hitters—was snapped when Danny Walton stroked a leadoff double in the eighth.

It was the stylish left-hander's seventh complete game—no other pitcher on the Indians' staff has one—and his second consecutive two-hitter. His earned run average dropped to 2.35.

"I'm not interested in a no-hitter," McDowell said afterward. "I'm more interested in winning. "It was a stupid pitch," he said of Walton's hit. "I threw him a mediocre, semi-pro fast ball down the middle.

"Some guy in the stands kept telling me every inning I was working on a no hitter. It didn't bother me. It became a joke and helped relax me."

Jack Heideman's two-run single and a solo homer by Graig Nettles helped ease the way for McDowell in the opener and the Indians crashed five roundtrippers in the nightcap.

Walton Homers

Nettles belted a pair and added a single for four runs batted in while Duke Sims also rapped out two and Ray Fosse drilled another. Walton had a solo homer for the Brewers.

Mike Andrews stroked four hits, driving in one run and igniting two rallies for the Red Sox while Billy Conigliaro rapped a solo homer to back the eight-hit hurling of right-hander Ray Culp over the Twins.

Curt Blefary drove in a pair of runs with a sacrifice fly and his first homer of the season as the Yankees held off a ninth-inning Royals's surge.

Fritz Peterson picked up his eighth victory against two losses, but needed last-out help from Lindy McDaniel after Kansas City scored two runs in the final inning.

Jim Palmer notched his seventh victory, scattering five hits and Merv Rettenmund drove in two runs with a double. The A's contributed three errors to the Baltimore victory.

Grand Jury Probes Sawchuk's Death

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — A grand jury probe was ordered Tuesday into the death of New York Rangers goaltender Terry Sawchuk, amid reports that a fight with teammate Ron Stewart—and not "horseplay"—led to the goalie's fatal injuries.

In either case, witnesses reportedly contended, the blow which led to Sawchuk's hospitalization was accidental. Nassau County Dist. Atty. William Cahn said an investigation "to clear the air" would begin Monday.

Sawchuk, who was hospitalized April 19 after scuffling with Stewart on the lawn of their shared, rented home, died Sunday from a blood clot after a series of operations.

Wrestling?

Sawchuk, himself, had told police "we were wrestling, just horsing around." But later testimony, including a statement from Rangers, coach Emile Francis, discounted that version, the New York Post reported Tuesday.

Francis, basing his information on conversations with Sawchuk before he died, reportedly told Long Beach police Monday night that the goalie had quarreled with Stewart in a bar hours before the incident.

The version was backed up by Ben Weiner, 44, a close friend of both Stewart and Sawchuk who said he had been to the bar with Sawchuk, the Post said.

Weiner told police that Sawchuk had just returned from Detroit after a futile attempt to reconcile with his wife and was "in a horrible state beside himself," the article said.

Wiener reportedly said he left the two hockey players alone, then returned minutes later to find them scuffling. He said both went outside, resumed the fight, then were separated by bystanders the Post reported.

Eyewitnesses

Weiner said he told police he decided to follow Sawchuk, and arriving at the home, saw the two men fighting on the front lawn near an overturned metal barbecue.

Weiner said he grabbed Sawchuk, and Stewart backed away, tripping over the barbecue, the Post reported. It was then that Sawchuk fell on top of Stewart, Weiner reportedly said, and cried out: "Oh, Jesus, I've been hurt. I have a terrible pain."

Weiner said he believed Sawchuk injured himself on the barbecue, the Post said.

Cahn said at a news conference that he had received a letter from an attorney representing Stewart, requesting that Stewart be called to testify before the grand jury.

The district attorney said Stewart would testify, but would be required to sign a waiver of immunity from prosecution before doing so.

Cahn said that although the police investigation will continue, "I have decided at this time the best interests of all involved and the ends of justice will be be served by presenting the case to the grand jury."

Cahn said he would meet privately today with Stewart and Rosemary Sassa, a nurse at Long Beach Memorial Hospital who was present at the time of the incident involving Sawchuk.

He and Miss Sassa and another witness, Benjamin Wiener, would be called to testify before the grand jury, along with Rangers, Manager Emile Francis and other members of the team.

Stewart's attorney, Nicholas Castellano, will attend today's meeting, Cahn said.

Trenary at Gladstone

The defending league champs, the Escanaba Merchants continued their winning ways Tuesday evening, by pounding out 12 hits in posting their third straight victory of the season, by upending the Escanaba Independents 15-3.

Bill McGovern went the distance striking out 6 and scattering 4 hits to gain his second mound victory of the year. Dick Lewis and Lenny Smith shared the mound duties for the Independents with Lewis taking the defeat.

Keith Gluesing led the Merchants attack with a home run, double and a single, while Bob Corriveau added two doubles and the rest of the Merchants adding single hits.

Doug Moss led the Independents with two of the four hits off McGovern.

Action will resume tonight with two games, Flat Rock will play Michigan Hotel and Trenary will play at Gladstone.

The Escanaba Merchants will step out of the league this weekend when they travel to Marquette to take on the State Prison nine behind the walls. All Merchant players are asked to meet at Little Mike's at 4:30 Saturday for the trip to Marquette.

Country Club League Scores

For the first time since the season opened, the Big O's have dropped out of first place at the Escanaba Country Club. The Hot Rodders replace the Big O's in first with 25 points while Eis Boxes grabbed second with 23½ and the Big O's took a third this week with a 23.

Wendell Green and Bill Elliott paced the low scorers with 39's, followed by Jack Magnusen and Dr. John LeMire with 40's, Don Moll and Bill Eis Jr., 41's and Tim LeMire, Hunce Kleiman, Dick Gall and Bill Mulvaney each had 42's.

In the Best Ball play, Bill Rodman and Dick Ducheney tied with Dennis Schneider and Bill Mulvaney for first place honors with 31's, while Jim Hirn and Wendell Green tied with Bob Krohmer and Don Scott for second with 32's. Hunce Kleiman was closest to the pin on No. 7.

With the Hot Rodders, Eis Boxes and Big O's leading the league, the remaining teams follow in order: Green Berets 21½, Miller Low-Lifes 21, Finn Power 20½, CZACG's 20½, Big T's, 20, Chown's Clowns 19½ Haapies 19, Duffers 18, Gabe's Babes 17½, Hobo's 17½, Gravel Gertis 16½, Free Swingers 15 and Bonnie's 14.

On Memorial Day a overlooked score was turned in by the following: Dr. John LeMire when he chipped in a birdie 3 on the second holde; Ken Peterson when chipped in a birdie 4 on No. 6 hole; and Tom Neuman a birdie 2 on the seventh hole. Jim Zimmerman was also playing with the foursome.

Niekro's Manicure Too Much For Mets

By The Associated Press

Richie Allen, Hank Aaron, Tony Perez and Johnny Bench have set many a pitcher to biting his fingernails, but when Phil Niekro does it the hitters are in the palm of his hand.

The aforementioned sluggers all played long ball Tuesday night, while pitcher Niekro used a one-hour rain delay to give himself an oral manicure and get his knuckleball under control.

Allen crashed two home runs, one a grand slam, and drove in seven runs as St. Louis thrashed San Francisco 12-1; Aaron backed Niekro's four-hit pitching with his first homer in two weeks as Atlanta downed the New York Mets 4-1; Bench drilled two homers and Perez one as Cincinnati thumped Philadelphia 7-2; the San Diego Padres blasted six Pittsburgh pitchers for 19 hits in a 14-8 slugfest and Houston tripped Montreal 6-4.

The other scheduled National League game, Los Angeles at Chicago, was rained out.

Manager Red Schoendienst returned Allen from the cleanup spot to No. 3 in the St. Louis batting order and the slugging first baseman, who hasn't homered in seven games, exploded.

He angled home a run in the first inning, belted a two-run homer in the fifth and capped the rout with his grand slam in the eighth. Backed by a 15-hit attack, Steve Carlton held the Giants to four hits—including Willie McCovey's 16th homer—and posted his first triumph since May 11.

The grand slam was the fifth of Allen's career and home run No. 18 for the season.

"The big reason for the change in the batting order," explained Schoendienst, "is getting Allen back up there to No. 3, where he can hurt people even more. I don't care if the score is 10-9 or 1-0, he's in a position now where he's going to be coming up when the game will either be won or lost."

The Mets and Braves, meeting for the first time since last year's N playoffs, were locked in a 1-1 tie when the rains came in the third inning.

"I didn't like the weather," said Niekro. "The first couple of innings I struggled. The heavy air kept pushing the ball down. During the delay, I bit my fingernails down so I could get a better grip on the ball and I did a lot better."

When play resumed, the Braves went ahead in the fourth on Bob Didier's run-scoring single. Aaron, who hadn't homered since May 17, iced it in the seventh with a two-run shot, his 17th.

"A home run always feels good," said Aaron, "whether you hit 10 in a week, once a week, once a month or once a year."

Tommie Agee homered for the mets' run.

Timmer Awarded Gessner Trophy

Gene Timmer

Gene Timmer, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Timmer, 2210 12th Ave. S., was named the 46th recipient of the Herman Gessner Trophy at commencement exercises held Tuesday evening at the Escanaba Area High School Gymnasium.

The trophy, which is the oldest and most coveted award, is awarded annually to a senior in recognition of his services to Escanaba High School as an athlete and student. The trophy memorializes the late Herman Gessner, Escanaba business leader and civic leader, who died in 1944.

To be eligible for the award, the student must rank in the upper half of his class scholastically and have won a minimum of three athletic letters. The school faculty, with recommendations of the coaches, selects the winner.

Timmer earned two varsity letters in football, basketball and track while in high school. He was named to the All-U.P. football team last fall and received a honorable mention on the All-U.P. Class A basketball team. Timer recently received a scholarship to attend Michigan Tech University.

Longest Baseball Game In Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Vern Hunter of Madisonville High School slid into Lexington Lafayette catcher Don Winsett Tuesday, knocking the baseball from his mitt and ending the longest game in the history of the Kentucky High School Baseball Tournament.

The score was Madisonville 12, Lafayette 11 in 22 innings.

A total of 182 batters came to the plate, which the umpire swept 78 times. The previous longest tournament game was 17 innings between Shelby County and Owensboro in 1967.

Mud Hens Win

RICHMOND (AP)—Paul Pavelko's two-run double in the fifth inning proved the deciding factor in Toledo's victory Tuesday against Richmond in Virginia.

Rus Nagelson homered for the Mud Hens in the sixth and the Braves were blanked by former Detroit Tiger pitcher Tom Timmerman for eight innings before the Virginia team scored twice in the ninth inning on four hits.

Toledo remains in sixth spot in the International League, 7½ games off the first place Tidewater nine.

Toledo is scheduled to play another today in Richmond.

Independents Nip River Post

The Escanaba Independents rally in the last three innings Tuesday night to nip River Post 7 to 4 in Slow Pitch action.

River Post jumped off to a early 3-0 lead before the Independants scored 4 runs in the second and added singles runs in the remaining innings behind the home run power of Bill Hyde and Dale Flynn to notch the victory.

Dr. Don Alimenti picked up the verdict while Walter Anderson took the defeat. Hyde had 4 for 4 for the Independents, while Norm Panganis and Jim Sargent paced the River Post with a triple and double respectively.

Gladstone Will Host Best-Ball Golf Tourney

GLADSTONE — The first Upper Peninsula golf tournament of the year will be held this weekend, June 6-7, at the Gladstone Golf Club when golfers from all over the U. P., tee off in the fourth annual Best-Ball Tournament.

Augie Altese, president of the Gladstone Golf Club, expects about 72 teams to enter this year's event, a 20 team jump from the opening tourney in 1967.

Already entered for this year's tournament are defending champions Ken Hruska and Paul Specker of Marquette, who won the 36 hole best ball tourney with a 10 under par 130 last year. Jerry Martin and Jack Smith, from the Escanaba Highland Club, who won the title in 1968 and who were third last year with a 139, will also be back to try to unseat Hruska and Specker.

The event will begin on Saturday and golfers are reminded to qualify as early as possible for the championship flight, which will begin at 1:25 p. m., Sunday.

All entrants and guests are invited to the Saturday evening dinner at 6:30 and spectators are welcome for the entire event.

THE SEARCH IS ON — This isn't football practice but it is a game in itself, as students at Michigan Tech University in Houghton search for a silver dollar in a mud puddle during Greek Weekend Activities at the school. No one asked the basic question of why anyone would want to search for a silver dollar in a mud puddle, but the challenge was there and students had fun. Both fraternity and sorority members tackled the task with enthusiasm. (AP Wirephoto)

Tigers Do It Again, Lose In 10 Innings

ANAHEIM (AP) — There was levity in the California Angels' dressing room but Manager Lefty Phillips paused amid the laughter and offered a word of sympathy for a hard-luck left-hander.

Rudy May was again a man left out in the Cold Tuesday night as his California teammates rallied to nip the Detroit Tigers 3-2 in 10 innings.

The same two clubs renew their rivalry tonight in what shapes up as a duel of strikeout artists as Mickey Lolich, 6-5, of the Tigers throws against Andy Messersmith, 5-4.

May's 3-3 record in 81 innings is deceptive. He has been the victim of non-support and untimely errors. An unearned run Tuesday prevented him from taming the Tigers in regulation time and Willie Horton took care of the rest.

Horton drove in both Tiger runs with a first-inning double and a sixth-inning single. But they still wound up one short in the 10th.

Jay Johnstone opened the inning with a triple off loser Joe Niekro, 4-5. After fanning Joe Azcue, he was ordered to intentionally walk pinch-hitter Tom Silverio and Sandy Alomar.

But Jim Fregosi followed with a sacrifice fly to give the Angels their third straight victory and pull them within one and one-half games of the Minnesota Twins in the American League West.

"Rudy pitched his customary game," Phillips said. "Good — but not good enough. He has more than his share of tough luck."

Phillips, in fact, let sympathy interfere with his managing in the seventh when he let May bat with the game deadlocked at 2-2.

"I wanted to get him a win in the worst possible way," Phillips explained. "I thought it would help his mental attitude and boost his ego."

There was only one out at the time and runners were stationed at first and third. But May hit into a strange double play.

He exploded a ball that Tiger second baseman Dick McAuliffe grabbed on a short hop and threw to third base to trap Johnstone off the bag. Don Wert's relay to second was in time to get a force on Joe Azcue.

"Azcue didn't run because he thought McAuliffe caught the ball," Phillips said.

May, however, was spared the defeat when Mel Queen, making his first appearance in a month, pulled him out of trouble in the eighth. After May had yielded singles to Niekro and Mickey Stanley, Queen came on to strike out Al Kaline and disposed of Horton on a line drive.

The victory went to Paul Doyle.

EMU-Michigan To Play Game

ANN ARBOR (AP)— Officials of the University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University signed a contract today for a basketball game between the two schools on Dec. 10.

The game will be the first between the two since 1940.

It will be played at Ann Arbor.

Howard Blasts No. 16; Senators Edge Chisox

By The Associated Press

Big Frank Howard, the Washington slugger who happens to lead the American League in home runs, claims that making contact is his biggest problem.

The same might be true of the entire American League when Sudden Sam McDowell is on the mound.

Tuesday night neither of these veteran All-Star performers had any difficulty.

Sparks Drive

Howard drilled his 16th homer of the season, a two-run shot that earned the Senators a 2-2 tie, and his bloop single triggered a two-run eighth-inning rally that brought Washington a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

McDowell, the AL's strikeout king, had a no-hitter for seven innings and had to settle for a two-hitter in the opener of a doubleheader as the Cleveland Indians swept Milwaukee 4-1, 8-5.

In other AL contests, Boston whipped Minnesota 5-1, New York edged Kansas City 3-2, Baltimore stopped Oakland 5-1 and California nipped Detroit 3-2 in 10 innings.

Howard, who cracked 48 homers last year, says he doesn't think about the long ball.

"My biggest problem is making contact," said the huge 6-foot-7, 270-pound Howard. "I figure if I make contact, the long ball will take care of itself."

His blooper in the eighth however, was just as important as it moved Ed Stroud, who had opened the inning with a single —his fourth hit—to third. Mike Epstein then looped a single, scoring Stroud and Aurelio Rodriguez got the eventual winner across with a sacrifice fly as the White Sox got a run in the ninth.

"I'll take them any way I can," Howard said of his eighth-inning single. "I was fooled on the pitch and started to back away. It just popped out over the second baseman's head."

McDowell Tough

McDowell, who struck out eight Tuesday night, leads the league with 119 and upped his record to 8-3. His attempt at a no-hitter—McDowell owns seven one-hitters—was snapped when Danny Walton stroked a leadoff double in the eighth.

It was the stylish left-hander's seventh complete game—no other pitcher on the Indians' staff has one—and his second consecutive two-hitter. His earned run average dropped to 2.35.

"I'm not interested in a no-hitter," McDowell said afterward. "I'm more interested in winning. "It was a stupid pitch," he said of Walton's hit. "I threw him a mediocre, semi-pro fast ball down the middle.

"Some guy in the stands kept telling me every inning I was working on a no hitter. It didn't bother me. It became a joke and helped relax me."

Jack Heidemann's two-run single and a solo homer by Graig Nettles helped ease the way for McDowell in the opener and the Indians crashed five roundtrippers in the nightcap.

Walton Homers

Nettles belted a pair and added a single for four runs batted in while Duke Sims also rapped out two and Ray Fosse drilled another. Walton had a solo homer for the Brewers.

Mike Andrews stroked four hits, driving in one run and igniting two rallies for the Red Sox while Billy Conigliaro rapped a solo homer to back the eight-hit hurling of right-hander Ray Culp over the Twins.

Curt Blefary drove in a pair of runs with a sacrifice fly and his first homer of the season as the Yankees held off a ninth-inning Royals's surge.

Fritz Peterson picked up his eighth victory against two losses, but needed last-out help from Lindy McDaniel after Kansas City scored two runs in the final inning.

Jim Palmer notched his seventh victory, scattering five hits and Merv Rettenmund drove in two runs with a double. The A's contributed three errors to the Baltimore victory.

Grand Jury Probes Sawchuk's Death

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — A grand jury probe was ordered Tuesday into the death of New York Rangers goaltender Terry Sawchuk, amid reports that a fight with teammate Ron Stewart—and not "horseplay"—led to the goalie's fatal injuries.

In either case, witnesses reportedly contended, the blow which led to Sawchuk's hospitalization was accidental. Nassau County Dist. Atty. William Cahn said an investigation "to clear the air" would begin Monday.

Sawchuk, who was hospitalized April 19 after scuffling with Stewart on the lawn of their shared, rented home, died Sunday from a blood clot after a series of operations.

Wrestling?

Sawchuk, himself, had told police "we were wrestling, just horsing around." But later testimony, including a statement from Rangers, coach Emile Francis, discounted that version, the New York Post reported Tuesday.

Francis, basing his information on conversations with Sawchuk before he died, reportedly told Long Beach police Monday night that the goalie had quarreled with Stewart in a bar hours before the incident.

The version was backed up by Ben Weiner, 44, a close friend of both Stewart and Sawchuk who said he had been to the bar with Sawchuk, the Post said.

Weiner told police that Sawchuk had just returned from Detroit after a futile attempt to reconcile with his wife and was "in a horrible state beside himself," the article said.

Wiener reportedly said he left the two hockey players alone, then returned minutes later to find them scuffling. He said both went outside, resumed the fight, then were separated by bystanders the Post reported.

Eyewitnesses

Weiner said he told police he decided to follow Sawchuk, and arriving at the home, saw the two men fighting on the front lawn near an overturned metal barbecue.

Weiner said he grabbed Sawchuk, and Stewart backed away, tripping over the barbecue, the Post reported. It was then that Sawchuk fell on top of Stewart, Weiner reportedly said, and cried out: "Oh, Jesus, I've been hurt. I have a terrible pain."

Weiner said he believed Sawchuk injured himself on the barbecue, the Post said.

Cahn said at a news conference that he had received a letter from an attorney representing Stewart, requesting that Stewart be called to testify before the grand jury.

The district attorney said Stewart would testify, but would be required to sign a waiver of immunity from prosecution before doing so.

Cahn said that although the police investigation will continue, "I have decided at this time the best interests of all involved and the ends of justice will be be served by presenting the case to the grand jury."

Cahn said he would meet privately today with Stewart and Rosemary Sassa, a nurse at Long Beach Memorial Hospital who was present at the time of the incident involving Sawchuk.

He and Miss Sassa and another witness, Benjamin Wiener, would be called to testify before tthe grand jury, along with Rangers, Manager Emile Francis and other members of the team.

Stewart's attorney, Nicholas Castellano, will attend today's meeting, Cahn said.

Niekro's Manicure Too Much For Mets

By The Associated Press

Richie Allen, Hank Aaron, Tony Perez and Johnny Bench have sot many a pitcher to biting his fingernails, but when Phil Niekro does it the hitters are in the palm of his hand.

The aforementioned sluggers all played long ball Tuesday night, while pitcher Niekro used a one-hour rain delay to give himself an oral manicure and get his knuckleball under control.

Allen crashed two home runs, one a grand slam, and drove in seven runs as St. Louis thrashed San Francisco 12-1; Aaron backed Niekro's four-hit pitching with his first homer in two weeks as Atlanta downed the New York Mets 4-1; Bench drilled two homers and Perez one as Cincinnati thumped Philadelphia 7-2; the San Diego Padres blasted six Pittsburgh pitchers for 19 hits in a 14-8 slugfest and Houston tripped Montreal 6-4.

The other scheduled National League game, Los Angeles at Chicago, was rained out.

Manager Red Schoendienst returned Allen from the cleanup spot to No. 3 in the St. Louis batting order and the slugging first baseman, who hadn't homered in seven games, exploded.

He singled home a run in the first inning, belted a two-run homer in the fifth and capped the rout with his grand slam in the eighth. Backed by a 15-hit attack, Steve Carlton held the Giants to four hits—including Willie McCovey's 16th homer—and posted his first triumph since May 11.

The grand slam was the fifth of Allen's career and home run No. 18 for the season.

"The big reason for the change in the batting order," explained Schoendienst, "is getting Allen back up there to No. 3, where he can hurt people even more. I don't care if the score is 10-9 or 1-0, he's in a position now where he's going to be coming up when the game will either be won or lost."

The Mets and Braves, meeting for the first time since last year's N playoffs, were locked in a 1-1 tie when the rains came in the third inning.

"I didn't like the weather," said Niekro. "The first couple of innings I struggled. The heavy air kept pushing the ball down During the delay, I bit my fingernails down so I could get a better grip on the ball and I did a lot better."

When play resumed, the Braves went ahead in the fourth on Bob Didier's run-scoring single. Aaron, who hadn't homered since May 17, iced it in the seventh with a two-run shot, his 17th.

"A home run always feels good," said Aaron, "whether you hit 10 in a week, once a week, once a month or once a year."

Tommie Agee homered for the mets' run.

Flat Rock vs. Michigan Hotel Trenary at Gladstone

The defending league champs, the Escanaba Merchants continued their winning ways Tuesday evening, by pounding out 12 hits in posting their third straight victory of the season, by upending the Escanaba Independents 15-3.

Bill McGovern went the distance striking out 6 and scattering 4 hits to gain his second mound victory of the year. Dick Lewis and Lenny Smith shared the mound duties for the Independents with Lewis taking the defeat.

Keith Gluesing led the Merchants attack with a home run, double and a single, while Bob Corriveau added two doubles and the rest of the Merchants adding single hits.

Doug Moss led the Independents with two of the four hits off McGovern.

Action will resume tonight with two games, Flat Rock will play Michigan Hotel and Trenary will play at Gladstone.

The Escanaba Merchants will step out of the league this weekend when they travel to Marquette to take on the State Prison nine behind the walls. All Merchant players are asked to meet at Little Mike's at 4:30 Saturday for the trip to Marquette.

Country Club League Scores

For the first time since the season opened, the Big O's have dropped out of first place at the Escanaba Country Club. The Hot Rodders replace the Big O's in first with 25 points while Eis Boxes grabbed second with 23½ and the Big O's took a third this week with a 23.

Wendell Green and Bill Elliott paced the low scorers with 39's, followed by Jack Magnusen and Dr. John LeMire with 40's, Don Moll and Bill Eis Jr., 41's and Tim LeMire, Hunce Kleiman, Dick Gall and Bill Mulvaney each had 42's.

In the Best Ball play, Bill Rodman and Dick Ducheney tied with Dennis Schneider and Bill Mulvaney for first place honors with 31's, while Jim Hirn and Wendell Green tied with Bob Krohmer and Don Scott for second with 32's. Hunce Kleiman was closest to the pin on No. 7.

With the Hot Rodders, Eis Boxes and Big O's leading the league, the remaining teams follow in order: Green Berets 21½, Miller Low-Lifes 21, Finn Power 20½, CZACG's 20½, Big T's, 20, Chown's Clowns 19½ Haapies 19, Duffers 18, Gabe's Babes 17½, Hobo's 17½, Gravel Gertis 16½, Free Swingers 15 and Bonnie's 14.

On Memorial Day a overlooked score was turned in by the following: Dr. John LeMire when he chipped in a birdie 3 on the second holde; Ken Peterson when chipped in a birdie 4 on No. 6 hole; and Tom Neuman a birdie 2 on the seventh hole. Jim Zimmerman was also playing with the foursome.

Reds Owner To Testify In Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — The defense in the Curt Flood case was expected today to put on the stand Cincinnati owner Francis Dale, one of a steady stream of baseball officials testifying that the sport cannot exist without the controversial reserve system.

Mark Hughes, chief counsel for baseball's defendants, estimated it would be the end of the week or the first part of next week before the defense had exhausted its list of witnesses.

Also scheduled to testify today was John Gaherin, chief labor negotiator for the owners.

In testimony Tuesday during the case in which Flood is challenging baseball's reserve system, the defendants called Bing Devine, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. Devine traded Flood to Philadelphia in the transaction that provoked the suit. Also called were NBC broadcaster Joe Garagiola and Joe Cronin, president of the American League.

Devine said it was his opinion that "trading contracts of players plays a comparable roll to player development" in building a team. He revealed that the Cardinals had spent $1.75 million for player development and acquisition last year.

Devine also revealed, under cross-examination, that he had exercised the option renewal clause in the player's contract when slugger Richie Allen and pitcher Steve Carlton became holdouts with the Cards earlier in the spring.

Under the clause a player is automatically re-signed. One of the keys to Flood's suit is the contention that when a player is traded without his permission his rights are violated.

Flood also is contending that the option renewal clause enables the sport to operate in restraint of trade within the framework of the reserve system.

McLain Says He'll Be Ready On July 1

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Suspended pitching ace Denny McLain has denied published reports that he is playing golf instead of readying himself for his scheduled mound debut July 1 when the Detroit Tigers clash with the New York Yankees.

A two-inch rainfall Monday in Lakeland dictated cancellation of his scheduled late afternoon hurling practice, McLain said Tuesday in a telephone interview with a Flint, Mich., radio station. He said he threw for 30 minutes Tuesday and planned to practice batting Wednesday.

"I'm 10 days from being ready to throw for 10 innings," the 31-game winner in Detroit's 1968 season said

"July 1 it says Denny McLain will pitch, and July 1, I'm going to pitch," he added.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn suspended McLain this spring for his alleged involvement in a Flint-based gambling operation. The suspension ends June 30.

McLain said he expected to see the Tigers, ranked in fourth place Tuesday in the American Baseball League East Division begin to win a few more ball games.

"There's too fine a personnel in that ball club to continually lose," McLain said.

He said he did not plan on leaving Lakeland until the day before the Tigers' home game with New York because he wants "to take real advantage of our weather down here."

As for the pennant, McLain said he thought Detroit could still capture it, "if we can put it all together in the next 60 days."

"This thing is almost over with, and thank God that it is," he said.

ORDINANCE NO. 544

AN ORDINNACE TO LEVY SUCH TAXES AS MAY BE NECESSARY TO MEET APPROPRIATIONS MADE AND ALL SUMS REQUIRED BY LAW TO BE RAISED TO DEFRAY THE DEBTS, EXPENDITURES, AND LIABILITIES OF SAID CITY FOR THE FISCAL YEAR, ENDING ON THE 30TH DAY OF JUNE, 1971, AND REQURING AN AUTHORIZED LEVY ON THE JULY 1970 CITY TAX ROLL OF RETURNED UNPAID SPECIAL ASSESSMENTS, TOGETHER WITH SUCH PENALTIES THEREON AS IS PROVIDED BY THE CITY CHARTER.

THE CITY OF ESCANABA ORDAINS:

CHAPTER I

Section 101. That there shall be raised by taxation upon all of the taxable property in the City of Escanaba at the next general city (or July, 1970) tax levy, the sum of Six Hundred Sixty-eight Thousand, Five Hundred Ninety-three and 20/100 Dollars ($668,593.20) for the purpose of defraying debts, expenditures and liabilities of said City of Escanaba for the fiscal year ending on the 30th day of June, 1971, in accordance with the 1970-71 budget of said City as submitted by the Manager, as amended by the Council, and approved.

Section 102. That said sum of Six Hundred Sixty-eight Thousand, Five Hundred Ninety-three and 20/100 Dollars ($668,593.20) for the payment of all of the foregoing debts, expenditures and liabilities herein before mentioned be appropriated for the several funds of the City of Escanaba for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1971, and that the same be forthwith certified by the Clerk of said City of Escanaba to the City Assessor of said City, and the same shall be levied and collected upon the assessed valuation of all taxable property within the said City of Escanaba in accordance with the provisions of the City Charter and the Laws of the State of Michigan, for the levying and collection of taxes.

Section 103. That the Clerk of the City shall report on June 30, 1970, to the City Assessor the amounts of all the several delinquent special tax assessments becoming due prior to January 1, 1970, and returned unpaid by the City Treasurer on said date of June 30, 1970, for all public improvements hereto before levied upon each, together with the name of the owner or occupant against whom such assessment was made as contained in the special roll prepared therefore, and on file in the office of the City Treasurer, and the City Assessor is hereby authorized and directed to levy and spread said sums so assessed, together with the penalties fixed by law, in the July, 1970, tax levy against persons and property charged therewith in such special assessment roll in accordance with the provisions of the City Charter of the City of Escanaba.

CHAPTER II

Section 201. If any section, subsection, sentence, clause or phrase of this ordinance is, for any reason, held to be unconstitutional, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining portions of this ordinance. The City Council hereby declares that it would have passed this ordinance irrespective of the fact that any one or more sections, subsections, sentences, clauses and phrases thereof be declared unconstitutional.

Section 202. This ordinance shall be duly published as required by the Charter and shall be in full force and effect ten (10) days after the date of its publication.

I, Donald J. Guindon, Clerk of the City of Escanaba, Michigan, do hereby certify that the above and foregoing ordinance was duly passed and adopted at a special meeting of the City Council held on May 28, 1970.

McLaren, Top Auto Racer, Dies In Crash

GOODWOOD, England (AP) — The auto racing world today mourned the death of Bruce McLaren, one of its top drivers. He died Tuesday at 32 in the crash of an experiment car of his own design.

McLaren, a New Zealander, spun out of control in the auto while driving at 180 miles per hour on the Goodwood Circuit and crashed into an earthen bank.

His MD8 sports car broke in two and exploded into flames. McLaren was dragged clear but died in minutes.

McLaren decided against personally competing at Indianapolis last month in order to ready the MD8 for his defense of the prestigious Canadian-American Series races.

His death came on the same track which ended the career of Stirling Moss in 1961. Moss survived a high-speed collision at Goodwood but hasn't raced since.

Following news of his death, the Royal Automobile Club announced that McLaren was the winner of the coveted Seagrave Trophy for his outstanding performance in winning every race in the 1969 Can-Am Challenge Cup series with cars of his own design and construction.

McLaren had registered many triumphs in auto racing but his biggest victory was considered his winning of the LeMans 24 hours race in a Ford GT40 in 1968.

A Time To Appraise

By JOHN P. McGOFF

Last week, Clifton Wharton, president of Michigan State University was commencement speaker at Johns Hopkins University. Mr. Wharton called on U. S. decision makers to "revise outmoded policies." He proposed "major changes of attitudes and approach in all dimensions of American foreign policy." Mr. Wharton's entire speech was devoted to American foreign policy.

Mr. Wharton's qualifications as a foreign policy expert are slim. He has a Master's degree from the School of Advanced International Studies. His other talents in this area are not apparent.

Mr. Wharton seems to have the hang up that several college presidents have today and that is attempting to be authorities in areas in which they have little or no knowledge. If Mr. Wharton could only inject his proposals for the U. S. to "revise outmoded policies" into the administration of Michigan State University perhaps there would be less takeover by the small radical element. Perhaps Michigan State University would be spared the embarrassment of a "so-called People's Park." If only Mr. Wharton would inject his proposal to the U. S. for "major changes of attitudes and approaches . . ." to his own administration, it is possible that the majority of students at MSU could get the education they are seeking.

If only Mr. Wharton could have devoted his time and energy and talent in that commencement address to analyzing what is wrong with higher education today and in particular, the ills of MSU. May we suggest that he devote his talents in the coming months to building a modern, dynamic administration to lead what was once a highly respected institution of higher learning, out of the confusion and disarray that it is now obviously experiencing.

Our institutions of higher learning are still a major foundation to the democratic way of life. They need the leadership of men with moral courage and stamina to call a halt to the activities of the few who deprive the majority of their rights to an education.

The ranks of college presidents across the country with those qualifications are few. In this state, our hats are off to John Jamrich at Northern Michigan University, Harold Sponberg at Eastern Michigan University, and Ray Smith at Michigan Technological University.

ALABAMA GOV. Albert Brewer and Mrs. Brewer were all smiles as they emerged from voting booth in runoff election Tuesday. Brewer, who was seeking his first full term as governor, was defeated by George Wallace by a narrow margin in the election, however. (AP Wirephoto)

Victorious Wallace 'Wants Schools Back'

Alabama Governor Mum About Future

By The Associated Press

George C. Wallace has won his bid to recapture Alabama's governorship—the likely prelude to another presidential race in 1972—and Jess Unruh claimed the Democratic nomination against Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Wallace, who overcame a narrow first primary loss, promptly celebrated his victory in Tuesday's Democratic runoff over incumbent Albert P. Brewer by demanding President Nixon "Give us back our schools."

Nearly complete returns gave Wallace 542,154, Brewer 510,442.

In California, Unruh, a slimmed-down version of the man known as "Big Daddy" while speaker of the state's Assembly in the mid-1960s, easily outdistanced Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles. Reagan was unopposed for Republican renomination.

That state's battle of two anti-war Democrats saw Rep. John V. Tunney, son of former heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney, ahead of Rep. George E. Brown Jr., who once threatened to launch impeachment proceedings against President Nixon because of the U.S. attack into Cambodia.

The winner faces incumbent Sen. George Murphy, the one-time actor and dancer, who defeated millionaire industrialist Norton Simon in the GOP primary. Murphy is a strong supporter of President Nixon's policies in Southeast Asia.

With 24 per cent of the state's 21,501 precincts counted, Unruh had 394,055 and Yorty 153,054.

Senatorial totals stood: Tunney 253,979, Brown 206,798; Murphy 304,463, Simon 157,098.

The year's busiest political day so far, with balloting in eight states, saw the renomination of four Democratic senators —Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, John C. Stennis of Mississippi, Harrison A. Williams Jr. of New Jersey and Joseph M. Montoya of New Mexico.

Besides Reagan, two other Republican governors were renominated—Robert D. Ray of Iowa, who was unopposed, and Frank Farrar of South Dakota.

In the day's only major upset, Gov. David Cargo of New Mexico was defeated for the Republican senatorial nomination by Anderson Carter, a conservative rancher and oil man, who now faces Montoya, victorious over former state Rep. Richard Edwards.

In New Jersey, Williams, a 2-to-1 victor over state Sen. Frank J. Guarini, will meet Nelson G. Gross, former state Republican chairman who easily whipped two opponents.

Government Aide Quits Just Before Getting Fired

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The long - simmering unrest within the federal health establishment has burst to the surface with the fiery resignation of the government's chief psychiatrist and his public firing two hours later by the Nixon administration.

The forced departure Tuesday of Dr. Stanley F. Yolles, a career government physician and director of the National Institute of Mental Health, capped months of barely concealed fighting among federal medical officials.

The main issues have been alleged political intervention in scientific matters, scanty budgets, and faltering leadership from President Nixon's men.

Yolles' letter of resignation and hot denunciation came less than an hour after Dr. Roger O. Egeberg, the administration's chief physician, assured newsmen he was successfully treating bureaucratic health problems.

It provided further political embarassment for embattled Health Secretary Robert H. Finch, who just spent two weeks recovering from fatigue attributed in part to the stresses of running the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Finch's leadership has been questioned by his own employes and reportedly by the White House.

Yolles, in his letter of resignation, accused the administration of "abandonment of the mentally ill" and alleged unnecessary budget cuts, and program decentralization to political hands in HEW regional offices. He further complained of research curbs, abnegation of responsibility for drug-abuse control, and "partisan political considerations" in selecting government scientific officials.

Finch condemned the "intemperate" tone of Yolles' letter and declined the psychiatrist's offer of a July 1 resignation. Instead, Yolles was fired on the spot.

Yolles had agreed Monday to resign after Finch aides told him he was no longer wanted.

"But we had to sack him on the spot after seeing that letter," said Frederic V. Malek, HEW deputy undersecretary.

Defense Fund Cut Advocated

WASHINGTON (AP) — House war critics, in an effort aimed at speeding withdrawal of American troops from Southeast Asia, opened a drive today to attach a $6 billion defense spending cut to President Nixon's request for a debt ceiling hike.

Before debate opened today, Rep. Charles A. Vanik, D-Ohio, said his spending cut proposal would "suggest . . . not only that troops should be withdrawn more promptly but that an equivalent number of men should be released from military service."

Backers of Vanik's rider expected defeat, which they said would lead to efforts to kill Nixon's proposed $18 billion increase in the national debt limit to cover expected budget deficits.

They indicated the defense cutting effort was a tough move.

"This is playing rough," Rep. Jonathan B. Bingham, D-N.Y., said Tuesday. "But the President played rough when he approved the move into Cambodia without consultation with Congress—after promising to consult Congress."

The statutory limit on the public debt now stands at $377 billion. The latest increase, $12 billion, was authorized in March 1969. The limit has been raised in most years since the beginning of World War II as spending outstripped revenues, forcing the government to borrow.

Father Of Eight Slain By Thugs

OXFORD (AP) — An Oxford businessman, father of eight children, was found shot to death today behind his dry cleaning establishment.

Neil Churchill, about 40, owner of the Churchill Cleaners, had been shot once, police said.

His body was found by Oxford police, who were notified by State Police that they had received a telephone call reporting the shooting.

Another Oxford resident was arrested in connection with the slaying. He is held in the Oakland County Jail at Pontiac.

Jury Being Chosen For Collins' Trial

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Jury selection continues today in the first-degree murder trial of John Norman Collins, 22, accused in the sex slaying of one of seven young women killed over a two-year period in the Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area.

Four women — ranging in age from about 35 to 65—were seated tentatively on the jury during the first day of screening Tuesday. They included the wives of college professors and a writer of children's literature.

Collins is accused in the strangulation murder of 18-year-old Karen Sue Beineman, an Eastern Michigan University coed who was slain last July.

Her nude body was dumped in a wooded area on the outskirts of Ann Arbor, and Collins was arrested a few days later. He has been confined to the Washtenaw County Jail for the past 10 months.

Collins also is charged in California with first-degree murder in the death by strangulation last summer of Roxie Ann Phillips, 17, of Milwaukie, Ore.

No charges have been filed in connection with the other six Michigan slayings.

As jury selection got underway, Circuit Judge John Conlin cautioned newsmen that the names of jurors were not to be publicized at this time.

Photographers were barred from the second floor of the courthouse and all spectators—except members of the defendant's family — were frisked by by sheriff's deputies before being allowed into the courtroom. Special passes were required by newsmen, who also were searched.

Prospective jurors were questioned closely by defense attorneys on whether they had formed any opinions about the case from what they had learned through the news media.

Scientists Create Gene; Test Tube Baby Possible

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Scientists have created a gene in the laboratory, a feat that raises questions about the possibility of starting life itself in a test tube.

The announcement of the first man-made gene—the basic unit of heredity that controls all life processes—was made Tuesday by a team headed by a Nobel Prize winner, Dr. H. Gobind Khorana.

The University of Wisconsin team said genes can be made completely from simple organic chemicals.

Nobel Prize Winner

Khorana, who won a 1968 Nobel for earlier work on the genetic code, said the new work might eventually allow scientists to manipulate the biology of a living system.

Some scientists have said in the past that it might be 25 to 100 years before this new knowledge of genetics can be put to work in man.

The first likely application would be in genetic engineering —perhaps infecting humans with viruses that carry new genes, genes that would cure hereditary diseases such as hemophilia.

By making and giving substitute genes, man may be able to make people smarter or taller. Scientists may be able to turn off the growth of cancer cells.

A first simple life form that might be made in the test tube is a virus.

Even this, however, could be dangerous. A man-made virus might be so unusual that nothing would exist to control it.

So while scientists are moving closer to control of biological processes, they also are moving closer to dangers and the problems of the possible misuse of this mastery.

Question Of Heredity

Who would be given the power to make decisions about heredity control? This question is one of profound concern to many scientists working with genetics.

When a Harvard Medical School team isolated pure genetic material late last year, Dr. Jonathan Beckwith, 33, the team leader, expressed fear that the work could be misused by government.

The Wisconsin synthesis of a gene is a major advance in a biological revolution that began in the 1940s with the discovery that growth and heredity are controlled by the chemical substance DNA, deoxyribonucleic acid.

Genes are molecules of DNA. They thus harbor the master genetic information that is responsible formaking people, and all living things, what they are.

Soviets Agree To Conference On Middle East

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has agreed to more talks with the United States in an effort to find a political solution to the increasingly war-like Arab-Israeli confrontation.

But the agreement, understood to have been reached during a 40-minute meeting Tuesday between Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin, is not expected to lead to any immediate settlement.

It was also understood the Soviet official refused to disclose any new background to the Russian strategy in providing pilots and increasing numbers of missile technicians to Egypt.

An earlier Soviet response had been declared imprecise and unsatisfactory by American officials and this latest refusal to go into more detail was expected to add to the pressure for a new sale of U.S. warplanes to Israel.

Rogers called in the Soviet ambassador to stress the "seriousness with which we regard the (Mideast) situation, particularly because of the Soviet military involvement," a spokesman said.

Dobrynin agreed with the Secretary of State on the need for "renewed efforts toward achieving a political solution" to the Mideast conflict, the spokesman added.

But the Kremlin envoy, just returned from Moscow, was understood to have given no further explanation of the Soviet buildup beyond the "imprecise and unsatisfactory" response U.S. officials said American Ambassador Jacob Beam received in Moscow a month ago.

Washington wants to know the Soviet intent in sending pilots and modern antiaircraft missiles to Egypt. The administration is concerned over whether the Russians are trying to protect Egypt or planning to help conduct an offensive attack against Israel.

Trapped Viet Aided By B52s

SAIGON (AP) — Five hundred South Vietnamese troops made a helicopter assault today to link up with the weary defenders of a mountain ridge artillery base battered by two days of attacks in the northwest corner of South Vietnam.

Following up an early morning hammering by U.S. B52 bombers, American and South Vietnamese fighter-bombers dropped antipersonnel cluster bombs on lower ridgelines within half a mile of beleaguered Firebase Tun Tavern, while the relief force flew into a landing zone about the same distance from the base on the opposite side.

Field reports said there was no resistance as the reinforcements and their U.S. advisers joined the remnants of Tun Tavern's defenders to begin a sweep around the base.

At noon, North Vietnamese mortar crews were still hurling shells into the helicopter pad of the kidney-shaped outpost four miles east of the Laotian border as American medical helicopters wheeled in to take out the dead and wounded.

One helicopter was hit and destroyed this morning.

Losses continued to rise on both sides in the battle for the base, which occupies a narrow ridge 1,600 feet above the Da Krong River valley.

Field reports put government casualties at 50 killed and 119 wounded. The allies say 81 North Vietnamese have been killed.

One American adviser was killed and several U.S. and Australian advisers were wounded in the fighting Tuesday at Tun Tavern, which lies in rugged jungle mountains 21 miles south of the demilitarized zone.

Paper Boy Saves Subscriber's Life

GAYLORD (AP) — Andrew Fedor, 65, was reported in satisfactory condition Tuesday in a hospital after his paper boy found him unconscious, sprawled on the floor of his burning home Monday night.

John Kopenhaver, 12, was delivering his papers when he noticed the home was filled with smoke. Kopenhaver ran inside and found the man on the floor, but was unable to move him. He summoned his father, who called an ambulance.

President To Speak

Indochina Progress Report Due Tonight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today rejected a proposal to give the President a free hand in Cambodia so long as Communists hold Americans prisoner there.

The setback for the administration came only hours before President Nixon was scheduled to go before a national television-radio audience with what is expected to be an optimistic progress report on the campaign in Cambodia.

The Senate test was on an administration-backed proposal by Kansas Republican Robert J. Dole designed to negate the Cooper-Church amendment that would bar funds for U.S. operations in Cambodia after June 30.

Predict Proposal Defeat

Although defeat of the Dole proposal, which called for allowing the President to use U.S. forces in Cambodia as long as American troops were held prisoner there, had been expected, the action reportedly would not affect Nixon's remarks, scheduled for 9 p.m. EDT.

The President set his speech after meeting with defense and military leaders over the weekend when he reportedly was given optimistic accounts of the month-old Cambodian campaign.

The President's Indochina policy also was under attack in the House today where antiwar members argued for a rider to a bill raising the national debt limit that they said was aimed at forcing a faster withdrawal of U.S. troops from Southeast Asia.

The vote on the Dole proposal was the first real indication of Senate feeling concerning the measure sponsored by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., to curb Nixon's powers in Cambodia after June 30, the date the President set for withdrawing all American forces from that country.

Amendment Vote Set

Chances for a quick vote on the Cooper-Church amendment itself remained dim since three senators Tuesday accepted the President's invitation to go on a week-long tour of Cambodia and Vietnam.

Republicans John Tower of Texas and George Murphy of California and Democrat Howard Cannon of Nevada scheduled their departure today, along with four House members, three governors and two Nixon advisers.

Plan Called Travesty

Sen. Church Tuesday called the Dole proposal a travesty. The truth, he said, is "the longer our forces stay in Cambodia the more vulnerable they will be to capture—and to being killed —by the enemy."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., added that if fair and humane treatment is to be obtained for prisoners, "we must stop tying their rights to unrelated political controversies both foreign and domestic."

Church charged the Dole measure would arouse false expectations among families of prisoners and give them "hopes that simply cannot be fulfilled merely by passing a bill."

Gromyko Seeking China-American Ouster In Asia

PARIS (AP) — Diplomatic sources said today Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko has told the French the Soviet Union would like to see both Chinese and American influence removed from Southeast Asia.

The sources said this line emerged from Gromyko's discussions with Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann and other senior French officials.

Informants said Southeast Asia and the Middle East were the principal topics discussed Tuesday in an opening round between Gromyko and the French. Emphasis shifts today to European questions and bilateral relations.

Earthquake Toll Still Climbing

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Bad weather and blocked roads continued to hamper efforts today to get rescue workers into the earthquake-shattered Huaylas Canyon high in the Peruvian Andes.

The towns of Yungay, Caraz and Huaraz in the canyon were almost totally destroyed in the earthquake which rumbled through half of Peru Sunday. Government officials feared as many as 30,000 people were killed, but broken communications still prevented anything like an accurate tally of casualties.

In Yungay, about 240 miles north of Lima, only 2,500 residents reportedly survived out of the population of 20,000, a high government official said.

Information Director Augusto Zimmerman said many people who ran into the narrow streets of the Andean villages and towns were killed by falling rocks and debris from the canyon walls. A surging tide of water from Lake Llanganuco added to the destruction.

The air force managed to drop a squad of 34 rescue workers Tuesday at Huaraz, at the south entrance of the gorge. It followed up with several more supply drops deeper in the canyon and made a few helicopter evacuations before the weather closed in.

President Juan Velasco paid a quick visit by navy ship to Chimbote, about 250 miles up the coast from Lima, and said he was shocked by what he saw in the fishing and factory city of 80,000. The president decreed an eight-day mourning period and his military regime ordered the national budget readjusted to provide $16 million to begin reconstruction.

Value Is Debated:

Scenic River May Get Fish Ladders

The fate of a $250,000 appropriation for the first phase of a proposed series of fishways around falls and rapids on an Upper Peninsula river remained in doubt today.

Sponsored by State Sen. Joseph Mack (D-Ironwood), the proposal calls for the state to contruct fish ladders around the Presque Isle River in Ontonagon County to permit steelheads and coho salmon to move upstream to spawn.

The State Senate early this month approved expenditure of the $250,000 for the first phase of the project that has been estimated to cost $1.3 million when fully completed.

However, the measure was referred to the House Conservation and Recreation Committee, which voted to delete the $250,000, with Rep. John Payant (R-Kingsford) casting the lone dissenting vote.

Gets Sidetracked

The bill then was sent to the House Appropriations Committee. The $250,000 could be restored there or on the House floor.

"When the bill came over from the Senate, they sidetracked it into the conservation committee, where we had a hearing," Payant said. By "they," he was referring to Conservation Committee Chairman Thomas J. Anderson (D-Southgate) and Rep. Warren Goemaere (D-Roseville), a member of the committee, both of whom opposed appropriation of the $250,000.

Payant said Upper Peninsula legislators, led by Rep. Russell Hellman (D-Dollar Bay), will try to have the $250,000 restored in a vote on the House floor. "I'm going to support Hellman and do all I can to get it restored," Payant said.

During the House Conservation hearing, the fish ladder proposal was opposed by spokesmen for the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, the Sierra Club and other groups.

Tourist Attraction

At the May meeting of the Natural Resources Commission, Mrs. E. LeRoy Bjerke of Midland, chairman of the Mackinac Chapter of the Sierra Club, protested the proposal as threatening the wild esthetic values of the dedicated scenic area adjacent to the Porcupine Mountains State Park.

Mack defended the proposal before the commission as a "natural fish hatchery" and tourist attraction for his district.

Previously, Mrs. E. V. Fitz of Grand Rapids had written the Fish Division of the Department of Natural Resources to protest the threat of dynamiting and grates over the falls and rapids to the scenic values of the area. She received a reply from Thomas R. Doyle, in charge of habitat management for the Fish Division, which favors the project.

"In the opinion of the experts, this project is entirely feasible," Doyle wrote. "A fish-way has been designed which would be covered and unobtrusive for much of its length, located to one side of the falls. Geologists and blasting experts have been consulted to assure that no damage would be done to the falls.

Preserve Beauty

"The total project would open up approximately 146 miles of main stream and tributary waters for spawning and angling, and these fish would provide stocks for the open waters of Lake Superior as well."

However, Doyle wrote, "One of the most important stipulations imposed on this investigation by our department was that the esthetic beauty and character of Manido (scenic point) Falls must, at all costs be preserved. If this could not be achieved, the project would be dropped."

Mack told the commission that the projected $1.3 million cost is "blown out of all proportion by those opposed to this project. Give us the dynamite, and my boys could do it for nothing."

Question Benefit

DNR officials said, however, that to protect the esthetics and avoid damage to the rock structures, the $1.3 million estimate to install fishways in the 23-foot Manabezho, 16-foot Manido, 15-foot Nawadaha, eight-foot Lepisto and jumping pools in the intervening rapids and cascades was accurate. The 11-foot Nimiko and 10-foot Minnewawa Falls would be surmounted with aluminum tube "steep pass" ladders.

Organizations opposed to the fish ladder proposal contend it is an attempt to squander recreation bond money on a project which would not yield significant benefit to the public and would violate the natural character of the Porcupine Mountain State Park.

"Phase I would provide a fishway around the 23-foot lower Manido Falls," said Mrs. Bjerke. "Such a fishway would only make an additional 400 feet of the stream passable to significant numbers of fish, since fish would then encounter the 16-foot Manido Falls. Thus if the initial Phase I were constructed, allowing fish 400 feet further upstream, and if funds were not forthcoming for the remainedr of the project, this would mean a total waste of $250,000 of state recreation land monies."

Bloodmobile Coming

Summer Brings Need For More, Not Less Blood

Residents of Delta County again have the opportunity to serve their friends and neighbors who will require blood transfusions this summer, reports the Delta County Chapter of the American Red Cross, sponsor of the Badger Red Cross Bloodmobile.

The Bloodmobile will arrive in Delta County on June 9 to accept blood donations, and its schedule is as follows:

June 9 — Gladstone, James T. Jones School, 3 to 7 p. m.

June 10 — Escanaba, Teamster Building, 2:30 to 7:30.

June 11 — Escanaba, Teamster Building, 10 a. m., to 3 p. m.

All types of blood are needed, the Red Cross notes. With increased summer traffic there will be more traffic accidents and a resulting increase in blood needs — and yet the blood donations drop in summertime.

Delta County is expected to provide 280 units this June, as was the goal in April. Since the quota was not quite realized in April, there is increased obligation during the June visit, the Red Cross points out.

Age And Weight

Appointments are being made through industry and some contact with former donors. First-time donors are critically needed if the quota is to be met.

Here are some of the donor requirements, which permit most persons in reasonably good health to qualify:

The donation interval is eight weeks, but not more than five times in 12 months. Persons must weigh not less than 110 pounds.

Persons 18 through 65 are accepted; those under 21 require written parental consent.

Chronic illness is reason for deferral; so also is a recent operation; and pregnancy disqualifies an individual for six months.

Physician At Center

Rules on such illnesses as mononucelosis, malaria, hepatitis, and information regarding allergies, immunizations, and medication may be obtained through the Red Cross office.

A local physician is in volunteer service at all times during a bloodmobile visit, and persons who may be in doubt are invited to come to the center and let the physician make the decision.

There's no special diet necessary for donors, although it is advisable to eat a light lunch within three hours before the donation.

Persons who wish to make appointments for any of the three days the bloodmobile will be in Delta County are asked to call the Red Cross mornings at 786-3214 or 786-5371.

2 Bodies Recovered From Submerged Plane In Canada

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont.—(AP) — Two bodies recovered Tuesday from a submerged aircraft in Reflection Lake, about 42 miles northeast of here, have been identified as two missing Michigan men.

Police said the bodies were of Sherwood Johnson and his nephew, John Jones, 26, both of Remus, Mich. They were reported overdue during the weekend on a flight to Skintent Lake, about 50 miles east of the Sault. The plane wreckage was found under 20 feet of water.

Harnischfeger Given Contract By Defense Dept.

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Harnischfeger Corp. plant in Escanaba has been awarded a $9.5 million contract by the Defense Department, according to an announcement made today by Sen. Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich).

The contract, authorized by the Defense Supply Agency, went to Harnischfeger's headquarters in Milwaukee and calls for the manufacture of 148 20-ton cranes and 50 shovel loaders for the Defense Department.

The Harnischfeger Corp. plant in Escanaba has been awarded Defense Department contracts in the past.

Construction Man Suffers Injuries In Tractor Mishap

Clifford C. Hall, Alvin, Wis., was admitted to the St. Francis Hospital on Tuesday for treatment of injuries he received when he was run over by a tractor, according to State Police.

Officers said Hall was removing a log from in front of the tractor he had been operating, when the tractor suddenly slipped into gear, apparently from it's own vibration, and ran over him.

Hall is employed by the Northern Asphalt Co. of Escanaba, and was working at the Wawrka Subdivision in Wells Township at the time of the accident, police said, which occurred about 11:30 a.m.

Hall was listed in good condition at the hospital today.

Road Victim

CARSON CITY (AP) — A 54-year-old Fairgrove woman died Tuesday when a car driven by her husband ran off M57 in Fulton Township of Gratiot County.

Police identified the victim as Madge McAllister. Her husband, Alger, is hospitalized in Carson City.

City-Employes' Wage Contracts Still Unsettled

The City of Escanaba and three of the four groups of employes with whom it negotiates wage contracts have as yet come to no agreement for the fiscal year beginning July 1.

One group, however, the police officers, has come to terms on a two-year contract, reports City Manager George Harvey.

"As always, we get the bitter with the sweet," the city manager has advised the City Council in adding two items to the agenda for Thursday night's Council session. The meeting will be a 8 p. m., in the Civic Center.

Reporting to the Council, Harvey said:

"The firefighters have requested arbitration and I have been asked to designate a representative on the panel of arbitrators. Howard Smale (city controller) has been named by me for this purpose and I ask that you ratify said action."

Police Contract

Of the Police Department contract Harvey advised the Council:

"The Teamsters has agreed with the City on a two-year contract for wages and working conditions for police personnel. The contract calls for a 7 per cent increase effective July 1, 1970 and a 7 per cent increase effective July 1, 1971."

The city manager asked the Council to ratify the contract with the Teamsters Union, which represents the police personnel.

Besides the firefighters, the city has as yet not come to contract agreement with the electricians, and the bulk of the employes who are represented by the Municipal Employes Union.

City Revenues

In general the city has committed itself to a 7 per cent pay increase, except the electricians, whose pay scale is geared to that of the U. P. Power Co.

The failure to reach agreement for personal services with the city employes places the City of Escanaba in a difficult budgetary bind at a time when all costs are rising — and some city revenues are declining.

Escanaba has failed to gain any substantial number in population according to the 1970 census. Most state collected taxes are returned to the communities on a per capita basis. Failure to grow in ratio with the state means substantial loss in revenue to Escanaba.

The beginning of the fiscal year is July 1 — some 25 days away. Hopefully, contracts will be achieved by that time. Failing this, the fiscal year can bring labor as well as budget difficulties to Escanaba.

Quinn Admitted To State Bar

Michael Quinn, of the Strom, Hoehn, and Butch Law Firm was admitted to practice by the Michigan Bar Association at swearing-in ceremonies Monday by Judge Bernard H Davidson at the opening of the June term of the Circuit Court of Delta County.

Quinn, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas X. Quinn, 1620 16th Ave. S., graduated from Holy Name High School in 1960 and received his L.L.B. from Marquette University in 1964 before getting his Juris Doctor degree from the Marquette University Law School in 1967. He is a member of the Wisconsin Bar Association.

He practiced in Milwaukee before entering the United States Army, where he served in Germany for two years, receiving his discharge in August of 1969.

Quinn resides in Escanaba with his wife, the former Evelyn Snow, and two children, Mike and Toni Lynn, at 1603 S. 14th St.

Rivard To Seek Education Seat

David J. Rivard of Soo Hill, who ran unsuccessfully for election to the Escanaba Area Board of Education in 1967, today announced he will be a write-in candidate for the Area Board of Education in Monday's annual election.

Rivard, 27, said he is seeking to fill the remaining one year of the term being vacated by Albin Person Jr., who will resign June 30 as a result of his election to the City Council of Escanaba.

The only other candidate for the Board of Education is Alfred Troutt, Ford River, who is seeking the four-year term.

Troutt filed nominating petitions before the deadline in May and his name will be the only one on the ballot.

Rivard, who is married to the former Sharon Bryson, is the father of three children. He is employed by Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., and is a member of International Chemical Workers Union Local 799.

He has worked with the Escanaba Area Public Schools, serving as chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Committee to the Board of Education.

Former Resident Escapes Serious Injury In Crash

The daughter of an Escanaba couple and her husband escaped serious injury recently when their small plane crashed in the back yard of a Long Beach, Fla., home.

Morton McGeary and his wife, the former Rosemary LaCrosse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert LaCrosse, 122 S. 22nd St., were shaken by the accident, but not seriously hurt, authorities reported. Another couple in the plane also escaped without serious injury.

"All I can say is that they are lucky, lucky people," said a Federal Aviation Agency official.

The plane lost power on its approach to Long Beach Airport. Witnesses said they saw smoke pouring from the engine.

She received a first place in ceramics and a second place in drawing in the college's 1970 Creative Arts Festival. She is a graduate of West High School, Madison, Wis.

Rains Curtail Stream Fishing

Heavy rains which have created near flood conditions on streams and creeks in the area will force fishermen onto the Great Lakes and inland lakes until stream levels recede, the Department of Natural Resources said today.

Opening of the bass season on Memorial Day was reported as fair with streams and Big and Little Bay de Noc producing equally well.

Success by species during the past week in the Delta County area was noted as follows:

Trout — The Sturgeon, Escanaba, Fishdam and 18-Mile were fair, but high water will now curtail activity and success.

Bass — Very good in Big Bay de Noc off the Fishdam and Big River. Fair in the Ford River and at the head of Little Bay de Noc.

Northern Pike — Very good off Butler's Beach in the Nahma area, Garden Bay vicinity and off the Big River in Ogontz Bay.

Panfish — Good success at Garden and Nahma, above Gladstone and in Dam No. 1 on the Escanaba River.

In Alger and Marquette counties, the rain apparently deterred most fishing activity as the only reports reflected fair luck for walleyes on Little Lake, fair bass fishing on Perch and Pake lakes, and fair perch and bluegill fishing on Anderson and Little Shag lakes — all in the Gwinn area. Lake Michigamme in northwest Marquette County also produced fair walleye success.

All officers report streams at flood conditions and generally not fishable. Blackflies, mosquitoes and ticks are plentiful. Many roads are washed out and caution is urged in traversing back-woods roads.

Dr. Weatherby Is Seminar Selectee

Dr. Joseph Weatherby (assistant professor, Social Sciences Department, California State Polytechnic College) has been selected by the U.S. Office of Health, Education and Welfare to participate with 19 others professors from the United States in a two-summer seminar in Middle East Studies.

The summer will be spent at Baldwin - Wallace College in Cleveland, Ohio, and will involve concentrated work in Arabic and Middle East area studies.

During the summer of 1971, seminars will be held in Egypt, Israel, and Lebanon with the cooperation of the American University of Cario, the Hebrew University, and the American University of Beirut. Each participant will receive a $2,000 stipend plus complete expenses and cost of living while in the Middle East.

Mr. U. of M. Follo

The man who is known as "Mr. University of Michigan" in the Upper Peninsula is an alumnus of Western Michigan University. When he decided to work on his master's degree, he chose the University of Chicago. But Charlie Follo has spent the past 23 years as the University of Michigan's representative in the Upper Peninsula and earned his sobriquet as the result of a lot of diligent work on behalf of the university he never attended.

On July 1, Mr. Follo will retire as assistant director of the U-M Extension Service, having attained 65 years of age. He has been the University of Michigan's only official in the Northern Peninsula since 1947, when he opened the university's extension office in his native Escanaba. That office has served in the intervening period as a center for university programs and services for all of the Peninsula.

Mr. Follo's assignment largely was to bring the university to the Upper Peninsula, and in this he succeeded exceptionally well. At the time the office was opened, no other institution in the Upper Peninsula was offering graduate work off the college campus. Mr. Follo's office offered graduate courses in education and allied subject, developed non-credit courses and lecture series in a wide variety of subjects, arranged for concert series by members of the university faculty and developed programs aimed at solving some of the problems of the Upper Peninsula.

In the course of all this, Mr. Follo drove thousands of miles every year and became one of the Upper Peninsula's most familiar figures. He also found time to perform a great many volunteer duties that were in the public interest but that had no connection with his work for the university. Space permits only a few to be mentioned .

★ ★ ★

He served for many years on the Escanaba Library Board of Trustees, the Civil Service Commission of Escanaba, the Escanaba Board of Education and the Bay de Noc Community College Board of Trustees. He helped organize the Upper Peninsula Crafts Council. He has been an active member of the Upper Peninsula Educational Planning Council, the Human Resources Committee of the Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress, the Delta County Historical Society, the Historical Society of Michigan, the American Association for State and National History and a host of other professional groups.

One of his biggest achievements was his election to the Michigan Constitutional Convention, serving as an Upper Peninsula delegate to that body in 1961-62.

Although he never attended the university he has represented with such distinction these many years, Mr. Follo can at least claim to being an honorary alumnus of the University of Michigan. That status was officially conferred upon him by the U-M Regents in 1960 in recognition of his work with the U-M Alumni Association.

Even in retirement, Charlie Follo will still be known as "Mr. University of Michigan" by his many friends in the Upper Peninsula.

Let's see now if we've got everything straight. It's all right for the Soviet Union to send "advisers" in Egypt to fly missions against the Israelis, but it's not all right for the United States to send troops into Cambodia to stop Communist aggression.

The new left claims that the older generation is hypocritical, which to some extent is true. The new left has used this as an excuse for excessive behavior which has amounted to violent anarchy on a number of campuses in recent weeks.

It is ironic, however, that some of the heroes of the young protesters, Sen. J. William Fulbright, for example, also are hypocritical. So, in fact, is the new left.

Fulbright and his youthful colleagues are apoplectic over the American invasion of Cambodia which is a consequence of prior North Vietnamese escalation in that beleagured country. Yet they are indifferent, at best, over the fact that Soviet pilots invade Israeli air space and Russian officers have taken over the Egyptian army.

★ ★ ★

The response of Fulbright and the new left is not, upon study, difficult to fathom. Fulbright has seldom been able to admit that Communism is any threat to the non-Communist world. In effect, he sees no enemies to the left.

Fulbright does not wish ill for the Israelis, to be sure. Apparently, however, he would rather risk the annihilation of the Jewish state than recognize the reality of Soviet aggression.

If he admitted the fact in the Mideast, it might accur to him that Communism as also on the march in Southeast Asia.

As for the new left, part of its attitude is a result of the increasing anti-Semitism in its movement .A number of new left organizations and publications dominated by Communist sympathizers, have taken a pro-Arab stance which means they support Nasser's policy of Jewish genocide, subsidized by Soviet money and men.

The new left charge of hypocrisy is merely a technique to paralyze American foreign policy in the face of a dynamic and dangerous totalarian enemy.

Peninsula Potpourri

Construction of a small craft channel system in the Les Cheneaux Island area of Lake Huron, off southeastern Upper Peninsula, should be under way this summer, with the dredging being done by the Roen Salvage Co. of Sturgeon Bay, Wis. The company was low bidder on the project at $139,380, according to the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers. The project calls for dredging a channel 100 feet wide and seven feet deep in the waters between Hessel and Cedarville and out into Lake Huron.

Cambodia: Key To U.S. Survival?

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

WASHINGTON — It would hardly do to say that Senators who support the Cooper-Church Amendment have suddenly become bereft of their senses. However, one scratches one's head in vain to find any sound rationale for some of the things that the doves are proposing.

Senator Hiram Fong (R-Hawaii) finds the performance of the extreme doves so completely mystifying that he is reduced to the most plaintive sort of questions. For years General Albert Wedemeyer, for instance, has been urging the "Asiaticizing" of the Vietnamese War, even going so far as to suggest a Senator Goodell-type terminal date for pulling all our ground troops out of Southeast Asia. However, Wedemeyer has differed from Goodell on one thing: he would make U.S. withdrawal follow a timetable that permits Asians to take up the front-line slack in their own behalf.

U.S. military diplomacy made a major move to satisfy the Wedemeyer requirements when it allowed four thousand ethnic Cambodian soldiers who had been serving with the South Vietnamese to return to their homeland to beef up the pitifully untrained Cambodian Army. Since soldiers must live, the U.S. has continued to pay the ethnic Cambodians. Such a policy of letting allies act to pull one's chestnuts out of the fire has always been followed by prudent nations. During the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries the British referred to their money-support of foreign trops as "St. George's cavalry." Senator George Aiken, a canny Vermont Yankee, ought to comprehend the common sense of "letting St. George do it." And Senator Vance Hartke, an equally astute Indiana Hoosier, ought to grasp the point even if it eludes Senator Fulbright, who often acts as if he had less sense of self-preservation than a lemming.

I know that Aiken and Hartke are basically intelligent men. So what gives with them? To plagiarize from Winston Churchill, it is a riddle wrapped inside an enigma.

We return to Senator Fong's plaintive questions. Fong does not want to see the U.S. bogged down after the monsoon season in Cambodia any more than Aiken or Hartke or, for that matter, Senator Frank Church or Senator John Sherman Cooper. But he beseeches the doves to tell him why it is a good thing "to deny assistance to Cambodia even if Cambodia is helping our troops."

"Suppose," says Fong, "Cambodia forces were striking an enemy base in Cambodia from which the enemy was attacking U.S. forces in Vietnam. Does the Senate . . . want to prohibit . . . any other person from helping Cambodian forces trying to prevent the enemy from killing American troops? It is a good thing for the American people that France did not have a similar prohibition against assistance to our American Revolutionary forces under General George Washington."

What the Senate doves propose doing, so Fong says, is to tell the enemy: "Go ahead. Rebuild those bases. You'll be safe once more. We in the Senate have made sure neither our ground troops nor South Vietnamese ground troops can attack wou there, even in time-honored hot pursuit." But it is even worse than this, according to Senator Fong. "After the projected withdrawal . . . American soldiers delayed in Cambodia . . . would not even be paid or supplied with food or ammunition . . . Their families would lose their monthly allotments. And, if I understand it, their widows . . . would not be entitled to any survivor benefits."

How goofy can a great nation get? Nixon's Cambodian move has resulted in the killing of some eight thousand North Vietnamese and Viet Cong soldiers in Cambodia. At least eight thousand more must have been wounded. Even allowing for some replacements, this means that a third of the forty North Vietnamese - Viet Cong fighting force in Cambodia has been put out of action. And the remainder has been deprived of food sufficient to feed thirty battalions for six months. The weapon haul has been comparable. All of which means that 150,000 U.S. ground troops can be withdrawn from the Asian mainland in fairly quick order without leaving our allies in the lurch.

If Fulbright, McGovern, Goodell, Church, and Cooper can't see this because their vision has been so blurred by emotion that they can't think straight, less emotive doves such as Aiken and Hartke should be able to grasp it. The thing that really gags me is the proposal to stop the pay of the ethnic Cambodians after June 30. This is the final straw. If the Senate votes to do this it would signify that we are being governed by men who have lost every instinct for self-preservation.

Letters To The Press

AMWAY COMMENTS

I'm glad to see our City Council show some concern regarding water pollution. Councilman Cecil B. Chase knows of my concern and efforts for the past seven years to make people aware of the pollution problem confronting us, and urge them to do their bit.

All laundry detergents contain phosphates. Much research needs to be done before a satisfactory substitute can be found. Amway has long been in the forefront in antipollution efforts and was a pioneer in the introduction of detergents with bio-degradable surfactants to the market place, introducing such products as long as five years before the industry in general converted. I know they will continue to work to provide efficient products that contribute as little to pollution as it is possible to make them.

It seems that the council has been misinformed in the report on high phosphate detergents. The numbers game presently being played in the newspaper, publishing a list of detergent products with alleged percentages of phosphate was very misleading and grossly inaccurate. A true comparison list should not only classify products by intent use (which the newspaper list did not) but should also compare on the basis of the amount of the product one would expect to use.

A 34 per cent phosphate product which is used in small quantities could actually put less phosphate in the water than a 22 per cent phosphate product used in liberal quantities. The heavy duty laundry compounds range between 30 and 45 per cent phosphate and you are instructed to use as the minimum amount 1½ cups per load. Amway SA 8 which is a concentrate and is 34.85 per cent phosphate, but the mini mum usage per load is ¼ cup.

The newspaper list made no mention of amway products that contain no phosphate and contribute nothing to pollution, such as liquid detergent, dish drops, rug shampoo and others. The general heavy duty cleanser rates 1.35 per cent phosphate.

These percentages of phosphate are correct. Amway has the formulas, and should know. Before you start your boycott as was suggested, study these facts, then compile your list. Really give this pollution problem some thought and action.

SPECIAL FLAG

A guest flag flown in the parade of flags at the Gardens of Rest Cemetery on Memorial Day has the distinction of being the only one in the parade of flags to have been flown over the United States capitol in Washington, D.C.

The flag was flown at the cemetery in memory of Sgt. James A. DeRouin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew DeRouin of 3278 Black Creek Rd., Muskegon, Mich.

Sgt. DeRouin lost his life while serving in the U.S. Marine Corps at Andrews Air Force Base, in a flash fire, on March 14, 1969.

Sgt. DeRouin was the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Albert French and Mrs. Frank Kidd of Escanaba.

This special flag was received by relatives here in Escanaba through the cooperation and help of Rep. Charles Varnum, U.S. Senator Robert Griffin and the White House.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 NT	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♠	Dble

Opening lead—jack of hearts.

South is in four spades doubled and West leads a heart. West's double is at least questionable, for, while he should expect to beat the contract, he is incurring the risk of alerting declarer to the foul trump division — which in turn might affect South's approach to the hand and steer him to a winning succession of plays.

Certainly it become clear to South after the double that the trumps are stacked against him. The only uncertainty is whether West has five trumps headed by the K-Q-10, or only four of them.

Declarer should assume that if West lacks the ace of clubs he must have all five trumps; otherwise, his double would make no sense. If West has only four trumps, he is bound to have the ace of clubs as part of his double.

Since South's method of play depends on whether West has four or five trumps, he should shape his plans to try to discover the actual situation. Accordingly, he cashes the A-K-Q of hearts, discarding a club, and leads the king of clubs from dummy, not a low one.

When East covers with the act, South knows he is fighting a 5-0 trump division. He ruffs the club, plays a diamond to the jack, ruffs another club, and plays the queen and another diamond. West ruffs and leads the third round of clubs, but, after South trumps, the position is:

North
♠ 7 5 4
♣ 9

West ♠ K Q 10 6 East Immaterial

South
♠ A J
♦ A K

Having lost only one trick so far, South leads a diamond. Whatever West does, he can score only two tricks and declarer makes the contract.

Seek Improved Housing For State Migrants

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's Public Health Department has been asked to take immediate action to improve housing conditions for migrants and prosecute growers who fail to abide by labor camp rules.

A petition was filed with the department by lawyers for United Migrants for Opportunity, Inc., described as "a federally funded group working with migrants."

"As presently enforced, the law does not protect the workers because it does not deter the offenders," said the petition. "It does not deter them, because there is no conduct of theirs that, by definition, cannot be ignored or privately negotiated by the authorities."

A statement from the group said the petition "claims the department customarily compromises the charges it makes and rarely invokes the penal and administrative sanctions provided by law."

The petition said the department failed to enforce standards, and produced a report saying that 68 per cent of the children over six in migrant housing slept in the same room as their parents, 34 per cent of the housing units had wet floors, 29 per cent leaking roofs and 25 per cent leaking floors.

The group asked specifically that the department:

—Fix standards for preseason denial of camp licenses and for midseason suspension and revocation of licenses.

—Provide at least one midseason inspection of every licensed camp.

—Publish complaint forms and other basic information for workers in both English and and Spanish.

—Hold periodic public hearings on housing conditions.

—Increase reliance on criminal prosecutions against offending camp operators.

Ann Landers

Easter Bunnies Have Girlfriend Hopping

Dear Ann Landers: My birthday was Easter Sunday. It was also the anniversary of the day Jerry and I met. For the last three years Jerry and I have celebrated this date as a very important one in our lives.

For months Jerry has been asking me what I want for a gift. I told him I want HIM to decide. In the meantime we have done plenty of window shopping. He knows my taste in luggage, Jewery and hostess gowns. This morning I became completely undone when a delivery man rang my door bell and handed me a large box with air holes. I am now the proud mother of two Easter bunnies — one is tinted powder blue, the other is a bluish pink. The card read, "From Jerry — with love. Name the girl after you, and the boy after me."

I don't care for rabbits. I live in an efficiency apartment and have no place for them. What's more I don't want to be bothered. At first I was disappointed, now I am furious. This little "joke" is nothing but a cheap copout. Any advice?— The Hutch Mistress

Dear Hutch: Call Jerry at once and tell him he is the proud father of two rabbits and he can name them anything he likes. And hurry up before you have ten.

Dear Ann Landers: Since you are the lady with all the answers, please give us the answer to this one: Why would a very good-looking, charming, statuesque girl (about 5 feet 9), great sense of humor and very popular, settle for a shrimp who is at least five inches shorter than she is — bookish looking, glasses, slightly bald, and still wears skinny ties? They are such a weird couple, people turn to stare. She seems completely oblivious to the gazes, stands up tall as she can and gives the impression that she is proud to be seen with him. What's in her head? — The Group

Dear Group: Brains, probably. The girl no doubt feels that this man has the qualities she considers important — such as integrity, kindness and consideration. He may even have a fascinating mind and as exciting personality. It should not be hard to understand why a girl with brains would prefer him to some of the handsome, dumb, boring, tall fellows who can talk of nothing but baseball and consider sex a contact sport.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has an older sister who considers herself a mother-substitute. Edmond and I are both past 50 so you know he has not needed a mother in quite some time.

His sister has been writing to him at least twice a week—at his office. The letters are addressed to him. I have two brothers and I always write to them at home — out of respect for their wives.

The problem is that Edmond's sister telephones me every few weeks and asks why she has not heard from US. I must then tell her I have not seen the letters. She always says, "I meant those letters for you, too, dear."

When I ask Edmond about the letters he says, "They are endless accounts of people I can't remember and have no interest in. I wouldn't dream of boring you. I just throw them out." I can't tell his sister the truth. She would feel hurt. What do you suggest I say to her? — Post Woes

Dear P. W.: The only way to settle most in-law trouble is to go to the source. Suggest to your sister-in-law that she address the letters to Mr. and Mrs. and send them to your home since you have nothing to do with his office mail.

Mrs. Horace Dodge Dies At Age 103

GROSSE POINTE, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. Anna Thompson Dodge, widow of automotive pioneer Horace E. Dodge and mistress of one of America's great estates, died Tuesday at her Grosse Pointe home at the age of 103.

Mrs. Dodge had been confined in recent years to her elegant home in Grosse Pointe Farms, a suburb of the motor capital where her husband made his fortune.

Her son Horace Jr. died in 1963; her daughter Delphine had died in 1943. Mrs. Dodge survived her husband by 53 years, living off an estate estimated at $37 million.

Horace, along with his brother John, achieved fame in the automotive world until their deaths in 1920. During his lifetime Dodge had emassed a personal fortune and had annual earnings estimated at $1.3 million. Provisions in his will called for the money to be given to his wife and divided further according to her own will.

Horace Jr. was in the midst of a court fight with his fifth wife, showgirl Gregg Sherwood when he died. An out of court settlement with Mrs. Dodge Sr. reportedly brought Gregg $9 million. An out of court settlement was also reached about the youngest son of Horace Jr., born in 1954. He has four other children.

In 1926 Mrs. Dodge married Hugh Dillman (McGoughty) a one time actor. The marriage ended in an uncontested divorce suit brought by Mrs. Dodge in 1947. At that time she received the legal right to use her former name of Dodge.

Mrs. Dodge had met Dillman in a storybook affair in Vienna. Allegedly, Dillman came to Mrs. Dodge's assistance when her gondola operator was quarreling with another, almost upsetting the gondola. The two met again in Florida where the romance grew.

The Dodges had their own yacht in Detroit which was valued at $2 million. During the war it was used as a watchboat by the navy.

Mrs. Dodge's death is expected to reopen numerous lawsuits by her grandchildren and great-grandchildren to obtain an estimated $100 million estate. The estate had been accumulated by investing in nontaxable government bonds.

A large amount of the estate includes jewels. The late Horace Sr. had given his wife a five strand pearl necklace that once belonged to the Empress Catherine of Russia. It cost $800,000. Mrs. Dodge had given the pearls to her daughter some time before the latter's death.

Mrs. Dodge's death was attributed to natural causes.

JOHN LEHOULLIER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert LeHouillier of 2116 21st Ave. S., received his bachelor's degree in history from Northern Michigan University on May 31 in graduation exercises held in the C. B. Hedgecock Fieldhouse. He is a 1966 graduate of Holy Name High School.

Seeks 9th Term

LANSING (AP)—Rep. James N. Folks, R-Horton, has announced that he will seek a ninth term in the Michigan House of Representatives. Folks is the ranking Republican on the House Taxation Committee, has served as chairman of that committee. He first was elected to the House in a 1955 special election.

Zollar Won't Seek Seat In U.S. Congress

LANSING (AP) — Senate Appropriations Chairman Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, today announced that he has abandoned thoughts of running for Congress this year—but held the door open for a possible federal bid in 1972.

Zollar said he was "sure" Gov. William Milliken, who has not announced his own political intentions, would run for governor and exhibited a letter from Milliken urging him to "resist the pressure" to seek a congressional seat and "continue to devote your talents to state government."

"You have been so valuable as a member of the State Senate and as chairman of the Appropriations Committee that, in my judgement, it is vitally important that the state may continue to have the benefit of your service in the Michigan legislature," Milliken wrote.

Zollar also displayed a resolution, circulated informally in the chamber last week and signed by 35 of the 38 Senators, urging him to remain in the State Senate.

No signing the resolution were Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor; Sen. Coleman Young, D - Detroit Democratic National Committeeman; and Zollar. Senators explained that Levin and Young had not been asked to sign because of their positions.

Zollar noted that the GOP caucus had earlier this week named him caucus chairman and said that job, combined with his position on the Appropriations Committee, "will assure me of a legislative power base which will allow me to be even more effective in Lansing than I have been in the past."

Asked about his decision to stay in the Senate "for several years," Zollar said he may consider the congressional race again in two years.

"A recent survey in the congressional district has shown that I could have won had I entered the race for congress," Zollar said.

American Motors Lone Auto Firm Showing Profit

DETROIT (AP) — Through the first five months of the year, American Motors Corp. is the only major U.S. automaker to show increased new car sales over a year ago. The industry as a whole trails last year by 11.6 per cent.

AMC, the smallest of the four major automakers, credited its gains with the introduction of the subcompact Gremlin and Hornet.

"We are continuing to attract people who are strong prospects for cars in the segment below the so-called standard size cars," said William S. Pickett, AMC vice president for sales.

AMC had sales through the first five months of 111,021 this year compared to 106,553 last year.

During the May 21-31 selling period, domestic new car sales by U.S. manufacturers dipped a slight 1.18 per cent on a daily rate basis. There were eight selling days this year and nine last year.

Sales during the late May period this year were 267,548 compared to 304,627 last year. The daily selling rate for the 1970 May period was 333,443 compared to 33,847 last year.

Luncheon Guest

LANSING (AP) — Former Senate Majority Leader Emil Lockwood, a candidate for the Republican nomination for secretary of state, will be a guest Thursday at a GOP luncheon at Saginaw. Lockwood's office said U.S. Rep. James Harvey, R-Saginaw, is expected to endorse Lockwood's candidacy at the luncheon. Later Thursday Lockwood will attend a GOP meeting of party leaders at Greenville.

Sen. Zaagman Is President Pro-Tem Of State Senate

LANSING (AP) — Sen. Milton Zaagman, R-Grand Rapids, was sworn in Tuesday as president pro tem of the Michigan Senate.

In a brief ceremony in the Senate chamber, Zaagman took his oath of office and title from Acting Lt. Gov. Thomas Schweigert, R-Petoskey.

Schweigert stepped down from the president pro tem spot earlier this week, saying he felt no need to maintain the title, since he already holds the acting lieutenant governor and Senate president designations.

Also sworn into office Tuesday was Sen. Anthony Stamm, R-Kalamazoo, named assistant president pro tem to succeed Zaagman.

$49,658 Grant

LANSING (AP) — The Tri-County Community Action Commission, serving Berrien, Van Buren and Cass counties, is to receive a federal Economic Opportunity grant of some $49,658 for a family planning program, it was announced today.

Symptoms Of Recession Show Up On West Coast

By KENT STURGIS

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — It's beer instead of cocktails at night clubs, businessmen go out to lunch more often but stay home at night and apartment "for rent" signs are as thick as evergreen trees.

These are the symptoms of recession in Seattle and surrounding King County, home for about 1.1 million persons, where the Boeing Co. is king.

Pinch Felt By All

Airplanes are to Seattle what gambling is to Las Vegas. When Boeing business is down, everybody feels the pinch.

The restaurant and night club business is typical.

"People are tipping less and instead of drinking cocktails, they're ordering beer," complains a downtown bartender. "And instead of two or three, they'll have one and out the door they go."

Luncheon business has jumped in the city's restaurants, according to Stephanie Slater of the State Restaurant Association. At the same time, she said, there's been a decline in evening trade.

Spending Reduced

"Businessmen evidently are still going out to lunch with clients and business associates, maybe on expense accounts, but not spending money at home to take the wife and kids out," she said.

The Boeing Co., which delivered 56 jets in the first quarter of 1970 compared with 96 during the same period last year, has laid off about 20,000 workers since Jan. 1. During all of last year Boeing laid off 14,400. The firm's payroll now stands at 60,700.

Work Force High

There are about 2½ times more people out of work here now than at this time in 1969. The State Department of Employment Security put the April unemployment figure at 50,700 for the Greater Seattle area.

The employment drop has apartment owners and operators in a tizzy.

It's a renters' market. Inducements to attract tenants include free use of color television and stereos, a month's free front for lease-signers and some lowering of rents.

Apartments Vacant

A recent survey in the Seattle-King County area showed one out of every six apartments vacant. The figure was estimated to be 25,000, a 15-month high.

Boeing executives are pinning their hopes for an upswing on a bill now pending in Congress which would provide $290 million for construction of a supersonic transport prototype.

Boeing's net earnings for the first three months of 1970 were $6.8 million, down from the $14.02 million the first quarter of 1969.

Ford Says No To 'Air Bags'

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co has given a flat "no" to a federal government proposal that 1973 cars be equipped with an air bag system to protect occupants in event of a crash.

Ford's unqualified rejection was the strongest voiced yet in the auto industry.

General Motors earlier had called the plan "technically feasible" but said there was no way of meeting the 1973 timetable.

Stuart M. Frey, chief body engineer of Ford, said Monday, "Ford is as anxious as anyone to halt the death toll on the highways, but even if we did have a developed air bag system, which we do not have now, we could not meet the proposed effective dates for installations in cars."

Ford's statement was issued in advance of a June 24 conference in Washington at which government and industry will exchange views on the air bag system.

Ford gave 50 magazine writers a first hand look at the system Monday.

A film clip showed a test car equipped with air bags colliding head-on with another car at 30 miles an hour.

The bag failed to inflate fast enough to keep a boy-sized dummy in the right front passenger seat from crashing into the car windshield.

"If that had been a real boy and a real collision, that boy would have been killed," said Frey.

A second test involved touching off an air bag system as newsmen gathered around the car. The noise, louder than that of a shotgun, was followed by inflation of the nine-foot balloon-like bag in a fraction of a second.

The force of the expansion of the bag, which was attached to the underside of the instrument panel, pulled the panel out of shape and the bag was shredded.

"You have to remember that the test you saw involved only an air bag system protecting one of the car occupants," said Frey.

"The federal government's proposal would have a separate air bag system for each occupant and thus when the system was touched off, the force released could damage the car interior considerably."

Frey said Ford had had active study programs under way in the air bag field since 1957 but is convinced it has not found all the answers yet.

He declared: "What must be avoided at all costs, then, is letting enthusiasm cause premature installations of relatively unproved and inadequately developed air bag systems in future cars

"Any system as potentially dangerous as the air bag if it fires inadvertently must have a system reliability better than a space craft."

2,000 Vietnamese Refugees Leaving Cambodia Area

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Two thousand more Vietnamese refugees left the Cambodian capital by boat today for South Vietnam, ending a two-week suspension in the mass movement of Cambodia's Vietnamese population.

Pham Huy Ty, the South Vietnamese ambassador to Cambodia, said that 80,000 of the half million Vietnamese who lived in Cambodia at the outbreak of the war have crossed the border by boat, by refugee plane or on foot.

South Vietnam halted the refugee migration two weeks ago when reception centers became too crowded.

The ambassador said in an interview that contrary to popular opinion, the Vietnamese were not being repatriated. Most of them, he said, were fleeing insecure areas in Cambodia and would return to their old villages when the military situation became more stabilized.

CCI Named In U.S. Court Suit

CHICAGO (AP)—Two Detroit Steep Corp. shareholders have filed suit in U.S. District Court seeking an injunction to prevent Cleveland-Cliffs Iron Co. from pproceeding with its tender offer for Detroit Steel shares.

The suit, filed Monday by Jacob Yaffe and Esther Barliant, both of Chicago, contended Cleveland-Cliffs' offer would defraud Detroit Steel shareholders who do not also own stock in Cyclops Corp.

The suit also charged that a related agreement between Cleveland-Cliffs and Cyclops violates Securities and Exchange Commission regulations. Under that agreement, Cyclops would obtain steel facilities and operating assets and liabilities of Detroit Steel with Cleveland-Cliffs gaining control of Detroit Steel's shares in Cleveland-Cliffs, the suit alleged.

Named as defendants in the suit are Detroit Steel, Cleveland-Cliffs, Cyclops and Lehman Brothers, dealer manager for the tender offer. The suit was filed on behalf of all Detroit Steel shareholders.

The suit charged that the $16.50 per share offered by Cleveland - Cliffs for Detroit Steel is about $12 below the current book value of the stock including securities at market value.

The plaintiffs said Cyclops would make a $52.3 million profit at the expense of Detroit Steel shareholders.

Fishermen Find Sturgeon Costly

CHEBOYGAN (AP)—A bit of sturgeon fishing cost two Michigan men a total of $890.

Cheboygan's District Court Magistrate, Henry Morse, fined each man $125, as well as $5 per pound for the fish which conservation officers said were found in their possession out of season. The three big sturgeon weighed a total of 128 pounds.

Conservation officers said they found the sturgeon in a boat with Allen Williams, Cheboygan County dog warden, and Bob Woiderski, considered one of the nation's most successful sturgeon fishermen and national champion in 1967. Officers said the fish had been speared, which is illegal except in February through the ice. There was no spear in the boat, however, and the two said they had found the fish. They were charged with possession of sturgeon out of season.

Seeing Planted Tree Grow 'Great Victory'

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Everyone should plant a tree when young and periodically revisit and check its growth as long as he lives. There are few better ways to get a feeling of the continuity of life, to lie in its shade after it matures gives one a mystic, almost godlike feeling of victory over fate.

The patient doctors hate most to deal with is the one who says, "The only symptom I've got, doc, is that I keep seeing spots before my eyes." Such cases are among the hardest to diagnose.

Whatever happened to the fine old game of leapfrog? You hardly ever see children play it anymore although, of course, it is still quite popular at the executive level.

One of the unexpected byproducts of inflation is that it has been of some help in bridging the generation gap. The rising price of haircuts has led many dollar-pinched parents to go along with the desire of their sons to let their locks grow long.

The major mystery of our civilization is why it is so easy to wrap something in plastic and so difficult later to unwrap it.

A hard face of life that every college student has to learn sooner or later is that no way has been found yet to earn a pension on a picket line.

You begin to grow up in this world the day you realize that every cause has its flaws.

It is usually safe to lend money—up to $50—to a man with a pug nose.

Hillsdale Police Shake 'Blue Flu'

HILLSDALE (AP) — Hillsdale's eight policemen were scheduled to return to work today after city officials agreed to bargain with them as a collective unit.

City officials signed a letter Tuesday releasing the policemen from Local 214 of the Teamsters Union, which now represents city employes in the refuse, street, power and sewage treatment divisions. The letter also released firemen and employes working on the Hillsdale Board of Public Works Warehouse.

There was to be no reprimand from the city because the policemen called in sick Tuesday with the "blue flu."

The agreement to recognize the Police Association as the collective bargaining agent is subject to approval by the City Council June 8.

Concert Scheduled In Trenary Sunday

TRENARY — The Munising Vanguard Singers and the Negaunee Male Chorus will present a joint concert this Sunday, June 7, at 8 p.m. at the Trenary High School gymnasium. The concert is sponsored by the Alger County Historical Society.

Appearing with the 19-member Negaunee group, under the direction of Maurice DeBroux, will be the Trenary United Methodist Choir, directed by Mrs. Phyllis Bucholz; the Trenary Boys' Chorus, directed by Mrs. Lucille Richmond; a duet by Mrs. Phyllis Bucholtz and Rev. Norman Kohns and Mrs. Janet VanLandschoot, soloist.

The program will include "Known Only To Him," "In the Evening by the Moonlight" and "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain" by the Vanguards and the Negaunee Male Chorus; "Never Alone" by the United Methodist Choir; a piano solo by Patrick LaCombe; "The Marine Hymn," "The Caissons Go Rolling Along," "Anchors Away" and "When Johnny Comes Marching Home" by the Trenary Boys Chorus, accompanied by Miss Linda Laurich; Mrs. VanLandschot singing the "Kiss Waltz" and a special mystery guest.

Following a brief intermission, Mrs. Phyllis Bucholtz and Rev. Norman Kohns will sing "God Hath Not Promised," with Mrs. Mildred Hager as accompanist. The program will continue with the Vanguards and the Negaunee Chorus singing separate and combined numbers and a massed chorus of all groups partaking in the concert will conclude the program.

Accompanist for the Vanguard Singers is Alice Mary Scholtes, Mrs. Maurice DeBroux accompanies the Negaunee Male Chorus and Mrs. Mildred Hager is the accompanist for the United Methodist Choir.

Tickets are available from Mrs. Doris Rodgers in Trenary and in Munising from Verna Gatiss, Brynhild Mitchell and Isabella Sullivan.

TRAPPED RUSTLER

WOODLAND PARK, Colo. (AP)—Tom Kelly of Woodland Park bought a large hand-forged trap that a longtime resident of this mountain community told him was made in 1894 to catch a grizzly called "Old Mose." But the first thing the trap trapped was a cattle rustler.

Rock

Bud Lusardi and Mrs. Millie Martin and daughter, Sue, of Chicago, spent the weekend visiting Mrs. Betty Sharkey and George Lusardi. When they returned to Chicago, Pam Sharkey accompanied them to Chicago, where she will work for the summer.

Mrs. Eleanore Thorsen spent the past week at her cabin in West Rock. When she returned to Chicago Monday, she was accompanied to Green Bay by Mrs. Art Hill of Marquette, who will visit with the Harry Culver family in Green Bay. Mrs. Culver is the former Sandra Hill.

Linda Tyynela has left for Northbrook, Ill., where she will spend the sumer with the Robert Ketelson family.

Mrs. Ida Tyynela, who spent the last two months with her son and family, the Les Tyynela's, left with Mrs. Jens Ketelson to reside with her daughter and son-in-law in Westside, Iowa. The Ketelsons moved to Iowa last year.

Other Rock girls who are out of town working for the summer are, Susan and Diane Westlund, Northbrook, Ill., and Francine Trombly, Barbara Ahlgren, Joanne Niemela, Elaine Bakka, Susan Laitinen, Tina Mankiewicz, Carolyn and Anette Kulack, Lake Forest, Ill. Priscilla Waak and Jean Kivela will leave for Lake Forest next week.

Fletcher Girls Will Preform In Recital

A violin and voice recital will be given on Saturday, June 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Choir Room of the Escanaba Area High School. This program will be given by Misses Kristine and Susan Fletcher, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fletcher of Soo Hill.

Kristine Fletcher, violinist, is a 1963 graduate of Escanaba Area High School where she was active in the orchestral activities of the school and the community. She studied violin with Mrs. Arol Beck of Escanaba and was a member of the Escanaba Symphonette.

Graduate Assistant

Miss Fletcher graduated from Northern Michigan University in 1967 and taught elementary and secondary string music in the Oshkosh, Wis. Public Schools for two years. She is presently a graduate assistant in music at Ball State University, Munice, Ind. and will receive a masters' degree from that institution in July of this year.

Assisting Miss Fetcher will be Ruth Leaf, violinist, of Lindsborg, Kansas, who is also a graduate assistant at Ball State and the concertmaster of their orchestras, and Yolanda Paganelli, pianist, and a graduate student from Argentina, South America.

Perform In Spain

Both Miss Fletcher and Miss Leaf study with Eugen Prokop, international artists from Czechoslovakia and play in the Festival String Ensemble, which is also under Mr. Prokop's direction. This ensemble will be studying and performing at the International Summer Academy at Paima de Mallorca, Spain, this summer.

Susan Fletcher is a 1969 graduate of Escanaba Area High School and is presently completing her freshman year in music at Kalamazoo College, Kalamazoo.

Solo Work

She was active throughout her high school years in the choral and orchestra departments and took part in the Concert Choir, Madrigal Singers, orchestra, and string quartet. She had lead roles in the productions of, 'Sound of Music," "Carousel," and, "Brigadon," and has done extensive solo work in the community.

Miss Fletcher studied voice with Mrs. M. H. Garrard Jr., and piano with Mrs. John R. Chown during her high school years. She will be assisted in this recital by Mrs. Chown on the piano.

Public Invited

Works by Tartini, Beethoven, Debussy, Hurnik, Zach, Purcell, Puccini, Villa - Lobos, and Barber will be performed and the public is invited to attend this free recital.

Calvary Vacation Church School Begins Wednesday

RAPID RIVER — Vacation Church School begins at Calvary Lutheran Church, Rapid River, on Thursday, June 4, at 9 a. m., and will continue until 12:30 p. m., each week day through Wednesday, June 10. All children, four years old through the eighth grade, are encouraged to attend.

The theme of the school is "My Country Under God," and lessons, projects, music and worship will center around this theme.

Teachers include: Mrs. Harold Gustafson and Mrs. Roger Brannstrom, nursery; Mrs. Hjalmer Nelson, kindergarten; Mrs. Robert Dutton and Marilyn Case, first grade; Mrs. George Olson, second grade; Mrs. Henry Vietzke, third grade; Mrs. Richard Dye, fourth grade; Mrs. Henry Lundberg and Mrs. George Swanson, fifth grade; Mrs. Oswald Hansen, sixth grade; Bruce Pederson, seventh grade and Pastor George Olson, eighth grade. Mrs. Rodger Pearson and Debbie Kaukola will serve as assistants.

The children are to wear school clothes. They will sing at the worship service on Sunday, June 7.

Mrs. Dow D. Dawson (Gordon Nelson Studio)

Margaret G. Royer, Dow Dawson Are Wed

Margaret Gloria Royer of Gladstone and Dow Douglas Dawson of Chatam, exchanged wedding vows during a double ring ceremony performed at 10 a.m. Saturday, May 30 at All Saints Church in Gladstone.

Officiating at the nuptials was Msgr. Matt LaViolette. The bride is the daughter of Wilfred Royer, 524 Wisconsin Ave., Gladstone and Pearle Royer of Green Bay. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dawson of Chatam.

Chiffon, Taffeta

Matron of honor for her sister was Mrs. Jack (Beth) Curran of Green Bay and serving as best man was Stan Bizeau of Gladstone. Seating the guests were Jim Cole and Jerry Miller, both of Gladstone.

The bride chose for her wedding a floor length gown of white chiffon over taffeta fashioned with a full sheer sleeves and a chapel length train which attached at the shoulders.

Velvet Bolero

The honor matron was attired in a floor length white crepe gown with a rolled collar and long full sleeves and styled with a deep blue velvet bolero. A white crepe bow headpiece completed her attire and she carried a mum bouquet.

Cory Curran of Green Bay, neice of the bride, was the flower girl and was attired in a floor length white crepe gown also with a deep blue velvet bolero. She carried a basket filled with red and white flowers.

Mothers' Attire

The mother of the bride was attired in a pink dress with matching accessories and she was presented a corsage of ivory orchids. Mrs. Dawson chose a turquoise sheath dress with a lace coat and matching accessories and she pinned a pink and white floral corsage.

Reception

The wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's father following the ceremony. The newlyweds will reside at 1625 Wisconsin Ave., Gladstone.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Gladstone High School and she is employed by Eaton, Yale and Towne of Gladstone. Mr. Dawson is a 1965 graduate of Romeo High School and he served with the U.S. Navy from 1965-1968. He is presently employed by Eaton, Yale and Towne.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE

Dear Heloise:

Your readers should know about retro-reflective materials and devices. They have the unique ability of receiving a beam of light (as may come from automobile headlights) and returning it to the light source with amazing brilliance.

Reflective materials may now be incorporated on clothing, personal accessories such as purses, umbrellas, etc., carried on the person in the form of "dangletaps," or attached to bicycles and motorcycles. This is the same type of material now used in highway signs which appear to "light up" in approaching headlights. Automobiles and trucks also use these materials as nighttime warning devices.

During the past seven years in the United States, pedestrian fatalities have increased about 15 per cent with over 50 per cent of these occurring at night!

Each year, over 9,000 pedestrians are killed by motor vehicles and 500,000 injured!

The effectiveness of using retro-reflection materials and devices has been demonstrated in certain European countries where nighttime pedestrian deaths have been reduced as much as 26 per cent.

We hope your readers will purchase retro-reflective materials and devices which are appearing on the market in an increasing variety of forms and application.

Dear Heloise:

Did you know that coffee cans are perfect for freezing soups and sauces?

I always make two large pots of soup at one time. Then I pour the soup in cans lined with a plastic bread bag or piece of plastic, leaving about two inches overhang at the top. Place on lid and freeze.

Then when we feel like having soup, just defrost and heat. It's just as fresh as the day I made it and sure saves time.

Dear Heloise:

For the best results when shining your hardwood floors, try waxing them on a warm, sunshiny day.

I find that it's much better than doing it when it's damp or cold, as the wax job seems to last much longer.

Betty Salyer

One of your readers asked about storing plastic bags. Here is my method:

Out of leftover table oilcloth I made a case similar to a shoe bag . . . consisting of three large pockets.

This case hangs on the inside of the door to the back stairway. In one pocket I keep medium and small bowl covers, large ones in the second pocket and bags in the third.

Letter Of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

This morning I came downstairs early, plugged in the coffee and went back to dress for work.

When ready to pour, I discovered I had plugged in the pot with no water. Now really, can a gal get that bad off?

The world's best - tasting cookie is easier than pie to make . . .

Buy some bags of butterscotch bits and melt them over a low flame. Toss in some crushed walnuts. Mix in some ordinary Chinese noodles (half of a large can to two bags of candy) and spoon onto a greased cookie sheet.

Refrigerate to harden.

House OK's Measure To Invest Tax Funds In Paper Market

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House approved two bills Tuesday that would allow state and local officials to invest public tax reserves in the potentially sensitive prime commercial paper market.

Sponsored by Rep. Thomas J. Anderson, D-Southgate, the bills sent to the Senate on 85-23 and 77-27 votes, would authorize state treasury officials, county commission boards and local authorities to make short-term loans to private corporations.

Notes coming due within 270 days have been returning interest in recent weeks at rates of 8⅛ to 8⅝ per cent. Both extremes of the market are higher than the prime lending rate, now at 8 per cent.

In other action, majority Democrats faced a lengthy voting test of strength by Republicans before postponing action until later today on a once-defeated $352.9 million welfare appropriation for the coming year.

Republicans, aiming to cut the measure back toward the $333.2 million recommended by Gov. William G. Milliken, sought to avoid the delay, arguing that to postpone final vote would result in further increases.

Party leaders were to meet erly today with Glenn S. Allen Jr., Milliken's budget director, to discuss a compromise settlement on massive welfare supports that will mean a certain increase of $45 million over this year's tax expenditures.

In a bizarre, yes-no-maybe sequence of voting Tuesday, the House sent to the Senate a bill that would open unemployment compensation to nonteaching public school employes such as cooks, janitors and bus drivers.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, passed on a 59-43 vote after Republican opponents rallied a 56-41 tally to reconsider a previous 60-36 approving vote.

The thrust of GOP opposition to the bill was that it contained inestimable cost implications for local school boards and state compensation funds while also opening the door to eventual lay-off checks for teachers on summer vacations.

The Anderson bills proposing to open the commercial paper market to public investors, drew relatively little criticism in floor debate.

Recently there was controversy in Ohio over improprieties linked to top state officials. And a bit there revealed the Ohio treasury department had exceeded a $50 million ceiling on primer commercial paper loans by $12 million.

Loans also had been made for periods of more than two years despite a state law that only paper rated "prime" by the National Credit Office (NCO), a Dun & Bradstreet subsidiary, would be eligible.

The NCA defines prime paper as coming due within 270 days.

While the bills sent to the Michigan Senate Tuesday make no reference to maximum amounts or credit rating, Anderson said all purchases would be subject to NCO standards.

Other supporters contended the new lending latitude would be "in the public interest because of the higher interest rates it would make available."

Critics, however, contended, the bill left too much unsaid about acceptable credit standards.

Losses In Truckers' Strike Mounting

CHICAGO (AP) — Business losses in a Chicago trucking strike almost two months old may be nearing the $1-billion mark and laid-off workers are losing millions a day in wages.

But household necessities such as milk, eggs and bread are still available. Says Ted Anastos, an attorney for the trucking industry:

"If food wouldn't be delivered because of a truck strike we'd have the women burning the town down."

About 15,000 trucks belonging to smaller firms continue to deliver the daily essentials of life.

But 35,000 huge tractor trailer rigs and other trucks belonging to the city's leading carriers were idle.

So far, the wholesalers, businesses with marginal inventories and small manufacturers have taken the brunt of the economic loss which the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry estimates at $900 million since April 9.

The combined strike and lockout involving Teamsters Union Locals 705 and 710 and the independent Chicago Truck Drivers Union began April 9 when the drivers pushed for a $1.65 an hour wage increase over their present $4.10 an hour.

A spokesman for the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry said the stoppage may harm Chicago's reputation as a center for truck traffic and as a national supplier of commodities.

"When this is over we're going to have a selling job on our hands," he said. "If the strike continues much longer some businesses will set up new paths of supply and transportation which will circumvent Chicago."

President Nixon ordered Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz to enter the dispute last Thursday in an effort to bring the unions and industry to the bargaining table.

Shultz dispatched his chief mediator to the city and said the dispute "is a matter of serious concern to the administration."

The Association of Commerce and Industry says there have been 170,000 layoffs in a wide range of businesses and industries, a $7 million a day payroll loss and more than 65,500 persons who have claimed unemployment benefits because of the dispute.

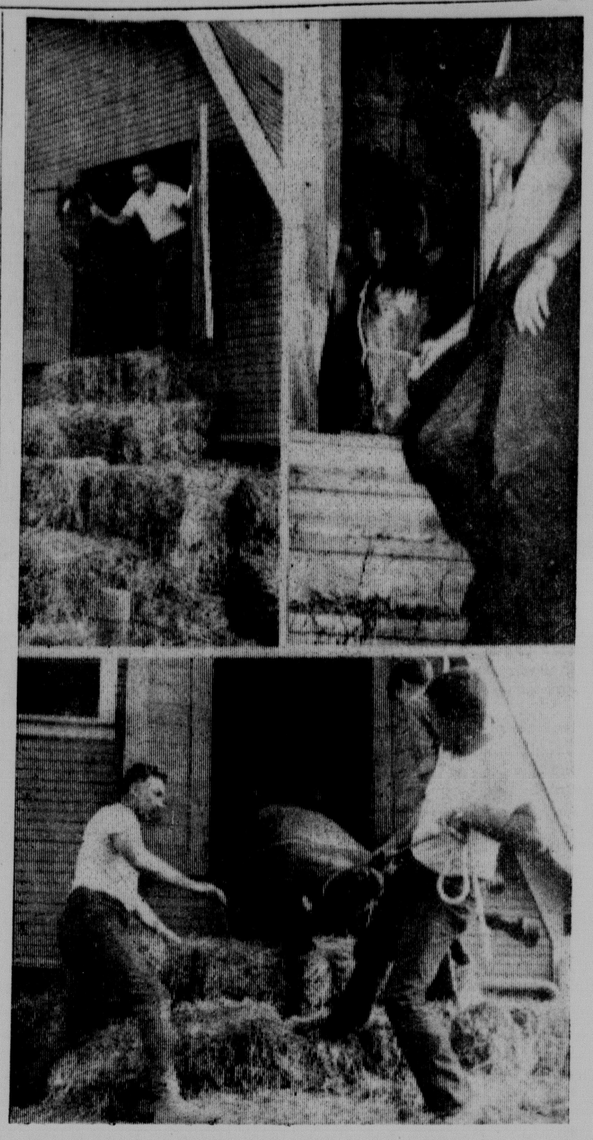
A Teamsters spokesman claimed that many of the economic loss figures were inflated, although he acknowledged that the dispute was costing Chicago a great deal of money.

"These announcements of economic losses are just more pressure tactics," the spokesman said.

"Of course, people are getting hurt In every labor dispute some people get hurt, but the drivers are suffering too. Still, they're determined to get an acceptable contract."

Many of the drivers, who get only a nominal strike benefit check each week, have begun working as taxi drivers and drivers for firms which have signed with the unions.

Industry sources said others had hired out independently to merchants.



PAUL GALLATY, upper left, attempts to persuade Sonny, a four-year-old gelding, to walk out of makeshift hay pile from the upstairs of a barn after a week's confinement on a farm near Pontiac. In upper right, Gallaty makes a vain attempt to make the horse back down twenty stairs it climbed to get to the loft. In lower photo, the horse is being dragged out of loft over a two-stary slanting hay pile after being given a sedative. The horse was unharmed. (AP Wirephoto)

Nixon's Inflation Policy Fares Badly: Businessmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three of four businessmen in a new poll say the government's anti-inflation efforts have flopped, echoing the persistent sentiment of organized labor and a group of congressional Democrats.

Of the 712 businessmen answering a poll by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce magazine Nation's Business, 540 said President Nixon's efforts were going badly or there was no improvement in inflation.

"We have the worst inflation in 20 years," AFL-CIO economist Nathan Goldfinger said Tuesday. "I would not rule out a depression, but the current situation certainly is one of economic recession, and the economic recession is getting worse."

In other developments Tuesday the stock market's four-day rally stalled after a gain of nearly 80 points, and House Democrats introduced a bill to give the President power to impose the wage-price controls he opposes.

The Nation's Business survey will be published in the magazine's July edition. Every three months the magazine polls one of two alternating groups of 1,500 businessmen. About half respond each time.

This time 712 responded, with 540 seeing no improvement or worse and 172 seeing at least slight improvement. Six months ago, when the same 1,500 were polled, 762 responded. Of them only 344 saw no improvement or were dissatisfied, and 417 saw at least some improvement.

Labor's Goldfinger, after noting the sharpest rise in living costs in two decades, went on to say, "We have the sharpest increase in unemployment in 10 years. We have sky-high interest rates—higher than at any time in the past 100 years or more."

He spoke on the AFL-CIO-sponsored Labor News Conference program on the Mutual Broadcasting System.

He repeated the AFL-CIO's offer to support controls if Nixon finds them necessary and if they apply equally to prices, profits, dividends, rents and corporate salaries as well as wages.

Meanwhile 12 Democrats—all members of the House Banking Committee—introduced a bill that would give Nixon standby powers to impose such controls. Hearings were set for June 16.

The Banking Committee's senior Republican, Rep. William B. Widnall of New Jersey, already has called the bill a political ploy. The administration has opposed controls as unworkable.

Goldfinger urged Nixon to use the less drastic selective credit controls Congress authorized four months ago. He said they would pump more money into such slumping areas as construction and would restrict money for big-business speculation.

On the New York Stock Exchange Tuesday the Dow-Jones average of 30 industrials closed down three-quarters of a point after a four-day upsurge that had seen a gain of nearly 20 points.

GI Reduction Means Allied Slack Takeup

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird today said U.S. allies must take up the slack as the United States reduces its armed forces by a million men.

He also said the United States must help out with more military supplies.

"As this reduction in American manpower capability takes place, it must be offset by a growing capability on the part of our allies," Laird said in a speech prepared for Air Force Academy graduation exercises.

The remarks come two days before Laird leaves for meetings with high-level NATO officials in Venice and Brussels.

The Pentagon chief, who has indicated such long-range intentions in the past, did not say how much time will pass before U.S. armed forces drop to 2.5 million from a Vietnam war peak of 3.5 million.

The Nixon administration already has trimmed U.S. armed strength by about 400,000 men as the United States gradually withdraws from Vietnam. Under its defense budget for the fiscal year starting next month, the total will drop another 200,000 to a level of 2.9 million.

With budget pressures steadily mounting, the troop reduction may be accelerated.

Agnew Fires Point Blank At 'Misfits'

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew spoke out again today against what he called "criminal misfits" and "charlatans of peace and freedom."

In a speech at the 171st commencement of the U.S. Military Academy, Agnew said much of the nation's present discontent is "contrived confusion brought about by a clever, sustained assault on America's system and institutions."

"This is a time when some glamorize criminal misfits of society while our best men die in Asian rice paddies to preserve the freedoms those misfits abuse," Agnew told the 749 graduating cadets and 15,000 guests in Michie Stadium.

"This is a time when the charlatans of peace and freedom eulogize foreign dictators while desecrating the flag that keeps them free."

Looking directly at the graduating cadets in their formal, gray and white dress uniforms, the vice president said:

"You are going out into an army today that has borne the brunt of a lonely and difficult war, far from home, and in the face of open and hostile lack of support from a minority of our citizenry."

The enthusiastic crowd of relatives and friends of the cadets stood and cheered as the graduating class entered the stadium and again when the vice president came in.

Milliken Signs Bill Aimed At Dissenters

LANSING (AP) — Saying that the new law will give campus authorities more "legal muscle" in dealing with disrupters, Gov. William Milliken announced Tuesday the signing of a bill authorizing fines and jail terms for persons who refuse orders to leave campuses.

"I think it is a fair and objective bill," Milliken said at an afternoon news conference. Persons who refuse to leave at the order of university officials or who come on campus with the intent to disrupt would face fines or jail terms or both.

In addition to that bill, Milliken also signed Tuesday a measure increasing the bonding limit of the State Housind Development Authority by $250 million. It is designed to improve housing conditions for Michigan residents who do not now have decent quarters.

Milliken said there will be a meeting in his office Wednesday morning to discuss Michigan Blue Shield procedures. The Executive Office has posed a number of questions for Blue Shield response.

On another matter, the governor said he would announce next Tuesday or Wednesday morning whether he will seek election to a first full term as governor.

Milliken's weekly news conference originally had been scheduled for Wednesday, but the governor revised his schedule so he could testify Wednesday morning in Detroit at a state-federal conference on pollution of Lake Erie.

Mrs. J. Kleiman Taken By Death

MENOMINEE — Mrs. John E. Kleiman, 68, of Wilson, died at 3:30 a. m., today at the Bellin Memorial Hospital in Green Bay.

The former Elizabeth Ruttner was born June 17, 1901, in Kewaunee, Wis., and was married on Nov. 15, 1921, in Spalding.

She was a member of the St. Francis Xavier Church of Spalding and the St. Anne's Society. She was also a member of the Bohemian Lodge of Carney.

She is survived by her husband, two daughters, Mrs. Daniel Hanson of Milwaukee and Mrs. John Chernick of Escanaba; two sons, Joseph of Brookfield, Wis., and John Jr., of Wilson; 11 grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Leslie Johnson of Iron Mountain, Mrs. Oliver Sindorff of Milwaukee and Mrs. Theodore Kleiman Sr., of Bark River; two brothers, William and Otto, both of Carney.

Friends and relatives may call at the Kell-Tondin Chapel in Spalding on Thursday from 4 to 9 p. m., and the parish rosary will be recited at 8 p. m. Funeral services will be conducted at 9:30 a. m., Friday at the St. Francis Xavier Church in Spalding with the Rev. Lester Bourgois officiating. Burial will be in the Spalding Township Cemetery.

Soviet Spacemen Maneuver Craft Into New Orbit

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union's two orbiting space men made a second course correction during their second night aloft and completed 22 orbits before settling down to sleep this morning, Tass reported today.

The Soviet news agency's progress report on the flight of Soyuz 9, which was launched Monday night, said cosmonauts Andrian Nikolayev and Vitaly Sevastyanov "feel well and retain fully their capacity for work."

In the 17th orbit, it reported, they oriented the spaceship manually and "an orbit correction maneuver was carried out." It said the orbit now ranged between 153.5 and 165.3 miles from the earth. Previously the distances had been 132 to 166 miles.

The angle of the orbit to the Equator remained the same, 51.7 degrees, and the time of each orbit was also unchanged at 89.5 minutes.

Mild Market Dip Leaves Advances Largely Intact

By noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was off 1.50 at 708.11. The average had been down 2.81 points at 11:30 a.m.

Winning issues on the New York Stock Exchange clung to a narrow lead over losers. Gainers had held a 3 to 2 edge over decliners early in the session.

Analysts attributed the modest price erosion today to profit-taking which they said was normal in view of the rally of monumental proportions that began a week ago. The upsurge sent the Dow average skyrocketing nearly 80 points over four session.

Trading was only moderate in the morning session. Analysts said they drew encouragement from the fact that many investors appeared to be sitting out the selling phase in hopes that the recent strong rally had not yet run its course.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was off .5 at 245.2. Industrials were off .9, rails off .2, and utilities up .1.

Vietnam Veteran Killed In Crash

CADILLAC (AP)—A soldier on leave from Viet Nam died Tuesday night when the new car he had just purchased crashed on M15 in Osceola County.

State Police said, 20-year-old Gary Lee Spitler of Cadillac died when his car slammed into guard rails and mail boxes along the highway and rolled over.

Police said Spitler bought the car Tuesday and it had only been driven 57 miles when the crash occurred.

Rocket Attack Kills 2, Wounds 7 Children

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab guerrillas in Jordan fired two waves of rockets into the frontier town of Beit Shean today, killing two schoolchildren and wounding at least seven others, the Israeli military command announced.

They were the third group of casualties among Israeli schoolchildren in two weeks. Another rocket attack on Beit Shean Monday killed a schoolgirl, and a guerrilla ambush of a schoolbus on the Lebanese border killed eight children and four adults on MMay 22.

In the first attack across the Jordan River today, one rocket crashed into a house, killing a 9-year-old girl, while others wounded three girls and a 38-year-old woman.

An hour and a half later, several more of the Soviet Katyusha rockets were fired at the town and at least one hit a school building, killing a boy and wounding four of his classmates, initial reports said.

The reports said the rocket set a classroom afire, and police and rescue workers were searching for more victims.

Israeli forces returned the fire, but there was no immediate word on the results.

Rockets also struck the settlement of Moaz Haim, two miles from Beit Shean, but no casualties were reported.

A bomb exploded in Jerusalem early today, a few hours before the start of the official celebration of the third anniversary of Israel's conquest of the Arab sector. There were no casualties in the blast.

Apollo Blast Cause Noted

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The head of an investigation board says excessive electrical power applied to a pair of thermostatic switches during a ground test caused the Apollo 13 flight disaster.

Edgar M. Cortwright, chairman of the Apollo 13 investigation panel, said the switches welded themselves closed two weeks before the April 11 launch.

Workmen had applied too much voltage to a circuit that powered a heater inside the service module oxygen tank, he said.

The tank exploded April 13 while Apollo 13 was more than halfway to the moon, causing cancellation of a planned lunar landing and endangering the lives of the astronauts.

Cortwright said the ground technicians applied 65 volts of electricity to the switches when normal procedures to drain the oxygen tank failed. The switches, he said, were designed to withstand only 30 volts.

Cortwright said the temperature in the heater could rise to 1,000 degrees with the switches welded closed. Tests showed, he said, that such heat could cause splitting of insulation on wires near the heater, leading to a spark that could ignite other insulation.

"This local furnace could burn through the tank," he said, allowing the oxygen to vent into the service module.

The oxygen could force off a panel covering the side of the module and damage another nearby oxygen tank, he said.

Cortwright said he was unable to explain why the explosion in space did not occur earlier.

Be Someone, Speaker Tells MHS Graduates

"We are living in an age that stresses the value of the person. The song "Everything is Beautiful" has the words "everyone is beautiful in their own way." And so they are. It's the beauty and good in you that makes you the beautiful person you can be today," Father Arnold Grambow, assistant pastor of St. Francis de Sales, told the MHS Class of 1970 at Sunday night's Baccalaureate program.

Fr. Grambow reminded the graduates of what others have done for them and that "you in turn, cannot help but do the same for them and for others. Just as you have been influenced by others, so you must influence others."

"Don't be satisfied just to prove something; be someone. Don't be satisfied just to react to what others say or do to you; be a person who acts. Be real and you will be someone. Look at others around you: what they have given you to make you what you are and what you can give to make them better people. This is your Christian vocation, no matter what you do in your entire lifetime. Be what you are in the best way you can," he concluded.

Sunday night's program opened with the "Pomp and Circumstance" processional by the MHS Band. Rev. Robert Haring, pastor of the Bethel Baptist Church, gave the invocation, Scripture reading and prayer and also the closing Benediction. Miss Arlene Gordanier, vocal music supervisor, sang "God Be in May Head" by Nicholson.

Governor Pushing For More Control

By DON HOENSHELL
Panax Staff Writer

LANSING — Gov. Milliken envisions a day when public policy will outlaw anything in the environment that is offensive to man or jeopardizes his health and safety.

There is solid evidence that the mood has been sharpening for stronger controls in the past decade.

"We are entering a whole new field," he said. "Our government is geared up and ready. the state and federal governments are cooperating smoothly.

"We are just now discovering the effect of mercury and DDT and heaven knows how many other substances."

Modern history in Michigan brought quick reactions by adminstrative officials to the discharge of phenol wastes into public waters in the 1960s, the killing of ducks and fish in other instances.

The Time Gap

Now the legislative and top executive of the state are moving into the picture.

Milliken first banned fishing on Lake St. Clair and the St. Clair River, then modified the phohibition to a catch-and-release policy on those waters and on the Detroit river.

Scientists, he said, found that fish taken from these waters were potentially dangerous to human beings because of the high level of mercury, caused by industrial wastes flowing into the water.

Canadian authorities have lifted entirely their own ban on fishing in those waters, a decision not immediately transmitted to Milliken. It shows that better coordination still must be worked out.

Another flaw was demonstrated by the 14-day gap between the mercury pollution off Ludington in Lake Michigan and the governor's first knowledge of it. There was another lag in reporting a cyanide spillage at Saginaw.

State Concern

Both incidents came before Milliken issued orders requiring a monitoring of all industrial wastes going into public waters.

But it dramatized that pollution regarded as a local problem years ago is now becoming a major state concern, that the situation is believed now to be critical on a higher level.

Milliken said that "hundreds and possibly thousands" of incidents will be brought into the state for action."

In the legislature, there is one major bill already passed by the House to allow anyone to sue in court to abate pollution. Two other bills seek to establish a State Department of Ecology, the 20th and final state agency under the 1963 contritution.

Other efforts are blooming to beef up the staffs and responsibilities of the Water Resources Commission and the Michigan Air Pollution Control Commission.

Escanaba Mill

These are the watchdog agencies now in the fields of air and water pollution and both have power to approve or reject the installations of large industrial installations.

It was only after months of hearings and investigations that the Air Pollution Control Commission was satisfied enough with air pollution control devices that it allowed Mead Corporation to start a $65 million pulp mill at Escanaba.

Other signs of Milliken's vision was the announcement that 24 gasoline stations in Detroit will start selling unleaded gasoline in June.

Milliken was told that Detroit area factories closed down their stacks the day he flew over on an air inspection of pollution conditions.

"I do not have knowledge of that, but if they did, it is reprehensible," he said.

'Free School' Has Interesting Agenda

BLOOMFIELD HILLS (AP)—A New kind of institution, divorced from education's traditional structure and based on a laugh and learn philosophy, seems to be flourishing in Detroit's northern suburbs.

It's called the Free School.

The brainchild of two 18-year-old girls, the Free School is tuition free and restriction free. Classes, taught by volunteers range from Appreciation of Nature to Shakespeare, Cruising on Woodward, Sex and Junkshop Tripping. The students may talk about Tolstoy one day, Tolkein the next. They meet when it's convenient.

The gals behind the Free School are Jane Rothstein and Dedra Buchwald both seniors at Andover High School in Bloomfield Hills. They see the school as a vehicle to "true meaning—the sharing of huhuman experience, continual self-discovery and joyful exploration of the unknown."

They say they are against a student being confined within four walls six hours a day, rules prohibiting gum - chewing and talking and mechanical memorization of information.

"Our present educational system ruins minds," Miss Rothstein said. "It stifles creativity."

Their alternative is the Free School.

They began organizing about two months ago, distributing 7,000 leaflets, and enlisting volunteer help to coordinate, offer ideas and teach.

"We soon realized," the girls explained, "that everyone has a gripe with the school system. We got a universal response—athletes, adults, children, academics, everyone called."

They found a place for the Free School to meet at three Birmingham churches and put out a catalogue for some 70 classes offered. The churches lending their facilities to the school are the Birmingham Unitarian Church, Congregational Church and United Church of Christ.

The numbers attending the range of classes vary from day to day. Some of the most popular sessions, like Sensitivity, Hoga and Revolution of Consciousness, attract 75-100 persons.

And the project has already caught the interest of Detroit area educators, among them Bloomfield Andover High School's Principal Richard J. Speiss. When the Free School's first session meanders to an end, the two organizers plan to present their educational theories and their program to the Bloomfield Hills Board of Education.

Of the 70 proposed classes, at least half have been successful. The corps of teachers includes some professionals working without pay. As classes devise their own programs, leaders and participants are often hard to tell apart.

"What is so great," the girls said, "is that all kinds of people of all different ideas and ages participate. Everyone just laughs and learns."

Candidate Again

LANSING (AP)—The dean of the Michigan Senate, Democratic Minority Leader George Fitzgerald of Grosse Pointe Park, has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Senate seat he has held since 1964. Fitzgerald, at 68, the oldest man in the upper chamber, was named minority leader when Sen. Sander Levin of Berkley stepped down from the leadership post earlier this year to seek the Democratic nomination for governor.

Education Is Primary Goal

LANSING — "Michigan community colleges do not intend to observe holidays from classes for extraneous purposes and demonstrations," said George E. Potter, of Jackson, newly-elected president of the Michigan Community College Association.

Potter and Dr. Richard Rinehart, of Bay de Noc Community College, who participated in the action, said association members feel that their "mission requires them to adhere to the established academic program," and to avoid encouraging "any other disruptions in their essential educational activities."

Quoting from a policy statement just adopted by Association members, they said:

"Our public community colleges have an obligation to provide the most effective possible educational programs to the people of Michigan. This obligation requires that these colleges offer the educational programs which are scheduled by them in an atmosphere that is most conducive to learning. Students who come to these colleges seeking academic and technical knowledge have every right to expect that the academic programs will be conducted as scheduled."

The statement said officials of Michigan community colleges individually may entertain "a variety of views regarding national and local issues. As responsible college administrators and trustees, they affirm the primacy of the educational programs of their institutions."

Teen Driver Made His First Mistake

JENISON (AP) — Gary Buis, 16, of Jenison, put his car in the garage Tuesday night. The only problem was that it wasn't his garage.

Deputies with the Ottawa County Sheriff's Department said Buis lost control of his car in this Western Michigan community, and it rammed through the garage and the family room at the Douglas Brower home, finally stopping in the kitchen.

There was no one home at the time. Damage was estimated at $6,000.

"SOFT CELL" — Beverly Acosta, injured severely and handicapped in an auto accident, cuddles the kitten sent to her in Garden City, Mich., by the 99 men who belong to the Jaycee chapter at Southern Michigan State Prison in Jackson. They figure she deserves "the full rights and privileges" of honorary membership. They also sent her toys, painted pictures of animals and clowns. The "hard cell" Jaycees went "soft cell" when they read about her in a newspaper.

Rain Continues To Splatter Areas

By The Associated Press

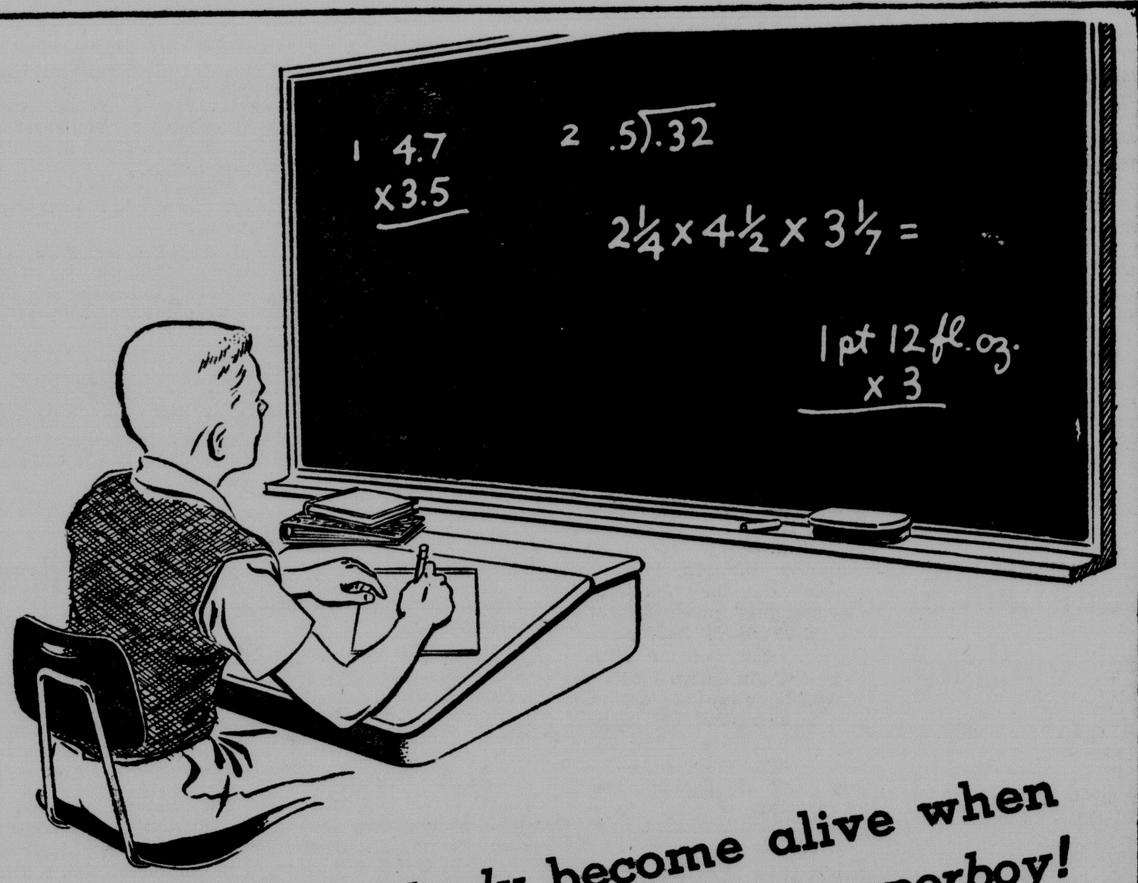
Showers and thunderstorms splattered more rain into the Central Plains, the Midwest and the Deep South today.

One - inch soakings were common from Kansas to Georgia and in an area ranging northward into Michigan and south to the central Gulf Coast.

Heavier downpours hit some communities. More than 2 inches fell at Mobile, Ala., late Tuesday. Nearly 1½ inches washed Findlay, Ohio, during the night.

Cool weather clung to a large part of the Midcontinent just north of the rain belt.

Summer-like heat persisted in the Pacific Northwest and showed signs of breaking through the Northern Rockies and into the Great Plains. Temperatures climbed into the 90's once more Tuesday in western Oregon and Washington. Portland had 96 and Seattle 94.



The 3 'R's suddenly become alive when a young man becomes a Newspaperboy!

Overnight all this school business about addition and subtraction, profit and loss and a host of other subjects take on an entirely new meaning—when Johnny is in business.

As a Newspaperboy he "learns by doing"—becomes a member of the largest group of young businessmen in America. And the classroom lessons become much more important to him when he learns by experience how essential they are to his success.

Thousands of young men are in colleges and technical schools today because when they were Newspaperboys they learned the importance of "higher" education—and then earned a significant part of the money required for it.

There is a lot more to newspaper route management than most boys and their parents realize.

If you would like to know more about it—make an appointment for yourself and your son to come in for a conference.

Timmer Awarded Gessner Trophy

Gene Timmer

Gene Timmer, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Robert Timmer, 2210 12th Ave. S., was named the 46th recipient of the Herman Gessner Trophy at commencement exercises held Tuesday evening at the Escanaba Area High School Gymnasium.

The trophy, which is the oldest and most coveted award, is awarded annually to a senior in recognition of his services to Escanaba High School as an athlete and student. The trophy memorializes the late Herman Gessner, Escanaba business leader and civic leader, who died in 1944.

To be eligible for the award, the student must rank in the upper half of his class scholastically and have won a minimum of three athletic letters. The school faculty, with recommendations of the coaches, selects the winner.

Timmer earned two varsity letters in football, basketball and track while in high school. He was named to the All-U.P. football team last fall and received a honorable mention on the All-U.P. Class A basketball team. Timer recently received a scholarship to attend Michigan Tech University.

Longest Baseball Game In Kentucky

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Vern Hunter of Madisonville High School slid into Lexington Lafayette catcher Don Winsett Tuesday, knocking the baseball from his mitt and ending the longest game in the history of the Kentucky High School Baseball Tournament.

The score was Madisonville 12, Lafayette 11 in 22 innings.

A total of 182 batters came to the plate, which the umpire swept 78 times. The previous longest tournament game was 17 innings between Shelby County and Owensboro in 1967.

Mud Hens Win

RICHMOND (AP)—Paul Pavelko's two-run double in the fifth inning proved the deciding factor in Toledo's victory Tuesday against Richmond in Virginia.

Rus Nagelson homered for the Mud Hens in the sixth and the Braves were blanked by former Detroit Tiger pitcher Tom Timmerman for eight innings before the Virginia team scored twice in the ninth inning on four hits.

Toledo remains in sixth spot in the International League, 7½ games off the first place Tidewater nine.

Toledo is scheduled to play another today in Richmond.

Independents Nip River Post

The Escanaba Independents rally in the last three innings Tuesday night to nip River Post 7 to 4 in Slow Pitch action.

River Post jumped off to a early 3-0 lead before the Independants scored 4 runs in the second and added singles runs in the remaining innings behind the home run power of Bill Hyde and Dale Flynn to notch the victory.

Dr. Don Alimenti picked up the verdict while Walter Anderson took the defeat. Hyde had 4 for 4 for the Independents, while Norm Panganis and Jim Sargent paced the River Post with a triple and double respectively.

THE SEARCH IS ON — This isn't football practice but it is a game in itself, as students at Michigan Tech University in Houghton search for a silver dollar in a mud puddle during Greek Weekend Activities at the school. No one asked the basic question of why anyone would want to search for a silver dollar in a mud puddle, but the challenge was there and students had fun. Both fraternity and sorority members tackled the task with enthusiasm. (AP Wirephoto)

Tigers Do It Again, Lose In 10 Innings

ANAHEIM (AP) — There was levity in the California Angels' dressing room but Manager Lefty Phillips paused amid the laughter and offered a word of sympathy for a hard-luck left-hander.

Rudy May was again a man left out in the Cold Tuesday night as his California teammates rallied to nip the Detroit Tigers 3-2 in 10 innings.

The same two clubs renew their rivalry tonight in what shapes up as a duel of strikeout artists as Mickey Lolich, 6-5, of the Tigers throws against Andy Messersmith, 5-4.

May's 3-3 record in 81 innings is deceptive. He has been the victim of non-support and untimely errors. An unearned run Tuesday prevented him from taming the Tigers in regulation time and Willie Horton took care of the rest.

Horton drove in both Tiger runs with a first-inning double and a sixth-inning single. But they still wound up one short in the 10th.

Jay Johnstone opened the inning with a triple off loser Joe Niekro, 4-5. After fanning Joe Azcue, he was ordered to intentionally walk pinch-hitter Tom Silverio and Sandy Alomar.

But Jim Fregosi followed with a sacrifice fly to give the Angels their third straight victory and pull them within one and one-half games of the Minnesota Twins in the American League West.

"Rudy pitched his customary game," Phillips said. "Good — but not good enough. He has more than his share of tough luck."

Phillips, in fact, let sympathy interfere with his managing in the seventh when he let May bat with the game deadlocked at 2-2.

"I wanted to get him a win in the worst possible way," Phillips explained. "I thought it would help his mental attitude and boost his ego."

There was only one out at the time and runners were stationed at first and third. But May hit into a strange double play.

He exploded a ball that Tiger second baseman Dick McAuliffe grabbed on a short hop and threw to third base to trap Johnstone off the bag. Don Wert's relay to second was in time to get a force on Joe Azcue.

"Azcue didn't run because he thought McAuliffe caught the ball," Phillips said.

May, however, was spared the defeat when Mel Queen, making his first appearance in a month, pulled him out of trouble in the eighth. After May had yielded singles to Niekro and Mickey Stanley, Queen came on to strike out Al Kaline and disposed of Horton on a line drive.

The victory went to Paul Doyle.

EMU-Michigan To Play Game

ANN ARBOR (AP)— Officials of the University of Michigan and Eastern Michigan University signed a contract today for a basketball game between the two schools on Dec. 10.

The game will be the first between the two since 1940.

It will be played at Ann Arbor.

Gladstone Will Host Best-Ball Golf Tourney

GLADSTONE — The first Upper Peninsula golf tournament of the year will be held this weekend, June 6-7, at the Gladstone Golf Club when golfers from all over the U. P., tee off in the fourth annual Best-Ball Tournament.

Augie Altese, president of the Gladstone Golf Club, expects about 72 teams to enter this year's event, a 20 team jump from the opening tourney in 1967.

Already entered for this year's tournament are defending champions Ken Hruska and Paul Specker of Marquette, who won the 36 hole best ball tourney with a 10 under par 130 last year. Jerry Martin and Jack Smith, from the Escanaba Highland Club, who won the title in 1968 and who were third last year with a 139, will also be back to try to unseat Hruska and Specker.

The event will begin on Saturday and golfers are reminded to qualify as early as possible for the championship flight, which will begin at 1:25 p. m., Sunday.

All entrants and guests are invited to the Saturday evening dinner at 6:30 and spectators are welcome for the entire event.

Howard Blasts No. 16; Senators Edge Chisox

By The Associated Press

Big Frank Howard, the Washington slugger who happens to lead the American League in home runs, claims that making contact is his biggest problem.

The same might be true of the entire American League when Sudden Sam McDowell is on the mound.

Tuesday night neither of these veteran All-Star performers had any difficulty.

Sparks Drive

Howard drilled his 16th homer of the season, a two-run shot that earned the Senators a 2-2 tie, and his bloop single triggered a two-run eighth-inning rally that brought Washington a 4-3 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

McDowell, the AL's strikeout king, had a no-hitter for seven innings and had to settle for a two-hitter in the opener of a doubleheader as the Cleveland Indians swept Milwaukee 4-1, 8-5.

In other AL contests, Boston whipped Minnesota 5-1, New York edged Kansas City 3-2, Baltimore stopped Oakland 5-1 and California nipped Detroit 3-2 in 10 innings.

Howard, who cracked 48 homers last year, says he doesn't think about the long ball.

"My biggest problem is making contact," said the huge 6-foot-7, 270-pound Howard. "I figure if I make contact, the long ball will take care of itself."

His blooper in the eighth however, was just as important as it moved Ed Stroud, who had opened the inning with a single —his fourth hit—to third. Mike Epstein then looped a single, scoring Stroud and Aurelio Rodriguez got the eventual winner across with a sacrifice fly as the White Sox got a run in the ninth.

"I'll take them any way I can," Howard said of his eighth-inning single. "I was fooled on the pitch and started to back away. It just popped out over the second baseman's head."

McDowell Tough

McDowell, who struck out eight Tuesday night, leads the league with 119 and upped his record to 8-3. His attempt at a no-hitter—McDowell owns seven one-hitters—was snapped when Danny Walton stroked a leadoff double in the eighth.

It was the stylish left-hander's seventh complete game—no other pitcher on the Indians' staff has one—and his second consecutive two-hitter. His earned run average dropped to 2.35.

"I'm not interested in a no-hitter," McDowell said afterward. "I'm more interested in winning. "It was a stupid pitch," he said of Walton's hit. "I threw him a mediocre, semi-pro fast ball down the middle.

"Some guy in the stands kept telling me every inning I was working on a no hitter. It didn't bother me. It became a joke and helped relax me."

Jack Heideman's two-run single and a solo homer by Graig Nettles helped ease the way for McDowell in the opener and the Indians crashed five roundtrippers in the nightcap.

Walton Homers

Nettles belted a pair and added a single for four runs batted in while Duke Sims also rapped out two and Ray Fosse drilled another. Walton had a solo homer for the Brewers.

Mike Andrews stroked four hits, driving in one run and igniting two rallies for the Red Sox while Billy Conigliaro rapped a solo homer to back the eight-hit hurling of right-hander Ray Culp over the Twins.

Curt Blefary drove in a pair of runs with a sacrifice fly and his first homer of the season as the Yankees held off a ninth-inning Royals's surge.

Fritz Peterson picked up his eighth victory against two losses, but needed last-out help from Lindy McDaniel after Kansas City scored two runs in the final inning.

Jim Palmer notched his seventh victory, scattering five hits and Merv Rettenmund drove in two runs with a double. The A's contributed three errors to the Baltimore victory.

Grand Jury Probes Sawchuk's Death

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — A grand jury probe was ordered Tuesday into the death of New York Rangers goaltender Terry Sawchuk, amid reports that a fight with teammate Ron Stewart—and not "horseplay"—led to the goalie's fatal injuries.

In either case, witnesses reportedly contended, the blow which led to Sawchuk's hospitalization was accidental. Nassau County Dist. Atty. William Cahn said an investigation "to clear the air" would begin Monday.

Sawchuk, who was hospitalized April 19 after scuffling with Stewart on the lawn of their shared, rented home, died Sunday from a blood clot after a series of operations.

Wrestling?

Sawchuk, himself, had told police "we were wrestling, just horsing around." But later testimony, including a statement from Rangers, coach Emile Francis, discounted that version, the New York Post reported Tuesday.

Francis, basing his information on conversations with Sawchuk before he died, reportedly told Long Beach police Monday night that the goalie had quarreled with Stewart in a bar hours before the incident.

The version was backed up by Ben Weiner, 44, a close friend of both Stewart and Sawchuk who said he had been to the bar with Sawchuk, the Post said.

Weiner told police that Sawchuk had just returned from Detroit after a futile attempt to reconcile with his wife and was "in a horrible state beside himself," the article said.

Wiener reportedly said he left the two hockey players alone, then returned minutes later to find them scuffling. He said both went outside, resumed the fight, then were separated by bystanders the Post reported.

Eyewitnesses

Weiner said he told police he decided to follow Sawchuk, and arriving at the home, saw the two men fighting on the front lawn near an overturned metal barbecue.

Weiner said he grabbed Sawchuk, and Stewart backed away, tripping over the barbecue, the Post reported. It was then that Sawchuk fell on top of Stewart, Weiner reportedly said, and cried out: "Oh, Jesus, I've been hurt. I have a terrible pain."

Weiner said he believed Sawchuk injured himself on the barbecue, the Post said.

Cahn said at a news conference that he had received a letter from an attorney representing Stewart, requesting that Stewart be called to testify before the grand jury.

The district attorney said Stewart would testify, but would be required to sign a waiver of immunity from prosecution before doing so.

Cahn said that although the police investigation will continue, "I have decided at this time the best interests of all involved and the ends of justice will be be served by presenting the case to the grand jury."

Cahn said he would meet privately today with Stewart and Rosemary Sassa, a nurse at Long Beach Memorial Hospital who was present at the time of the incident involving Sawchuk.

He and Miss Sassa and another witness, Benjamin Wiener, would be called to testify before tthe grand jury, along with Rangers, Manager Emile Francis and other members of the team.

Stewart's attorney, Nicholas Castellano, will attend today's meeting, Cahn said.

Niekro's Manicure Too Much For Mets

By The Associated Press

Richie Allen, Hank Aaron, Tony Perez and Johnny Bench have set many a pitcher to biting his fingernails, but when Phil Niekro does it the hitters are in the palm of his hand.

The aforementioned sluggers all played long ball Tuesday night, while pitcher Niekro used a one-hour rain delay to give himself an oral manicure and get his knuckleball under control.

Allen crashed two home runs, one a grand slam, and drove in seven runs as St. Louis thrashed San Francisco 12-1; Aaron backed Niekro's four-hit pitching with his first homer in two weeks as Atlanta downed the New York Mets 4-1; Bench drilled two homers and Perez one as Cincinnati thumped Philadelphia 7-2; the San Diego Padres blasted six Pittsburgh pitchers for 19 hits in a 14-8 slugfest and Houston tripped Montreal 6-4.

The other scheduled National League game, Los Angeles at Chicago, was rained out.

Manager Red Schoendienst returned Allen from the cleanup spot to No. 3 in the St. Louis batting order and the slugging first baseman, who hadn't homered in seven games, exploded.

He singled home a run in the first inning, belted a two-run homer in the fifth and capped the rout with his grand slam in the eighth. Backed by a 15-hit attack, Steve Carlton held the Giants to four hits—including Willie McCovey's 16th homer—and posted his first triumph since May 11.

The grand slam was the fifth of Allen's career and home run No. 18 for the season.

"The big reason for the change in the batting order," explained Schoendienst, "is getting Allen back up there to No. 3, where he can hurt people even more. I don't care if the score is 10-9 or 1-0, he's in a position now where he's going to be coming up when the game will either be won or lost."

The Mets and Braves, meeting for the first time since last year's N playoffs, were locked in a 1-1 tie when the rains came in the third inning.

"I didn't like the weather," said Niekro. "The first couple of innings I struggled. The heavy air kept pushing the ball down During the delay, I bit my fingernails down so I could get a better grip on the ball and I did a lot better."

When play resumed, the Braves went ahead in the fourth on Bob Didier's run-scoring single. Aaron, who hadn't homered since May 17, iced it in the seventh with a two-run shot, his 17th.

"A home run always feels good," said Aaron, "whether you hit 10 in a week, once a week, once a month or once a year."

Tommie Agee homered for the mets' run.

Flat Rock vs. Michigan Hotel Trenary at Gladstone

The defending league champs, the Escanaba Merchants continued their winning ways Tuesday evening, by pounding out 12 hits in posting their third straight victory of the season, by upending the Escanaba Independents 15-3.

Bill McGovern went the distance striking out 6 and scattering 4 hits to gain his second mound victory of the year. Dick Lewis and Lenny Smith shared the mound duties for the Independents with Lewis taking the defeat.

Keith Gluesing led the Merchants attack with a home run, double and a single, while Bob Corriveau added two doubles and the rest of the Merchants adding single hits.

Doug Moss led the Independents with two of the four hits off McGovern.

Action will resume tonight with two games, Flat Rock will play Michigan Hotel and Trenary will play at Gladstone.

The Escanaba Merchants will step out of the league this weekend when they travel to Marquette to take on the State Prison nine behind the walls. All Merchant players are asked to meet at Little Mike's at 4:30 Saturday for the trip to Marquette.

Country Club League Scores

For the first time since the season opened, the Big O's have dropped out of first place at the Escanaba Country Club. The Hot Rodders replace the Big O's in first with 25 points while Eis Boxes grabbed second with 23½ and the Big O's took a third this week with a 23.

Wendell Green and Bill Elliott paced the low scorers with 39's, followed by Jack Magnusen and Dr. John LeMire with 40's, Don Moll and Bill Eis Jr., 41's and Tim LeMire, Hunce Kleiman, Dick Gall and Bill Mulvaney each had 42's.

In the Best Ball play, Bill Rodman and Dick Ducheney tied with Dennis Schneider and Bill Mulvaney for first place honors with 31's, while Jim Hirn and Wendell Green tied with Bob Krohmer and Don Scott for second with 32's. Hunce Kleiman was closest to the pin on No. 7.

With the Hot Rodders, Eis Boxes and Big O's leading the league, the remaining teams follow in order: Green Berets 21½, Miller Low-Lifes 21, Finn Power 20½, CZACG's 20½, Big T's, 20, Chown's Clowns 19½ Haapies 19, Duffers 18, Gabe's Babes 17½, Hobo's 17½, Gravel Gertis 16½, Free Swingers 15 and Bonnie's 14.

On Memorial Day a overlooked score was turned in by the following: Dr. John LeMire when he chipped in a birdie 3 on the second holde; Ken Peterson when chipped in a birdie 4 on No. 6 hole; and Tom Neuman a birdie 2 on the seventh hole. Jim Zimmerman was also playing with the foursome.

Reds Owner To Testify In Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — The defense in the Curt Flood case was expected today to put on the stand Cincinnati owner Francis Dale, one of a steady stream of baseball officials testifying that the sport cannot exist without the controversial reserve system.

Mark Hughes, chief counsel for baseball's defendants, estimated it would be the end of the week or the first part of next week before the defense had exhausted its list of witnesses.

Also scheduled to testify today was John Gaherin, chief labor negotiator for the owners.

In testimony Tuesday during the case in which Flood is challenging baseball's reserve system, the defendants called Bing Devine, general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals. Devine traded Flood to Philadelphia in the transaction that provoked the suit. Also called were NBC broadcaster Joe Garagiola and Joe Cronin, president of the American League.

Devine said it was his opinion that "trading contracts of players plays a comparable roll to player development" in building a team. He revealed that the Cardinals had spent $1.75 million for player development and acquisition last year.

Devine also revealed, under cross-examination, that he had exercised the option renewal clause in the player's contract when slugger Richie Allen and pitcher Steve Carlton became holdouts with the Cards earlier in the spring.

Under the clause a player is automatically re-signed. One of the keys to Flood's suit is the contention that when a player is traded without his permission his rights are violated.

Flood also is contending that the option renewal clause enables the sport to operate in restraint of trade within the framework of the reserve system.

McLain Says He'll Be Ready On July 1

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Suspended pitching ace Denny McLain has denied published reports that he is playing golf instead of readying himself for his scheduled mound debut July 1 when the Detroit Tigers clash with the New York Yankees.

A two-inch rainfall Monday in Lakeland dictated cancellation of his scheduled late afternoon hurling practice, McLain said Tuesday in a telephone interview with a Flint, Mich., radio station. He said he threw for 30 minutes Tuesday and planned to practice batting Wednesday.

"I'm 10 days from being ready to throw for 10 innings," the 31-game winner in Detroit's 1968 season said.

"July 1 it says Denny McLain will pitch, and July 1, I'm going to pitch," he added.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn suspended McLain this spring for his alleged involvement in a Flint-based gambling operation. The suspension ends June 30.

McLain said he expected to see the Tigers, ranked in fourth place Tuesday in the American Baseball League East Division begin to win a few more ball games.

"There's too fine a personnel in that ball club to continually lose," McLain said.

He said he did not plan on leaving Lakeland until the day before the Tigers' home game with New York because he wants "to take real advantage of our weather down here."

As for the pennant, McLain said he thought Detroit could still capture it, "if we can put it all together in the next 60 days."

"This thing is almost over with, and thank God that it is," he said.

McLaren, Top Auto Racer, Dies In Crash

GOODWOOD, England (AP) — The auto racing world today mourned the death of Bruce McLaren, one of its top drivers. He died Tuesday at 32 in the crash of an experiment car of his own design.

McLaren, a New Zealander, spun out of control in the auto while driving at 180 miles per hour on the Goodwood Circuit and crashed into an earthen bank.

His MD8 sports car broke in two and exploded into flames. McLaren was dragged clear but died in minutes.

McLaren decided against personally competing at Indianapolis last month in order to ready the MD8 for his defense of the pretigious Canadian-American Series races.

His death came on the same track which ended the career of Stirling Moss in 1961. Moss survived a high-speed collision at Goodwood but hasn't raced since.

Following news of his death, the Royal Automobile Club announced that McLaren was the winner of the coveted Seagrave Trophy for his outstanding performance in winning every race in the 1969 Can-Am Challenge Cup series with cars of his own design and construction.

McLaren had registered many triumphs in auto racing but his biggest victory was considered his winning of the LeMans 24 hours race in a Ford GT40 in 1968.
